

Ian Tyson gets them stompin'

It was a pickin' and a grinnin' time and the tapping of toes when the Ian Tyson Show played at the Kiwanis Centre, Saturday, May 29.

More than 250 people greeted the international known artist who performed here to help raise money for the new Community Centre.

Mill rate up over two mills

Madoc Township mill rates have only increased a little over two mills this year. The total residential mill rate for public school supporters will be 129.76 mills of which 78.98 mills is for education and the remaining 50.78 mills for county and township purposes.

The total commercial and business mill rate is 147.50 of which 87.75 mills is for schools and the remaining 59.75 for county and township purposes.

The schools request $17,812 - more than last year, but the county's requisition is down by $10,355. Since both of these bodies require half of their requisitions by the end of June, Madoc Township will collect taxes in two instalments this year. The first instalment will be June 30 and the final will be September 30.

The evening started at 6.30 p.m. with a social hour followed by a smorgasbord which featured a variety of salads, meats, fish and desserts.

Mr. Tyson was introduced on stage after his back-up band, The Great Speckled Bird, warmed-up the near sell-out crowd. Ron Powell, president of the Kiwanis Club and organizer for the evening, said he was very happy and enthusiastic with the response given by the people who attended.

"There has never been anything this big before, and the people really responded well," he said.

He said the night was in one form a gamble since this calibre of entertainment has never been in Madoc before. "The people showed their support. It's all for the community."

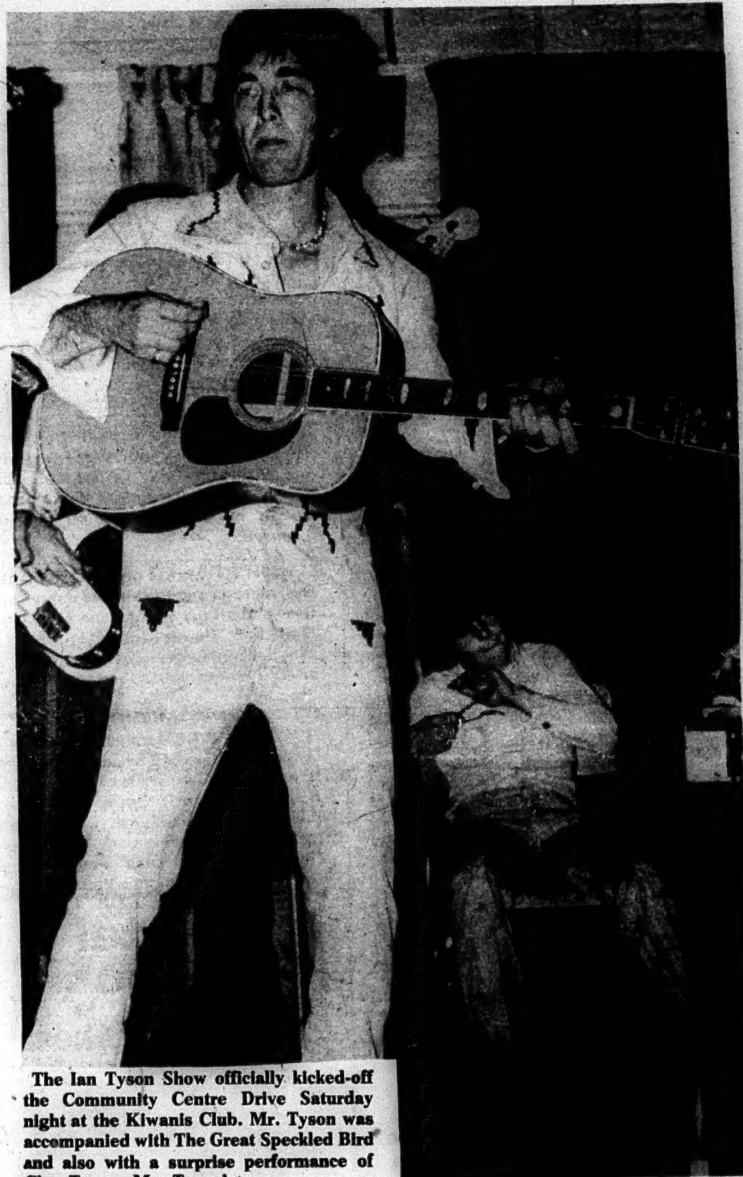

Mr. Powell said that before the evening he worried whether or not it would be successful, but "everybody seems to be having a good time."

There were 20 tickets which were not sold out the 160 total, said Mr. Powell.

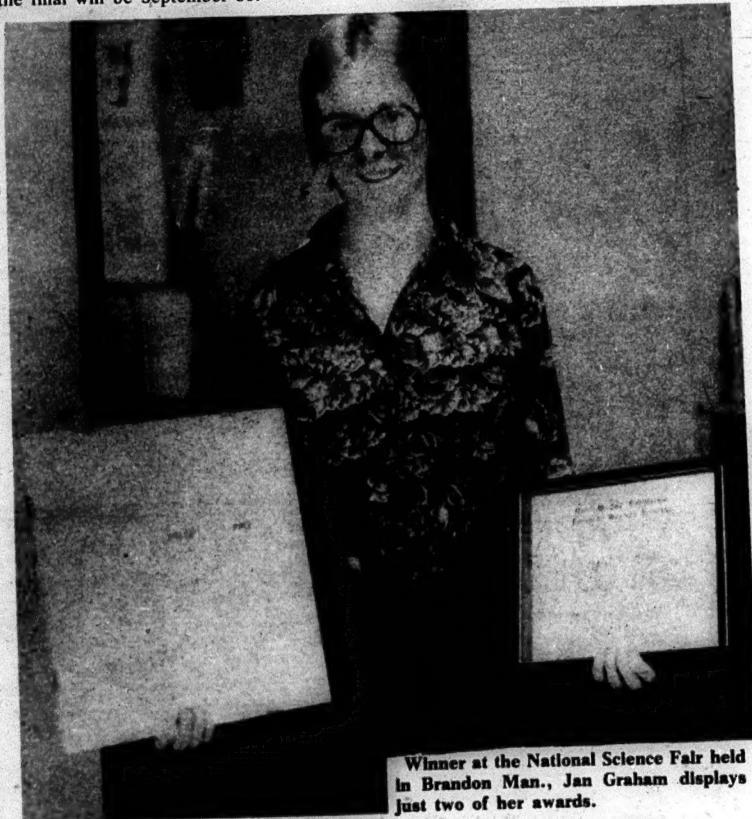

Mr. Tyson said he was happy to be in Madoc and the people responded well.

The Great Speckled Bird was the back-up band for Mr. Tyson. The members of the band are Ron Dann on steel guitar; John Allan, fiddle; Kim Brandt, bass; Dave Lewis, drums; and Georges Hebert, guitar. Mr. Tyson's son, Clay, also appeared on stage with the group.

Mr. Tyson and The Great Speckled Bird played two sets wrapping-up the evening around 1 a.m. The evening was the official kick-off for the Community Centre Fund.

The Ian Tyson Show officially kicked-off the Community Centre Drive Saturday night at the Kiwanis Club. Mr. Tyson was accompanied with The Great Speckled Bird and also with a surprise performance of Clay Tyson, Mr. Tyson's son.

Lessons in June

It will soon be that time of season again for summer relaxation and fun. To help with the activities, the Recreation Committee has organized a learn-to-swim program.

Aileen Pidgen, secretary for the recreation committee, said the swimming program will begin July 3 at the Campkin's Campground on the Quin-Mo-Lac Road.

The swimming lessons are divided into four categories, Tadpole, Junior, Intermediate and Senior. The cost for the lessons will be $5 per child with a maximum of $10 per family.

Mrs. Pidgen said registration for the program will begin in mid-June through the schools. There is no restriction of age, she said.

LOOKING BACK

with Karen Jones

I have run out of readers' contributions to this column.

So, I decided to select an item of interest from the new book, Way Back When. Actually this book is an entire collection of Looking Back. But, I don't want to have to rely on the book for my column all of the time. I would much rather have your contributions. So keep them coming in. Pictured is the original Madoc High School built in 1888. The school consisted of four rooms - an auditorium was in the attic. The school was destroyed by fire in 1934 and temporary accommodations were provided in the Armouries.

were another award presented to Miss Graham. This is known as the Grollier Award. It was presented to her for the best use of science references and thought in the experiment.

At the National Science Fair there were five categories and three divisions. Miss Graham was entered in the Environmental category which was broken into three divisions, based upon grades.

"The quality was tremendous," said Miss Graham, talking about the other displays. "It was really competitive."

Comparing the Belleville and the National fairs, the main difference was the detail in questions asked, said Miss Graham. They were of a greater detail at the national level. Some of the questions took about 20 minutes to answer, she said.

There were 134 exhibits at the Brandon competitions which represented five provinces. The majority of the students entered were from Ontario.

The display entered by Miss Graham was entitled How Air Impurities Affect Human Reflexes. In her study, Miss Graham compared the affect of cigarette smoke and ozone on the human system.

After exposing the person to one of the two chemicals they were tested on a visual perception machine which measured the time difference for reactions. Fifty people were tested.

Miss Graham found that the reaction time took longer for people exposed to cigarette smoke, than persons in a purer type of environment.

On the other hand, when ozone was in the atmosphere, the reaction time for people increased. Miss Graham noted that in the natural atmosphere, there is a .001 parts per million of ozone whereas the people tested were exposed to .55 parts per million ozone.

Ozone, said Miss Graham, is created by lighting and special types of ultraviolet lights.

The reaction time between smokers and non-smokers showed "no appreciable difference". Miss Graham also said the effects of the smoke wears off quickly.

Miss Graham gave an example. If a person took one second to react to the light, after being exposed to cigarette smoke, the reaction time would be 16 per cent longer. People exposed to ozone would react 18 per cent faster.

The project took six months to complete and the help of many people, she said. Help for the project came from such people as Jim Barry, a chemistry teacher at CHSS, Gord Figden, and some friends.

She received help to cover the expense of the project from the school which gave her $35.

In her role as secretary for the National Student Science Council, Miss Graham will have to meet once a month in Toronto to discuss the activities of students in science across Canada.

Bob Henderson, principal of CHSS, commended Miss Graham, saying she has brought a great honor not only to herself, but her school and community.

Buses will leave from the Ball Park every morning Monday through Friday at 9 a.m. and return between 12.30 p.m. and 1 p.m.

To help cover the cost of the program, the recreation committee received a $1,000 grant from the ministry of culture and recreation, said Mrs. Piddgen. This will cover the instructors' fees.

There will be two qualified people there, an instructor and guard.

The entire program is for a six week period which will allow 30 lessons. At the end of the course, the students will be tested in the Red Cross style.

Mrs. Piddgen said there will be swimming lessons for adults, but those plans are still being worked out.

Voice of the people

Fluoride treatment

Editor,

The prime purpose of this letter is to clarify the situation regarding the Fluoride Treatment Program. During the fall, this program brought clinics to seven schools with a further 15 schools to be serviced during April-June 1976.

As a result of the severe illness of our Dental Hygienist, Lynn Braun, no further Fluoride Clinics will be possible during the 75-76 school year. Our priorities must be directed to the completion of the Classroom Dental Health Education program, which will complete its objective of two visits to every classroom, kindergarten to grade eight, by mid-June.

To those 15 schools we have not been able to bring Fluoride Clinics, as well as the schools in the Belleville area, please take note that we will be holding a Summer Fluoride Clinic for two weeks, July 5-9 and Aug. 9-13, at the Belleville Health Unit office, 208 Bridge Street East. Eligibility: kindergarten to grade 3. Appointment reservations now being taken.

The Fluoride Mouth-Rinsing Program now servicing 6,300 students at 38 schools will undergo further expansion in 1976-77, hopefully reaching 10,000 students.

Around the town

Ron Hiuser

Looking at this past week, I can honestly say I enjoyed it.

The week gave me the opportunity to visit and talk with a variety of individuals whom I found talented and interesting.

To begin with, I spent a lot of the time talking to the youth of this community, and about their achievements.

For instance, Jan Graham, the Grade 11 student at Centre Hastings Secondary School, who won several awards at the National Science Fair in Brandon, Man., brought old memories back.

During the interview, I asked her for her average. She told me, but then asked if that information could be kept a secret. This puzzled me, because her average certainly isn't something to be ashamed of. Miss Graham reasoned that it would not be popular to have it known how well she was doing in school.

Her answer brought faint memories of my days in high school. I never excelled in the calibre of Miss Graham, but the people who did, when I attended school, felt the same as she. Doing well in school was always something to be proud of, but never boastful.

Nobody wants to be known as an egghead. I hope that that expression is still around. Another local activity which brought many memories back to me was the Athletic Awards assembly at the same school.

For about two hours, I watched students who had participated within the school receive recognition for their achievements. It proved to me that school spirit for the most part is still alive, and secondly how vital it is to a community of this size.

The school, and in fact, the entire educational facilities in a centre this size takes up the role of providing a place for the youth.

Too many areas suffer from not having anything for the youth.

For an area to grow, facilities which can be used by every age group have to be available. The school, with its youth, and the drive which the youth provide, can give a community life.

If you doubt this, ask yourself the question: Where would this village be without Centre Hastings Secondary School?

Clark to visit Hastings and Prince Edward

It was announced May 14 by J.R. Ellis, M.P. that Joe Clark, leader of the opposition and his wife Maureen will be visiting Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, July 14. The event will be in the form of a picnic to be held at Zwick's Centennial Park at 6 p.m. The theme is "The Return to Conservative Values". Hot Dogs and Soft Drinks will be sold for 10 cents a piece.

Planning for the major event, which is expected to draw five to six thousand people, is being handled by the City of Belleville Progressive Conservative Association under the direction of President.

George Mills. Since a heavy flow of traffic is expected, parking will not be allowed in the park for this occasion. However, free buses from several vantage points will be available to transport people to the park.

Students honored for academic achievement

On Friday, May 28, Centre Hastings secondary schools honored students for their academic achievements.

This year a group of teachers and students decided if a student maintained an average of 79.5 per cent, he or she would be eligible for an academic letter. Also introduced this year was a social events crest and if a student got 30 points over four years was eligible for this award. If a student excelled in these areas along with intramurals, and interscholastic sports they became eligible for the highest honor in the school, a school letter. This year's recipients were Joe Brooks, Joyce Brownson, Mary Ellen Thompson and Patsy Vilneff.

Exchange students honored

Thirteen Zambian young people, participants in the Inter-national Youth Exchange of the United Church of Canada were honored Tuesday, May 18, in Kingston at the annual meeting of Bay of Quinte Conference. They are part of a group of 90 young people between ages 18 and 25 years who are visiting Canada this month from six countries including Zambia.

In an informal discussion with the Zambian visitors, Rev. Bill Wells, of Northminster United Church, Peterborough, and one of the originators of the Youth Exchange Program, asked their first impressions in this first week of a four-week visit to Canada. Sample comments were: 'Young people are not very interested in worship', 'more older people attend worship here. In my country it's 50-50', 'not very many people attend church here'.

In talking to Violet Sempe, the first woman to be ordained in the United Church of Zambia, Bill Wells asked her about the numbers in her congregation. Rev. Sempe revealed that she ministers to over six churches with a combined active membership of 5,000 people. She also revealed that in Zambia, participation in worship is practised far more than is noticed so far in Canada. This may be an important clue to Canada's low church attendance generally.

The Zambian visitors were brought to the platform of McArthur College's (Queen's University) auditorium on Tuesday, May 18, on the second day of a four-day conference. With the Christian, Zambian and Canadian flags, the Zambian and Canadian national anthems were sung.

The President of Conference, Jim Burn, welcomed them to Conference and presented neck pieces on behalf of our Canadian Indians. President Burn mentioned that, "It's a great experience for us to have you in our midst." Accompanying the Zambian visitors to the platform were seven of the 90 young people who had participated in an exchange program last year. All were from churches in the Bay of Quinte Conference.

The young people present had visited Japan, Korea, Kenya, India and Hong Kong. They shared with us some of their experiences. The panel was moderated by Dr. Bill Service, another originator of the Youth Exchange program. All agreed they had grown as Christians. Elaine Kellogg and Bob Burley who went to Kenya noted that most of the people have become Christians rather than being born that way. They are proud of it and always say, "I'm a Christian", after their name. Fred Mather, who went to India, noted we must change our attitudes here because in little ways we contribute to keeping India an underdeveloped country.

The evening ended with an informal communion service involving the whole court of Bay of Quinte Conference. It symbolized Christian unity around the world.

The visitors from Zambia were: Daphno Gumbo, Josephine Charity Mununka, Setumo Ngula, Reggie Collins Kalimina, Patson Kabwe, Stanley Nyirenda, Edward Nawa Mutemua, Lillian Nzima, Charity Maiipa, Alex Sitali Masese, Annie Kangwa Mafupa, Bwalya Mwewa, Violet Sempe. On coming to the platform they sang their national anthem.

Earlier in the evening, before the youth of Zambia were honored, Rev. Elijah Lumbaba, who is a Zambian minister working here in Canada, commented on missionary work. He said, "Missionary work as we have known it for ages is out of date and coming to an end."

"More emphasis is on learning from each other - a receiving and giving at both ends." He sees this being done with the United Church of Zambia and the United Church of Canada.

Archdiocese marks 150 years

The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Kingston will mark the 150th anniversary of its establishment with a program on the weekend of June 12-13. Representatives of the church from Newfoundland to British Columbia will participate in the ceremonies, which will culminate with a Mass of Thanksgiving in St. Mary's Cathedral on Sunday, June 13, at 3 p.m.

Boy hit by auto

A 13-year-old Bannockburn boy was taken to the Madoc Medical Centre, May 28, where he was treated and released for injuries sustained when he was hit by a car, Madoc Detachment of the provincial police report.

Robert Skinkie was riding his bicycle on the Cooper Road east of Bannockburn when the accident occurred. Driver of the vehicle was Randy Donaldson of 2488-14th St., police report.

Mr. Skinkie suffered minor abrasions.

The actual date of the anniversary was January 27; it was on that date in 1826 that the area then known as Upper Canada was set off from the Diocese of Quebec and constituted the Diocese of Kingston. It was the first time after the Reformation that a Roman Catholic diocese had been set up within the British Empire. The Diocese of Quebec was founded in 1674, when Canada was a colony of France, and was allowed to continue to function when the British took over Canada in 1759.

Plans for the celebration of the 150th anniversary were inaugurated by the Diocesan Pastoral Council early in January 1974. At that time Lt. Col. Louis J. Flynn was commissioned to write the history of the Diocese, which appeared in December 1975 under the title Built on a Rock.

Individual parishes have been observing Founders' Day to honor the pioneers who started the parish, and develop an interest on the part of present parishioners in what went before in their section of the Diocese. The children in separate schools have been working on projects related to their parishes and the Diocese in conjunction with their studies of history.

Although the actual anniversary occurred on January 27, the committee in charge of arrangements decided to postpone the observance until June in the hope of having better weather and more convenient travelling.

On Tuesday and Wednesday June 8-9, the children from separate schools around the Diocese will conduct field trips to Kingston. They will be given tours of the Cathedral, including the crypt where the early bishops and some others are buried. Each afternoon there will be a children's Mass in the Cathedral at 1.30 p.m., in which the children will contribute their part to the celebration.

A feature of the celebration will be a visual presentation of the development of the Diocese in the Cathedral School and the Cathedral. In most of the parishes displays are being prepared which depict the growth in that area. These will be available for viewing by the public on Saturday and Sunday, June 12-13.

On Saturday evening, June 12, at 8 p.m., there will be a pageant in the Cathedral School auditorium depicting the development of the Diocese. It will be in the form of a narration interspersed with slides, and with a few live numbers and accompanying music.

The high point of the celebration will be the special Mass in St. Mary's Cathedral on Sunday June 13, 3 p.m. The principal celebrant will be Cardinal Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec and Primate of Canada. The homily will be given by Cardinal George B. Flahiff of Winnipeg. The Apostolic Nuncio to Canada, Archbishop Angelo Palmas, will be in attendance; as well as from 20 to 30 bishops from all parts of Canada. Archbishop J.L. Wilhelms and the priests of the Archdiocese will concelebrate with the visiting bishops. Representatives of the Federal and Provincial Governments, the City of Kingston and the Armed Forces have indicated their intention to attend. The religious sisters and the lay people from all parishes will be represented in the congregation.

Following the Mass there will be a dinner at the Holiday Inn for invited guests. There will be a social program in Macdonald Park for the people from the various parishes.

10,000 sq. miles in archdiocese

The area of the present Archdiocese of Kingston is approximately 10,000 square miles. It includes parishes from Trenton and Picton on the west to Morrisburg and Chesterville on the east; and extends from Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence River on the south to Carleton Place and the mission of Ormsby on the north.

The diocese comprises 50 parishes and 22 missions. The parish reports for 1975 indicated a total of 15,657 families and 57,612 individuals. They are being served by 74 diocesan priests and seven priests of religious orders. There are seven retired priests in the Diocese, and three diocesan clergy are working outside the Diocese at the present time. There are 306 sisters in four communities: The Congregation of Notre Dame, the Religious Hospitaliers of St. Joseph, the Sisters of Providence and the Sisters of St. Martha.

Thirty-nine of the parishes have parish councils to share in the work of administration. On the diocesan level, a Diocesan Pastoral Council was established in 1970, to bring representatives of the priests, sisters and lay people into the process of decision-making with the Archbishop.

This year, its scope has been enlarged to include one lay representative from every parish; eight priests and eight sisters, two from each of the four areas in the Diocese, and certain other key personnel. Those members living in the areas of Kingston, Belleville, Brockville and Smiths Falls form regional commissions, each of which elects two members to each of four standing committees to consider spiritual development, education, family life and social action.

There are 53 separate schools with 10,129 pupils, and 2,618 Catholic children attending public elementary schools. There are two Catholic high schools with 1,036 students; there are 4,726 Catholic students in public high schools.

Only fair at COSSA

On Tuesday, May 25, Centre Hastings Secondary School sent 15 students to COSSA Track and Field meet. CHSS did not do as well as many had expected.

The only bright spots for CHSS were Tom Sutton, fourth in hurdles; Laura Welch, sixth javelin; Wayne Willemssen, sixth, shot put; Joe Brooks, fifth, triple jump;

Scott Simpson, sixth, 1,500 m.; Neil MacLean, fourth, 1,500 m.; Kelly Welch, fifth in 400 m.; and the boys relay (400 m.) team placed fourth.

Track and field coach Barry Pyear was disappointed but said if the girls were as competitive as the boys, CHSS would have a very strong track and field team.

Tent caterpillars are set to attack

Residents of the Tweed Forest District should brace themselves for another onslaught of the tent caterpillar this year. The annual report of the Forestry Service, Environment Canada predicts heavy defoliation of forest areas in the Tweed Forest District particularly in a band along Highway 7, near Kaladar and in the Clinton and Northbrook areas. Already numerous tents of the eastern tent caterpillar (Malacosoma americanum F.) can be observed in small trees along roadsides.

The forest tent caterpillar (Malacosoma distria Bubner), a cousin to the eastern tent caterpillar is a more important enemy of the forest as its preferred hosts include popular, hard maple, oak, ash and birch rather than the cherry witch hazel, willow and other shrubs which the eastern tent caterpillar prefers.

The caterpillars emerge from egg clusters, in which they have wintered, in early May. The young larvae of the eastern tent caterpillars spin a web or tent in a nearby crotch and migrate from this tent at regular intervals during the warm parts of the day to feed on nearby foliage. The larvae of the forest tent caterpillar, on the other hand, do not spin webbs but they make a silken mat on the trunk where the congregate during periods of moulting. The forest tent caterpillars often wander in extensive hordes in search of food and cause much discomfort to residents who often have their homes literally overrun with this insect. For this reason the forest caterpillar has often been referred to as the army worm of the forest.

The caterpillars become full grown in early June. The forest tent caterpillars are then about two inches long, hairy, brownish with a slate-blue stripe along each side and a row of key-hole shaped white spots along the back. The eastern tent caterpillars are similar in appearance with the exception of a solid white stripe along the back and with many short, irregular, brownish markings along the side of each segment.

The larvae pupate under bark or stones and emerge as brown moths staying in flight from late June to early August during which time eggs are laid in groups of 100-350 cemented together into a mass which often encircles a twig. The egg clusters are covered with a sticky coating that provides protection against the weather and predaceous insects.

Outbreaks of the forest tent caterpillars occur at about ten year intervals and last from three to five years. In periods of abundance the caterpillars may completely defoliate trees. If this defoliation occurs early in the season the trees may put on a second crop of leaves. Sustained heavy defoliation results in growth reduction, twig and branch killing and even tree mortality.

The tent caterpillars are usually held in check by natural enemies such as insect parasites and predators, birds, disease and adverse weather. Ultimately, starvation in areas of heavy infestation becomes a control.

Direct control on isolated trees is effected by pruning off and burning twigs containing egg masses or tents.

Chemicals such as methoxychlor and malathion are effective for the landowner wishing to eliminate the caterpillars from a few ornamental trees on his lawn.

This is also a good time of the year for anyone with tree plantations to begin regular patrol in order to detect insect and disease pest at an early stage when they are much more susceptible to control measures.

Anyone with a tree related insect or disease problem should phone the Ministry of Natural Resources office in Tweed at 613-478-2330.

For Centre?

Money may be raised for the Community Centre Fund when people buy food and soft drinks at the concession booth in the Ball Park, this summer, said Aileen Pigden, secretary for the recreation committee.

The booth will operate on a 50-50 basis, she said. The money raised will go into the general fund of the recreation committee. Some of this money in the general fund may go towards the centre fund, Mrs. Pigden said.

The concession booth will be in operation at the park whenever there is a softball game to be played.

The booth opened May 31, for the first day of operations.

They worshipped first in a house

Another year has rolled around in the life of the Madoc Wesleyan and Free Methodist Church. For nineteen years the Wesleyan congregation has been worshipping at the location on Elgin Street, beginning first in the house which is now the parsonage and then moving to the new sanctuary completed and dedicated in 1967. In 1972 the Free Methodist congregation in Madoc joined the

No canvas for Agriculture Society

The Madoc and District Agricultural Society will not be canvassing for any money this year.

Grant Ketcheson, president of the agricultural society, said in an interview last week, this year "we're asking the people who normally give to us, to give this money to the new Community Centre Fund."

To help with the drive, which started Tuesday, June 8, the Society has given $5,000 to the fund.

(This community has been very good to the Society, said Mr. Ketcheson. For many years, the Society has asked for donations, but this year the canvass will be cancelled.

For a period of three weeks, canvassers for the Centre will be going door-to-door asking for money.

Talking about the donation of Society property for the construction of the Centre, Mr. Ketcheson said the ground belongs to the entire community and "we'd like to see it used more than just two days a year."

"There are 49 acres of prime agricultural land there. Why couldn't it get more use?" he asked.

Having the Community Centre on the Society site has two major effects, he said.

The community will save a minimum of $25,000 since there is only a small lease for the land, and the new buildings would mean the expansion of the fair's facilities.

The popularity of the fair has been growing, said Mr. Ketcheson, but added that this growth could have only gone for so long. The Society had to do something to continue the growth.

"We intend to build a more active line of thinking," said Ross Moorcroft, secretary for the Society. "This is the first time the Society has made a donation to the community."

The community has been more than generous," he said.

The Society is comprised of many rural people, but anyone who exhibits at the fair is a member, said Mr. Ketcheson. There are members from Peterborough to the Ottawa Valley, said Mr. Moorcroft.

The total in the organizing committee numbers about 50 members. There are 12 directors and between 30-40 associate directors, said Mr. Ketcheson.

The Society, along with the fair, benefits the entire community, said Mr. Moorcroft. "It makes it a better place."

The original purpose of the fair was to show the best produce and livestock, Mr. Ketcheson said. It has now basically

After announcing that the Madoc and District Agricultural Society would not be canvassing this year, President Grant Ketcheson gave a cheque of $5,000 to the Chairman of the Fund Drive, Bob Henderson.

Stirling champs at Track meet

Athletes from the area's public schools met Wednesday, June 2, for the Area School Group's Track and Field Meet.

Converging on the grounds of Centre Hastings Secondary School, Madoc, there were representatives from Madoc Public School, Madoc Township School, Tweed Public School, Stirling Public School and the two Marmora schools.

There were 10 events in the meet. It was broken into four divisions based upon age, Atom, Pee Wee, Bantam and Midget.

For the girls, the events were the 60 m. hurdles, 200., 400 m., 800 m., Long Jump, High Jump, Shot Put, 60., and 400 m. relay.

The boys had the same events with the exception of the 60 m. race. It was substituted with the Triple Jump.

In the Atom girls, Lydia Veerman, of Madoc Township School, won three firsts in the 60 m. Hurdles, 800 m. race and in the High Jump, which allowed her to be presented with the Individual Performance award for her category in the meet.

Another student from Madoc Township School, G. McKewen won the 100 m. race.

Two of the events, 200 m., and 400 m., was won by Tweed student, C. Uens.

Three of the events, 100 m., 200 m., and 60 m., was won by Tweed student, Susan Findlay.

Madoc school student, Petra Veerman won two events - the 800 m. and Long Jump. Another Madoc school student, Mary Courneyea, had the best Shot Put.

Stirling students wrapped-up the other two events. Alyson Briggs placed first in the High Jump, while N. Mumby took the 400 m. race.

The award for the best individual achievement for the meet was given to Susan Findlay, of Tweed.

Kathy Tedford of Stirling had the best over-all results in the Bantam category. She won first place in the 100 m., 200 m. and 400 m., while placing a second in the 800 m. race.

Stirling students also took first in the 60 m. Hurdles by Joan Lanigan, Shot Put by Amy Lutgendorf, and 60 m. race by Kathy Finnessey.

Madoc Public School student, Kim Taylor, won the 800 m., while Charlene Lockwood, of Tweed, took the Long Jump, and Marnie Welch, of Marmora, took the High Jump.

For the Midget girls, the over-all individual winner was Stephanie Taylor, of Stirling. She took first place in the 100 m., 200 m. and 400 m.

"And don't drop it!", may be just what they're thinking. Students from around the area gathered on the grounds of Centre Hastings Secondary School to take part in the Area School Group's track and field meet. Stirling Public School was the champions over-all.

Youth charged following fire

A juvenile has been charged with mischief following a fire May 31 at the Box Factory of Baldwin St., here. The Madoc detachment of the provincial police laid the charge Tuesday, June 1.

Firemen of the volunteer force answered the fire call at 8:45 p.m. The blaze, reports Bob Kirkwood, fire chief, was in the lower level of the two-story building. It was used for storage by Cash and Carry Building Suppliers.

The 16-man crew were at the scene for one hour before the fire was under control. Damage was considered minor.

O'Hara Mill site being spruced up

The O'Hara Mill pioneer site north-west of here is being spruced up for another season of visitors by students hired this year by the Moira River Conservation Authority, owners of the site. The area is one of the prize possessions of the authority. Helping with the O'Hara preparations are among the assignments for students hired under the provincial government's Experience '76 environmental summer jobs program.

Some 16 university and college students already have been grouped into various project teams and are already at work - or at least organizing their tasks - throughout the watershed. Secondary school students will go to work later when school is out. The O'Hara Mill site is among the most visible of such projects - since its facilities are a major public attraction during warm weather months.

In Madoc Township, about three miles northwest of the village, the mill site is also a prime and peaceful setting for outdoors activities and relaxation. Its acreage includes nature trails and picnic areas scattered around the placid mill pond, to which many fishermen flock for a relaxing afternoon or evening of fishing for trout.

Upper Canada was in Diocese

The area of Upper Canada which was included in the Diocese of Kingston when it was established in 1826 now comprises three archdioceses and eleven dioceses of the Latin Rite; and one Eparchy of the Ukrainian Rite.

M. Barton chairman for county Deanery

The regular meeting of St. John's ACW was held at the home of Annette Taylor, June 3, with 12 members present. After the devotional prayers were said for the sick and bereaved of the community, led by Kay Thompson. A reading was given Shirley Rose. "A prayer for peeling potatoes".

Two invitations were read, one from Marmora UCW to their "Four Seasons" bazaar and another from St. John's, Stirling ACW to their "Come-Along" bazaar, July 5. The next meeting of our ACW will be held at the home of Mrs. Mitts, September 7, Tuesday, to open our winter meetings.

Several attended a church service of the area deanery in St. John's church, Stirling. Mary Barton has accepted the position of chairman of the Hastings Deanery Area.

A date is being considered for a get-together of the Guild members, with the ACW members for a social time. News and pictures of our Korean foster child were shown and discussed.

A demonstration on flower arrangements of both real and artificial flowers was given and was interesting and educational. This was given by "Delta" of the Delta flower shop in Madoc. Appreciation was expressed by Kay Thompson.

After the meeting closed with prayer, a lunch and social time was held.

The first division of the Diocese of Kingston came in 1841, when the Diocese of Toronto was formed, to include all of Southern Ontario west of Durham County. Six years later the Diocese of Ottawa was formed, taking away a portion of Kingston Diocese to the north. Then in 1856 the area of Toronto was divided and the Dioceses of Hamilton and London set up; in 1870 Toronto became an Archdiocese, the centre of an ecclesiastical province, with Hamilton and London as its suffragan sees.

In January 1874, Kingston suffered another dismemberment, when the section of Ontario west of Hastings County and extending into Northern Ontario was cut off and made the Vicariate Apostolic of Northern Canada. In 1882, it became the Diocese of Peterborough.

On December 28, 1889, Kingston was made the metropolitan see of a new Church province, with Peterborough as a suffragan. Exactly one month later the area consisting of the Counties of Stormont and Glengarry were cut off from Kingston and constituted the Diocese of Alexandria, also a suffragan in the Province of Kingston.

In 1882, the area of the Upper Ottawa Valley and a portion of Northern Ontario as well as section of Lower Canada east of the Ottawa River became the Vicariate Apostolic of Pontiac, and was attached to the Archdiocese of Ottawa as a suffragan when the Province of Ottawa was set up in 1886. The Vicariate became the Diocese of Pembroke in 1898.

The Church Province of Kingston received its last member in 1904, when a portion of Northern Ontario was cut off from Peterborough and made the Diocese of Sault Ste. Marie.

As the population of Northern Ontario grew, new dioceses were established at Timmins in 1915 (it had been the Vicariate of Temiskaming from 1908); at Hearst, a Vicariate in 1920 and a Diocese in 1938; at Moosonee, The Vicariate of James Bay in 1938, and a Diocese in 1967.

The Diocese of Fort William, now Thunder Bay, was set up in 1952, and attached to the Province of Toronto. Then in 1958 the Niagara Peninsula was cut off from the Archdiocese of Toronto, and constituted the Diocese of St. Catharines.

Up to 1948 the only jurisdiction of the Ukrainian Rite in Canada was in Winnipeg. That year, due to the growth of population three other eparchies were set up, in Edmonton, Saskatoon and Toronto.

When the Diocese of Kingston was founded 150 years ago, in Upper Canada there were six parishes, ten priests, and a Catholic population of about 30,000. Now, in the same geographic area, there are 991 parishes, 2,797 priests and a Catholic population of 2,178,000.

55 members meet

Fifty-five members of the Senior Citizens' Club 473 met Monday, May 26, in an afternoon meeting in the church parlour. The President, Grace O'Rourke, welcomed all present.

The meeting was opened with The Lord's Prayer in unison, followed with a poem, Time When Your Prayer Comes True. The Senior Citizens will be looking after the Information Booth through July and August.

Reports were given by Mrs. O'Rourke and Viola Wannamaker of the Seminar at Centennial Secondary School, Belleville, held May 15. Seven members attended this seminar. There were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Blackburn, Sadie Yearwood, Grace O'Rourke, Viola Wannamaker, Mrs. George Graham and Mrs. Beatty.

The rest of the afternoon was spent playing games. Ruby Hamilton won the door prize.

The meeting was closed by singing The Queen.

The program convenors for June are Ruby Hamilton, Mary Ward, Sadie Yearwood, Dora Roshorn, Robert Wood, Reta Allore, Prudence McCoy, Francis Taylor, Catherine Mulrooney and Elizabeth McIntosh.

The hostess for June 9 will be Luella Barker, William and Gladys Bandy, Delbert and Anna Carman, Nina Chapman, Loreen Connor, Francis Cassidy and Francis Donaldson.

Lunch was served following the meeting.

Fair to have games and sports

"Games, sports activities and health education displays are the major components of the hospital-community fair," said Mrs. S. Bochnek, hospital board member and chairman of the Hospital's 90th anniversary public relations committee.

The fair, which will be held on Sunday, June 13, from 1 to 5.30 p.m. at Zwick's Island, Belleville, will promote 'quality of life' in the Quinte region. Exhibits by many community based health organizations, fitness testing and demonstrations by Health and Welfare Canada, Canadian Forces Medi-evac Helicopter, games for children and musical entertainment are just a few of the planned activities.

"The fair is truly a community-hospital event, as the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the fair and the Recreation Department and Parks Board are actively assisting in the organizing and planning of the fair," notes Mrs. Bochnek.

"Inspired by Marc La Londe's Minister of Health and Welfare, document, 'The New Perspective on the Health of Canadians,'" says Mrs. Bochnek, "this fair will show citizens how altering their lifestyles may lead to a more fruitful and fulfilling way of life."

Ron Huser

Before I start with anything else, I'd like to take the time to apologize to Kathy Lee of Madoc, Kathy, as many of you probably know, was in the Review identified as Mary Lou Palmateer.

Miss Palmateer, granted, is a fine athlete because she took the award for the best junior girl over-all.

Miss Lee, allow me to give some background, won the Most Valuable Player award for Senior Girls' Basketball and the best Senior Athlete award, over-all. Congratulations!

To the other athletes who won awards the same applies - congratulations! You've earned it.

To the rest of you who tried but were not given the award for individual achievement, don't give up. There will be next year. And regardless of how corny it might sound, practice does make perfect. Well, at least it improves.

On another subject, the UFO scene seems to be alive and kicking again.

Over this past weekend, a team of investigators from Reptune UFO Research in Toronto visited our area. They came here to check out the story which appeared in The Review May 26.

I met them Saturday afternoon and filled them in on all the information I had. The team, approximately 10 researchers plus a reporter from the Toronto Sun journeyed to a variety of spots where these holes were reported.

The next day I heard that the research team decided that the holes were made by the landing gear of an UFO. Upon the ascent of the craft, soil was forced up and dropped approximately 21 feet away.

The team also concluded that the UFO's were in this area because of the mineral deposits of uranium and gold at Deloro and Eldorado, respectively.

Reptune UFO Research has been in operation for about two years with its head office in West Hill, Ontario, a suburb of Toronto. It was started by Dennis Prophet who was a veteran with the Royal Canadian Air Force and presently owns Reptune Service Centre.

In talking with Mr. Prophet, he said, he did not have any former interest in UFO's until he had a sighting in 1974.

Since starting Reptune UFO Research, Mr. Prophet has had literally thousands of people inquiring about sightings and offering information.

Members from the research team said they would send the results of their findings once all the tests have been completed.

Quality of health care questioned

"To obtain the total quality of health care is not easy for most people," said Dr. Jan Duszka, New Democratic Party health critic and MPP for the Parkdale riding in Toronto. He spoke at the annual meeting of the Hastings-Peterborough NDP riding association, held in Marmora Wednesday May 26.

The current system has resulted in some areas of the province having a high ratio of doctors to patients.

Dr. Duszka said one way of equalizing this ratio is to move the doctors away from the major centres. He noted that in Toronto, there is one doctor for every 400 people whereas in the area north of Sudbury, one doctor has about 1,400 patients.

The present situation has resulted from the attractiveness of the bigger cities to provide major medical facilities, said Dr. Duszka.

"If we have to change, we should, but the government won't tell them," said the doctor.

The doctors are paid by the public and they receive an annual average salary of $42,000, he said. With this cost in mind and taking into consideration that the community has to pay $250,000 to train a specialist, Dr. Duszka said the doctor becomes a "valuable piece of property."

A Toronto man has been charged with failing to share roadway following a two car accident Saturday night of the Glen Allen Park Road, Madoc detachment of the provincial police report.

Charged is Mark Thompson, 17, police said.

Driver of the second car was Douglas Stocker, 50, also of Toronto. Police report he was west-bound.

Damage to the Stocker car is estimated by police at $450 while the Thompson car was $250. There were no injuries.

As a party, he said, they are not against the free enterprise system, but they "must change resources so most people can get it."

One method noted by Dr. Duszka would be the creation of community health centres which would be under the control of the locality.

A major field where the government has not acted upon is its research into occupational health problems. "The government is very reluctant to do something about it," said the doctor.

In some industries which deal in silica or asbestos, health problems for the workers may not appear until after they retire, he said. What may start as a little cough, may turn out to be some form of cancer, he said.

Dr. Duszka said that even families who have a member working with asbestos show the same percentage of cancer growth as do the actual employees.

20 percent of teachers show for meeting

One hundred teachers out of a 500-member Hastings Division of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers'

Federation (OSSTF) showed up at its annual meeting in CHSS here last Thursday night, May 27, but executive members say it does not indicate apathy among its members.

Ross Allan, newly-elected president of the Hastings Division, said in an interview after the meeting that the annual affair was mainly administrative and most teachers had been informed of the business prior to the meeting.

He said, it does not indicate a lack of interest in the federation because teachers will support the federation activities during the year and respond in large numbers when there is a serious issue to be solved.

Euchre party

Senior Citizens of Marmora played ten tables at their weekly euchre party. Ladies high, Elsie Neal; second, Kathleen Jones; gent's high, Frank Elmhurst; second, John Eggett; ladies low, Letha Colden; gent's low, John Fraser; lucky chair prize, Mrs. Frank Elmhurst.

Wants spending limit

Hastings County's 500 secondary school teachers will ask the provincial executive of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF) to keep their spending increases to eight per cent next year.

The teachers met in Madoc on Thursday night, May 27, at the annual division OSSTF meeting held at Centre Hastings Secondary School. Those present voted overwhelmingly to restrict the federation budget increases to eight per cent on most of their projects unless permission is given by a majority of the 34,000 members across the province.

Recently, the OSSTF imposed a special levy of $120 a year on its members plus the regular fee of $9 per $1,000 of salary. Many teachers opposed the increase. A teacher in the county making an average salary of $17,000 pays about $270 a year in fees, including the special levy.

Up-coming weddings main items of business

Five up-coming weddings, four of which will be before the end of July, were the main items of business at the general meeting of Sacred Heart Catholic Women's League held in the parish hall, on Tuesday evening, June 1. After discussion on the matter, it was decided that the catering plans would be left to the executive and the group leaders, who would meet at the home of the President on June 16.

Reverend Father Murphy, spiritual director, opened the meeting with prayer. President-elect, Marion Mahoney, welcomed all present, especially the new members, and introduced the new executive: 1st vice-president, Cathie Oliver; 2nd Vice-president, Karen Cassidy and relected secretary and treasurer, Carol Parauik and Monica Tobin, respectively.

Following the regular business, correspondence was read. Of particular interest was a note from Marmora CWL informing the Madoc ladies that the name of Helen Murphy has been forwarded to the Benedictine Monks of St. Benedict's Abbey in Benet Lake, Wisconsin, for enrolment in their Golden Book.

Margaret Murphy and Karen Cassidy volunteered to serve as membership conveners. Karen collected 17 membership dues at the meeting. The ladies will be accepting memberships after Mass on Sunday.

It was decided to appoint a program convener for each meeting. Ennie Mahoney offered to prepare a program for the next general meeting, to be held in September. It was also decided that there would be a lunch committee appointed for each meeting and that the tea and treats would be served during the business portion of the meeting to avoid late nights.

The members observed one minute of silence in memory of Immediate Past President, the late Helen Murphy.

Father Murphy, in closing the meeting stressed the need for all to work together during the busy weeks ahead. It was decided that the teenage girls of the parish would be asked to help serve at the weddings.

changed to one of entertainment.
The fair also gives the urbanites a chance to see what's going on in agriculture.
Mr. Moorcroft said the fair promotes and enhances the cultural and educational facilities in the community.
Last year, the fair presented George Hamilton the IV as entertainment. This year, a band from Winnipeg, Dusty Lee Rivers, will play. The price of entry will be the same as last year, $1.50. This includes the admission to the grounds, exhibits and the stage entertainment. "Could I get a bargain like that in the Dominion of Canada," said Mr. Moorcroft.
The agricultural society started in 1905, and in 1922, paid $3,000 for the present site. "If the community centre has to purchase the land, you're talking a minimum of $25,000 for the site. And it would cost more if it was already serviced," said Mr. Ketcheson.

"We believe this is a good thing and gives us a chance to help the community," said Mr. Ketcheson.

Mul-lan it over...

with Dop Mullan

WE LIKE TO KILL them. Yes, sir, kill them! In fact, we like to hit them so hard, blood goes splattering all over the place. But it seems for every one we kill, another dozen takes its place, and this year, at least, there's to be no victory. We're doomed, doomed, doomed. 'Them' are this year's crop of mosquitoes.

They're big, they're fat, they're juicy, they're mean, and we've never seen so many of them. And their drillers? Wow! They hit you high, they hit you low. And everywhere inbetween.

And there's no escaping them. They're not only attacking all night, as usual, but they've got a day shift in operation too.

Be it chilly and damp, or hot and sunny, their 24-hour surveillance is going full tilt, and once their radar has you spotted, look out - run for all you are worth.

DURING OUR RECENT trip to Europe, we had none of the mosquitoes and black fly nonsense.

In fact, we were absolutely amazed to find so many homes with no screens on their windows at all.

The insect problem there was nil during our visit.

But it isn't always that way. A friend from Alberta, serving at the Canadian Forces Base in Baden-Baden, Germany, told us it was a bit too early for them, and that they'd be out later. But not in the numbers we have 'em here.

If you have a good solution as to how to get rid of them, drop us a line. We'd like to hear from you...before it is too late.

We've already donated enough blood to the critters to keep Belleville General Hospital going through at least one major operation, and we'd like to keep what's left for ourselves.

ONE OF THE INTERESTING features of our trip to Germany, France, Switzerland and Austria, was the way the people of those nations made use of the available land.

We saw no huge farms like we have here; instead, many of the people settled for little plots, about 25 feet across, and perhaps 150 feet long.

They'd erect a little shed at one end, and work every square inch of the best, through the planting of vegetables, flowers and perhaps a fruit tree or two.

The shed served as a place to store tools, and a retreat from the cities and towns. Fixed up to look very attractive, they had curtains on windows, flower boxes on sills, and tables and chairs inside.

Families would visit them on occasional weeknights, usually always on summer weekends, and oft times during annual vacations - "the poor man's holiday", bur German guide explained.

As land in our country gets more expensive, and people can no longer afford either single family or duplex dwellings in the cities, nor cottages in the country, such plots could well come into big popularity here.

It's only a matter of time, the way we see it, anyhow.

WE'RE AMAZED at how many people would like to send their children to a summer camp this year, but are having trouble finding one they can afford.

Prices have really jumped at most camps, with parents telling us many are running into the $90 to $110, a week range - wow, talk about inflation.

Of course, with the minimum wage continually on the rise, and the price of foodstuffs being what they are, along with just about everything else, price hikes are almost common everyday practice at some place or another.

In an effort to give youngsters who can't afford such prices the opportunity of getting away from the city, town or village, by spending a few days in the country this year, we're offering a special weekly package of pony rides, swimming, boating, fishing, campcraft, etc., for only $45, a week, for boys and girls, 14 years of age and under.

Anybody interested in more information can write for a brochure by dropping a note to P.O. Box 515, Marmora, Ontario. "I've tried all over the place to find something we could afford," one anxious mother told us over the weekend.

"And until we found out about your place, we thought we'd have to give up on the whole idea."

There are other camps offering reasonable rates - but trying to find one isn't easy, and when one does, they're usually all booked up.

OUCH! There go those darn mosquitoes again. Help.....?

Textiles council topic

The effect of low cost imported textiles on the Canadian textile industry will be discussed as Hastings County Council meets in the county council chamber Tuesday, June 22, at 10 a.m.

A resolution from the County of Lennox and Addington will touch off debate on the topic.

It calls for the County of Hastings, and others, to back it in requesting the federal minister of industry, trade and commerce, the Hon. Jean-Luc Pepin, to hasten implementation of the immediate and long-term remedial action necessary to bring the textile trade in Canada to an acceptable level.

The Canadian textile industry is in serious trouble, the County of Lennox and Addington points out, as evidenced by large lay-offs in two main fibre producing plants in this area and cut-backs in expansion of facilities and a slow down in production of output.

In other business, the Hastings County Council will be asked to consider resolutions calling for:

1- the province to revise the equalization factors to compare with present property value.

2- the province to be petitioned to provide additional funds under the tile drainage act to increase productivity of farmland.

3- the backing of the Pilots' Association in its stand to recognize the English language as the international language for air flight control.

DESPITE THE ATMOSPHERE

We keep on breathing!!!!

We keep breathing... Twenty-four hours a day.

That's the kind of commitment that faces most people involved in the Ministry of the Environment's air pollution index system.

One of them is Keith Heidorn whose job title is duty meteorologist. Translated, that means he's on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

"If any of our monitoring stations reports a reading of 32 or greater, I provide the headquarters for the index system in Toronto with weather forecast for the next six hours," says Keith. "That call can come anytime, day or night. Once our section established information on wind velocity and direction, we can determine if the reading is likely to continue or increase. If it is, then further steps can be taken."

As one of four staff meteorologists attached to the air quality and meteorology section of the Ministry of the Environment in Toronto, Keith's main job is to forecast wind direction and velocity over the main industrial centres in Ontario from more than six weather forecasting sources from across the province.

Information on wind velocity and direction is critical in the implementation of the Ministry's index and alert system established in March 1970. The index is based on combined concentrations of sulphur dioxide and suspended particulate matter - a combination which has known adverse health effects.

If the index reaches 32 in any of the monitored centres - Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, Niagara Falls, Welland, Sudbury and Coniston - Keith determines if prevailing weather conditions indicate the situation is likely to persist. If it is, then major sources of the pollution are advised and they begin voluntary cutbacks.

At a level of 50, the Ministry can order a 25 per cent cutback and a 50 per cent cutback is ordered at an index of 75. When the index reaches 100, prolonged exposure can mildly affect the health and comfort of healthy persons and can have more extreme effects on people with respiratory conditions.

At that point the Ministry can order all operations not essential to health or safety to cease operation.

Because Keith may be called upon to make these predictions at any time,

Federal Grits flex muscles for 1978 vote

The next federal election is still about two years away, but area Liberals are starting to prepare for it now.

A founding meeting to elect the first slate of officers for the new federal riding of Hastings-Frontenac has been slated for the Madoc Hotel, Saturday, June 19, at 2 p.m.

It will be open to all people interested in joining the federal Liberal Party in the new federal constituency.

A huge riding, it stretches all the way from north of Bancroft to Marmora on the West, Napanee to the south and Frontenac County on the east.

Locally, and in the district, the new riding contains the Villages of Marmora, Madoc and Deloro, the Townships of Marmora, Madoc, Elzvir, Grimsthorpe, Tudor, Kaladar and Sheffield.

The Villages of Tweed and Stirling, along with the Townships of Hungerford, Huntingdon and Rawdon, were originally slated to be in the new riding, but have now been removed. Tweed and Hungerford will join the new Prince Edward riding, and Stirling and Rawdon, will join the Northumberland riding.

Progressive Conservative members represent the areas at present. Jack Ellis, MP Hastings will seek re-election in the Prince Edward riding, Doug Altenbrack, MP Lennox, Addington and Frontenac, in the Hastings-Frontenac riding and Allan Lawrence in the Northumberland riding.

No Liberal or NDP candidates have been nominated to contest any of them as yet, but organizations in all three ridings are currently being organized.

Tory conventions will also have to be held to either re-nominate a sitting member, or to elect a new one.

Commission Marmora man into the lay apostolate

A Marmora man has been commissioned into the lay apostolate in the Anglican Church of Canada.

Don Mullan, a weekly newspaper columnist, who also writes for this newspaper, was commissioned in the chapel of the Anglican Conference Centre, in Aurora, following presentation of the bishop's diploma.

He was one of 11 people to be commissioned in an experimental lay ministry project sponsored by the national church, and organized by the Diocese of Toronto.

The lay ministers in the project will work in a number of areas - Mr. Mullan assisting the rectors of the Parish of Marmora in Ontario Diocese and the Parish of Hastings in Toronto Diocese.

He is also going to be working with youth, organizing a new non-denominational young peoples group called Crusaders, and running summer camping programs for members.

A new non-denominational Christian news-magazine, called The Christian Crusader, will also come under his direction.

Others in the project are going to be working as assistants to clergy, as a chaplain at a summer camp, as a mother to young men just released from prison, as a visitor to senior citizens, etc.

Bishop Allan Read, in conducting the commissioning service, noted that "all the people share in God's ministry. You are going out to be the hands of Jesus, and to show others that they too have gifts for the work of the ministry, and that they should share in it."

weather forecasts are an around-the-clock preoccupation.

"The worst calls are the ones at 3 or 4 a.m.," says Keith. "But somehow after lots of practice I can get to the phone on the first ring before it wakes up my wife and kids."

The person making the call would be one of five technicians who provide non-stop monitoring of API readings which are telemetered to the Toronto headquarters from the six industrial centres.

Of the technicians who provide non-stop service for the index alert system, the section's air quality analyst Don Thomas said, "They've got a soul-destroying job, working all night by themselves. But it's also a pressure job because you can't afford to make mistakes when you're taking action that could lead to an industry cutback or shutdown. There are enormous costs involved."

"It's an eerie feeling to be tucked away in this small room when you know the entire building is empty," said former technician Dave Seymour. "Let's just say that when you're working the night shift, it's not good to have too active an imagination."

Idea sparks controversy

Six or eight months ago, this corner suggested that some farmers would be happier if they could do the work of the technicians now employed by artificial insemination units.

The idea sparked considerable controversy. The suggestion wasn't original. It came, in fact, from a dairy farmer who suggested that farmers get it in the ear because they eventually have to pay the shot to keep the technicians on the road, pay their salaries and expenses.

A quote used at the time was: "These technicians don't need to be paid to gallop all over Ontario inseminating cows."

I suggested at the time that few farmers would write in support of the plan but the artificial breeding units would reply with courtesy and restraint. They did. A few replies did come from farmers and there seemed to be some points on both sides of the story.

Western Ontario Breeders Inc. invited me to their headquarters near Woodstock for a half-day of information. A week or two later, Don Fortune, director of information and promotion for United Breeders Inc. with headquarters near Guelph, wrote a lengthy letter and even came to see me about the idea. So many other things have been happening on the farm front that I haven't been able to get around to acknowledging the letter until now.

United Breeders, said Mr. Fortune, were one of the first units in Canada to sponsor a do-it-yourself course for farmers.

"But the idea of farmers inseminating their own cows with semen stored at the farm is viewed with mixed emotions by governments, breed associations, AI groups and farmers, too," said Mr. Fortune. "It allows the farmer-breeder to inseminate at the most convenient time — for him — usually milking time. But the success or failure of this method rests squarely on the farmer's shoulders. Every ampule of semen used represents an out-of-pocket cost to him alone and, therefore, he tends to tighten up his breeding management. All this is good."

It does mean that bull semen must be stored in unsupervised locations which creates a lot of problems. A couple of years ago an individual in the United States was found guilty of turning ampules of mis-identified semen into a quick profit. Quick work by the government and insemination unit officials prevented the same thing happening in Ontario and resulted in more restrictive legislation.

Some great technical breakthroughs are expected in the next few years, said Mr. Fortune.

The use of hormones to control heat periods is rapidly developing. This will allow a dairy farmer, for instance, to bring, say, 20 heifers in heat in one day. Then the question really doesn't need an answer. Most farmers will opt for a professional technician to be there to do the job all in one visit instead of taking a chance on doing his own work.

Speaking about the poor profit-and-loss picture painted by most of the breed units last year, Mr. Fortune said: "Like our farmer-members we are subject to the fluctuations of the agricultural economy and, like them, we have to be over-invested at certain times as we currently are on the beef side ... (but we'll) have a topnotch group of beef sires available for the golden age of the beef business which will emerge over the next two or three years."

"Speaking of golden ages, what is going to happen when the price of cull cows rises and all those milk cows that have been held off the market become meat? The current concern over milk surpluses will be looked back upon with total disbelief just as the concern about beef shortages in the early 1970's is looked upon today."

"Despite these re-evaluations ... we Canadians continue to look upon the food business as a short-term thing. The banker tells us we should have six months' income stored away for emergency yet if the nation has six weeks' food supply ahead, we are in a desperate surplus situation."

"The food business and our related businesses are long term. We don't opt out when the going is rough. We aim toward more efficiency in various ways and hope to recoup our losses 'next year.'"

It is certainly not a very hard-headed outlook. But for that outlook the consumer can be thankful. And thank you, Mr. Fortune and United Breeders Inc.

New milk quota system

TORONTO - In order to keep milk quota values in the Province of Ontario at a realistic level and to stimulate the movement of market-sharing quota to milk producers, the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, today, discontinued its existing quota transfer system and replaced it with a new system to commence June 1.

In announcing the change, the Chairman of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, George R. McLaughlin, said that the Board has decided to purchase all quotas offered for sale and will sell both Market-Sharing Quota and Group I Pool Quota.

"After May 15," he said, "the Board will purchase all Group I Pool quota offered for sale in the Southern Ontario Pool paying $16.00 per pound for it and will sell it at that price to those producers wishing to purchase it. Effective June 1, the Board will purchase all unused Market-Sharing Quota offered for sale by producers in all pools in Ontario."

"This is the first time since the Board established a quota system for producers," Mr. McLaughlin continued, "that the Board has come between the buyers and sellers of quota and the new system will be in effect for the remainder of the 1976-77 dairy year, which ends March 31, 1977. Early in 1977, the Board will evaluate the quota situation and will determine whether to revert to the old system or modify the new system."

Of particular concern to the Board is that many producers will be short of Market-Sharing Quota early in the year, will produce over their quota, and will be subject to the over-quota levy of $8.60 per hundredweight of milk established by the Federal Government in mid-April.

Labour lacks responsibility

By KENNETH McDONALD

Despite an outward show of solidarity, the Canadian Labour Congress is badly divided. While the leadership demands "an equal share with business and Government in economic and social decision-making", militant members are trying to tear society apart.

The CLC represents only one-fifth of the Canadian work force and one-quarter of its members are civil servants whose jobs are threatened by cutbacks on government spending because of inflation. The militancy of civil service unions was illustrated at the recent CLC conference. A spokesman for the Canadian Union of Public Employees said it "would take all its members out on strike and keep them out to change the law and society".

Regarding its claim that the AIB can more easily control wages than prices, the CLC has a legitimate point. The AIB can monitor costs and prices of domestic companies. But multi-national corporations can beat the system by assigning arbitrarily higher costs to items sold to Canadian subsidiaries. These higher costs can then be used to justify higher prices.

But when the CLC speaks of labour's "losses incurred in the control period" it sets up a straw man. In February, March and April this year, union wage increases on new contracts averaged 14 per cent higher in annual base pay. But the Consumer Price Index for the same three months was only 9 per cent above last year. If anyone's falling behind it isn't the unions. It's not the workers who are threatened, but the leaders in their struggle with union militants.

When the CLC calls for a general strike, for political action and for more union power, it threatens the majority: 55 to 60 per cent of Canadian workers neither belong to unions, nor work for big companies or for the government.

If the public and the government allow themselves to be blackmailed by political strikes, the democratic process will be destroyed. This could lead to similar action by others, for example a tax strike by the small business community, as in Belgium and France. Many members of the Canadian Federation of Independent Business have pointed to successful militant action by small business in other countries as means to relieve their harassment by unions and governments.

Cooking...

...with Betty Thain

Here today, gone tomorrow strawberries. The season is all too short for these delicious berries. The first berries of the season are best eaten 'au-naturel' - a large bowl of them, sprinkled with a little sugar and topped with cream.

The two recipes I'm giving you today are perfect for guest meals. The first 'Strawberry Flan Dessert' makes use of fresh strawberries, and if you use a bought flan cake, can be prepared in a matter of minutes. If you own a flan pan, prepare a nine ounce white cake mix according to package directions. The second recipe 'Strawberry Swirl' is one which you should clip for future use, as it uses frozen strawberries. It can be prepared a day ahead and is delicious as well as very attractive.

LESLE'S STRAWBERRY FLAN DESSERT

- 1 Flan Cake
- 1 small strawberry jello powder
- 1 cup hot water
- 1/2 pint whipping cream
- Fresh strawberries

Add 1 cup of boiling water to jello powder and stir until all crystals are dissolved. Let partially set in refrigerator. Slice fresh berries on top of flan cake. Pour jelly over strawberries on cake. If the jelly has not set too much it will run into the cake which makes it taste even more delicious. Let this set in refrigerator until jelly sets completely. Whip cream until it forms stiff peaks. Add 1/4 cup of sugar and 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Frost cake completely with whipping cream and garnish with whole berries.

This recipe can also be used for different kind of fruit. I often make a peach flan using fresh peaches and a peach yellow powder. Raspberries or cherries are other possibilities.

STRAWBERRY SWIRL

- 1 1/4 cups graham wafer crumbs

- 1/4 cup melted butter
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- Blend the above together and bake in 9 x 12" baking pan for five minutes at 300 degrees F. Cool.
- 2 cups defrosted strawberries (2 packages)
- 3 ounce package strawberry jello powder
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1/2 pound marshmallows
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 cup whipping cream

Dissolve jello in boiling water. Drain strawberries and add enough water to the juice to make 1 cup.

Add this to the jello and let partially set. Add strawberries. Combine marshmallows and milk. Heat in double boiler over simmering water until marshmallows are melted. Cool.

Fold in whipped cream and add to strawberry mixture. Swirl and pour over graham wafer crust. Let set overnight. Sprinkle a few graham cracker crumbs on top.

AT ZIEBART... YOU DON'T PAY $160. FOR AN $80. RUSTPROOFING JOB (NOT LIKE AT SOME CAR DEALERS)

When most car dealers arrange rust protection for your new car this is how it works. They send your car to a wholesale rustproofing and then charge you double of what they pay to him. What this means in dollars and cents is that the car dealer pockets as much as $80.00 on a $160.00 job. In other words you pay $160.00 for $80 worth of rust protection. We at Zeibart have a different philosophy, instead of giving $80.00 to the car dealer we invest it in rust protection of your new car. Our 22 year's experience has taught us that you cannot cut corners when it comes to rust protection. Buy from Ziebart and get full value for your money. TODAY'S HEALTH

Regular care of the feet prevents serious disease

by David Woods

In an average lifespan your feet will carry you the equivalent of three times around the world. Some feat!

But, despite this ongoing support, most of us give low priority and scant regard to the foot; perhaps, because of its lowly location and menial functions, we tend to ignore it, take it for granted.

Small wonder, then, that an estimated four out of five North Americans have something wrong with their feet by the time they reach their mid-50s.

In many cases, the problem could be avoided by seeking prompt attention for bunions, corns and calluses which, if left untreated, can lead to more serious problems.

What's happened, though, is that medicine itself appears to have largely ignored the foot. Moreover, there are very few MD foot specialists, even though the medical profession on this continent claims over 60 areas of specialization.

Much specialized foot care is, at present, done by non-physicians called podiatrists, or, as they're more usually known, chiropodists, of whom there are some 80 practicing in Ontario.

One of them, Ontario Podiatry Association president, David W. Weston, D.P.M., of Kitchener, says that podiatry came into existence because of a need that apparently wasn't being met by the medical profession. At present, he says, there are six schools of podiatry in the United States, but so far there are none in Canada.

Weston believes that most people treat their feet in the same way as they used to treat their teeth — only seeking care when something went wrong.

"This is a dangerous approach since the feet are like the foundation of a house: if something goes wrong there, the rest is likely to be affected, too. Foot problems can lead to afflictions of the legs and back and other parts of the body; moreover, the feet often reveal diseases, such as diabetes.

The secret of good foot care is hygiene — and wearing sensible, properly-fitting shoes. Plus good posture and exercise. If you do have a problem, seek help early from your family doctor; if you go directly to a foot care specialist, or are referred to one by your physician, you will find that podiatry is a limited benefit under the Ontario Health Insurance Plan (OHIP).

Nonetheless, proper foot care is a sound investment.

Before you say "my feet are killing me," be certain it's not you who are killing them.

Loyalist College among the founders

On Sunday April 24, 1976, representatives from fourteen colleges and universities formed the first Association of Canadian Broadcast Educators. Loyalist College of Applied Arts and Technology was one of the founding members, and Bryan Olney, Co-ordinator of the School of Communication at Loyalist, was elected as the Association's Secretary-Treasurer.

Total quality not easy

"To obtain the total quality of health care is not easy for most people," said Dr. Jan Duszka, New Democratic party health critic and MPP for the Parkdale riding in Toronto. He spoke at the annual meeting of the Hastings-Peterborough NDP riding association, held in Marmora Wednesday, May 26.

The current system has resulted in some areas of the province having a high ratio of doctors to patients.

Dr. Duszka said one way of equalizing this ratio is to move the doctors away from the major centres. He noted that in Toronto, there is one doctor for every 400 people, whereas, in the area north of Sudbury, one doctor has about 1,400 patients.

The present situation has resulted from the attractiveness of the bigger cities to provide major medical facilities, said Dr. Duszka.

"If we have to change, we should, but the government won't tell them," said the doctor.

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Gary is a 16-year-old who has never lived on a farm but would love to be a farmer. He might do well too, because he delights in the outdoors, likes to be helpful, is fond of animals and finds mechanical things fascinating. One of his great ambitions is to drive a tractor or a truck.

Gary attends vocational school where his main interest is in mechanical things. His only poor marks have been in physical education. He is not keen on team sports but likes individual activities like swimming, skiing and camping. Gary attends church regularly and belongs to a young people's group.

This lad needs a mother and father who will appreciate his pleasant personality and his helpful nature and who are not concerned about academic achievement. Gary would like brothers a good deal older than himself or much younger.

To inquire about adopting Gary, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. In your letter tell something of your present family and your way of life.

Investment Strategy

By JOHN KERR

INVESTING IN PENNY STOCKS

About four years ago we bought 1000 shares of Davenport Minerals Ltd. at $.90 per share. We have not heard from the Company recently and were wondering if the shares have any value or chance of recovery. My wife and I are both retired and have never received a dividend from this Company.

J.L., Belleville

This Company holds a copper property near Kamloops, B.C. although it has never developed a mine. The Company will not likely raise the capital needed to develop a mine which would be uneconomical given today's copper prices and economic environment. The shares are traded on the Vancouver unlisted market. The Company has never paid a dividend. Since you are both retired your investment needs will probably be those of safety and income. For this reason you should consider selling your Davenport shares and investing the proceeds in something more secure, such as Canada Savings Bonds. One-half of your loss can also be deducted from your current taxable income for the 1976 tax year.

One last word on penny mining stocks - many people in the Belleville area have mentioned receiving phone recommendations from Toronto Brokers regarding these stocks. The broker claims to have reserved several thousand shares at a lower price than they are currently trading for the prospective buyer. These calls also include glowing stories of quick profits and are often followed by literature outlining the prospects for the Company with gold or uranium property.

Investments over the phone in the above type of shares should be avoided by all investors. This is a typical bucket shop promotion. The investor usually finds himself several months later holding stock in a worthless company whose share price has fallen dramatically or even disappeared from the marketplace altogether. If you hold any such promotions you should consider taking your loss if you can. Only the foolish or blind hold on.

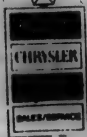

In conclusion, no one ever made a million buying penny stocks. Investments in quality common stocks can, however, be rewarding and this will be discussed in future columns.

Radio graduates beginning careers across Canada

This year's radio program graduates from Loyalist College are beginning their broadcasting careers across Canada. Belleville's Greg Hunter is the new morning announcer at CKLC in Kingston. Heather Reilly, also from Belleville, is a copywriter at CKPR Radio in Thunder Bay while Doug McMillan is announcing at CKEN Radio, Kentville, Nova Scotia.

Other grads are being heard on CJCJ, Sydney, Nova Scotia, CHSC St. Catharines, CKLC Kingston, CKPR Thunder Bay, and CKGB Timmins. More than 90 per cent of this year's graduates are now employed in radio, and Bryan Olney, Course Co-ordinator reports more requests for graduates are being received each week.

Canvassers to seek arena pledges

For the next two weeks, canvassers will be asking for donations and pledges for the new Community Centre.

The canvass was officially started Tuesday, June 8, at a special gathering of the canvassers held in the Orange Hall, here.

About 50 people from the village, Huntingdon and Madoc Townships, attended the dinner and canvass instruction meeting.

Bob Henderson, chairman of the drive said, there were two things which were to be done at the meeting, an understanding of the project and to distribute the official canvasser's kit.

At the head table, Mr. Henderson held up a trophy which he said was the symbol of the impossible dream. The trophy, which was made by a student of Centre Hastings Secondary School, had a hockey puck mounted on wood.

Mr. Henderson said that less than three months ago the final outcome of the old arena became known, but it is hoped to have a new community centre opened in less than a year since the padlock was placed on the old one.

"There is a great deal of work to be done," he said, but there is co-operation.

He said that the new centre will be individually designed and will meet the needs of this community for the next 40 years.

"We need now, commitments from a large number of people. Tell a story of accomplishment," Mr. Henderson told the canvassers.

The new centre will provide, he explained, facilities for hockey, figure skating, recreational skating, and curling during the winter. While in the summer, the centre will be used for lacrosse, roller skating and indoor tennis.

The centre will not only provide a place to hold sports or recreational events. It will be a 'major exhibition centre for the Fair Board and other community groups,' he said. The centre will also serve for conferences, workshops, conventions as well as for variety shows and public meetings.

Mr. Henderson told the canvassers to ask for commitments and pledges.

To start the ball rolling, Mr. Henderson presented a cheque to the treasurer for the driver Joe Ash, Madoc village councillor. Mr. Henderson pledged a cheque of the same amount every three months until the community centre is built.

After Mr. Henderson spoke, George Wood, reeve for Huntingdon Township voiced confidence in the project saying, 'I'm sure it's going to go ahead.'

Assurance for the project also came from Cecil Woods of Madoc Township, and T.C. Barton, reeve of the Village of Madoc.

Mr. Barton also mentioned that he is sure the drive will be receiving a grant of $5,000 from the county. He said, the grant may not be in the county's budget for this year, but two other communities received a $5,000 grant, and the Madoc District Community Centre will also.

Mr. Henderson said the contractor has quoted a price of $577,720 which will not be exceeded. The money will be raised from government grants which hinge upon the amount of money raised from donations. If the drive can obtain $133,750, the balance

secretary, Bob Henderson, chairman, George Wood, reeve of Huntingdon Township, and Joe Ash, Madoc village

councillor. The men are holding the trophy which Mr. Henderson called the symbol of the impossible dream.

Another location possible UFO's

There has been another location of what some people claim to be traces left by unidentified flying objects.

In Queensboro there have been three marks left in three fields, discovered last week on the farm of Beulah Barry.

The marks, horseshoe in shape, left a distinct depression on the grass.

One of the marks has been there since last year, noted Mr. Barry. He said he saw the mark during the harvest but did not think much of it at the time. "I thought it might be grubs but they don't leave marks like that," he said.

When Mr. Barry went back to that area earlier this year, he noticed that the vegetation was not growing again. "I don't know what caused it."

A second horseshoe-shaped mark was also found in an isolated part of another field. Again the grass has not grown in that area.

Not far from his house, two marks, a circular shaped and a horseshoe shaped mark was discovered.

"It looks like you used a cup upside-down and gave the cup a turn," said Mrs. Barry. Mr. Barry said he has not heard any noise. "When I sleep, a person could drive up, blow his car horn and I still would be sleeping."

Another unique trace is the finding of blotches on the grass. The grass in the different locations are darker than the rest of the field. The blotches are circular and have an estimated diameter of two feet.

Show time at Madoc Public School

It was show time at the Madoc Township Public School, June 10 for a large group of students.

Approximately 50 people attended the special presentation of the school's Drama Night.

Under the direction of Wendy Molyneux and Nana Walther, students performed the operetta, Round-up On The Moon, and different sketches which were written by the students in the Theatre Arts Class. There were between 40 to 50 students taking part, said Mrs. Molyneux.

The students have been working "very enthusiastically" on the project since the March school break, she said.

The Theatre Arts class is part of the normal academic program where as the music class is extra to the subjects, said Mrs. Molyneux.

"We received the co-operation of the whole school to put on these plays," she said.

A silver collection was taken with all the proceeds going to the pupil fund of the school.

Practicing before the show at the Madoc Township Public School were Ann McKinnon and Shelly Donaldson as the robbers, Cindy Robinson and Mary Jane Ramsey as the good guys, Lorraine Murphey as the waitress, Sherry Gordon as the rich lady, Rhonda Alexander as the bartender, and Susy Nalls in the part of the banker. (Review Photo)

with Karen Jones

My thanks to Minnie Moorcroft of RR 3, Madoc, for sending in this information of school days 60 years ago. She left me assured that she would be contributing more to this column in the future which is very pleasing.

Interest in Eleanor Nickle Brown's writing in Way Back When prompts me to write. I attended McCoy's school at Remington. The one person who taught me there for a longer period than four, six or ten months, was Mr. Gilbert Windsor who stayed for two years and six months. His enthusiasm methods of teaching and love of nature were contagious.

Of all the pupils who attended during my seven or eight years, I can recall only seven, other than our family, who live within a radius of 30 miles of Remington-namely Alberta, Earl, Allen and Raeburn McCoy, Myrtle Phillips Groves, Grace Roote O'Rourke and Ralph Franklin.

Going to Madoc (in the buggy) to write high school entrance exams in 1916 was quite an event, comparable to going to Queen's in Kingston a few years later to write first class certificate exams. Three things I recall of this adventure-palpitation upon sighting, from Bristol's hill; the Presbyterian church spire, reading for Inspector Mr. Minns, and in the evening at the home of Mrs. Tumelty while playing "at the bottom of the garden" with Helen Tumelty and Eleanor Nickle. I described a pretty girls I had seen during the day. They decided she was Vivian Nickle, Eleanor's sister. They were correct as I later discovered.

September of 1916 began for me Form I high school (Grade 9). Mr. Arnold was principal and Miss Gillard the art teacher. Miss K. McCoy and Miss Hannah were other teachers. The 14 subjects of that time were arithmetic, algebra, english, literature and composition, french, latin, geography, history (possibly both British and Canadian) botany, zoology, reading, book-keeping and art.

Outstanding in my memory of that year is Madoc High School's Literary Society. Much talent was shown and how good it was to have opportunity of sharing the talents of each form.

Also worth noting - closing day came early because of World War I, in order that we might help on farms as "soldiers of the soil". To celebrate early dismissal several of us went to Caverleys' for icecream and then hiked down along the creek. Lorna Dyer of Form II was along and took snapshots. Does someone still have one of those pictures?

Previous to 1916 Mr. T.E. Moffat and before him, Mr. Watson, had been high school principals - more about these later.

This is a very important time in the life of the Community Centre Drive. It has to go. The wheels are in motion and will not stop. And it is my hope that they won't slow down.

The Community Centre is a positive step but it needs the co-operation of everyone for the completion of the biggest project in the recent history of this village and area.

On Tuesday, June 8, a special dinner was held at the Orange Hall. The meeting showed the concern of the people who will be acting as convassers for the drive.

There was evidence that the drive will serve as a rallying point. Representatives were present from the Townships of Madoc, Huntingdon, the Village of Madoc, and from the Madoc and District Agricultural Society.

Speaking of the Society, there is no way in my estimation, how anyone could belittle the work of this concerned group.

They're not out to gain anything except for the area.

Grant Ketcheson, president of the Society, has displayed a strong conviction for the completion of this project. The same can be said about the Chairman of the Drive, Bob Henderson.

It is remarkable that the people who seem least likely to have the time to work, places that little extra strength and drive for the community.

For example, Mr. Ketcheson is a farmer as well as president of the Society and a member of the Board of Governors for Loyalist College in Belleville. He also is qualified to judge livestock and has done so on a variety of occasions.

Bob Henderson is another very busy person. He is the principal of Centre Hastings Secondary School and has been a teacher for 12 years. Prior to this, Mr. Henderson was a minister. The last few years with the church, he worked organizing the construction of churches throughout the Province of Ontario. A good man on our side.

These are just two men who are contributing their time.

There are many more men and women without whose help a project of this nature would not be completed.

Good luck to you men and women.

Voice of the people

1976 experience should last long time

Editor's Note: The following is a letter to Eric Runacres, Director of Education for Hastings County, from Reeve Frank Graham, of Wollaston Township. The letter was dated June 7, 1976.

Dear Mr. Runacres:

Received your letter of May 7, also the additional information. Thank you so much. We have held this letter until after our Council's budget meeting to be sure of our position with regards to your Hastings County Board of Education requisition.

We held our budget meeting on Tuesday, June 1, with Yvon Forget, TEIGA sitting in. This gentleman was with us until 6 p.m., Tuesday, took some work with him to Bancroft where he stayed overnight, came back to our office at 9 a.m., Wednesday, with two budgets prepared for us. In our deliberations in council on Tuesday we decided to pay eight per cent over 1975 HCB of Education requisition as our 1976 school expenditure, and, of course, our County requisition, roads, fire protection and other normal municipal expenditures. This budget would allow a fairly large decrease in municipal taxes in 1976.

No. 2 Budget included your HCB of Education requisition of $80,911, our Hastings County Requisition, which is up considerably this year, all other money requirements for the Township, and over $16,000 added to our reserved account.

All this with a slight reduction in residential taxes, and a five per cent increase in commercial taxes on $15,000 assessment. At our regular council meeting on Tuesday, June 8, as reeve of Wollaston Township, I will suggest this budget be ratified.

Mr. Runacres, it is obvious from our correspondence the trouble and inconvenience caused to your HCB of Education and the 29 municipalities involved in our school operation. Would it be possible for all of us throughout Ontario, to try to persuade the provincial government to assume a stipulated percentage of education costs? This, of course, would mean that we would all be watching expenditures very closely. It seems to me our 1976 experience should last us a long time.

Sincerely yours,
Frank Graham,
Reeve.

Karate takes on a whole new look

By JIM SHERIDAN

An art that, over the last decade has taken on a whole new look - in the past karate was seen only as a so-called deadly means of self-defence, taught by mysterious Orientals who impressed upon their naive public the idea that they possessed all the ancient hidden secrets of the great masters.

When first introduced to North America, karate appeared as an art form with one primary function; conditioning the body. The training programs consisted of an almost unbearable exercise period, followed by a well-planned brain washing session which led students to believe that they were becoming killing machines. Their secret training methods, which involved some unco-ordinated instructors' idea of practical self-defence techniques, along with 3,000 trips walking up and down the floor in what could be conceived as absolutely ridiculous motions, were actually construed years ago and far away as an art form and not self-defence at all. And so the unsuspecting martial artist, confident in his new ability to fend off any foe, finds himself in intensive care simply because the blocking technique he tried to apply didn't work.

To remedy this misconception some of the more innovative martial artists decided that it was time to do things right, hence the beginning of what is now becoming the most popular method while quite similar to the kick-boxing of Thailand, has distinct characteristics of its own. Most of the danger of permanent injury has been removed and protective hand and foot gear is worn, much in the same tradition as boxing. In its primitive stages contact karate or kick-boxing was, and in some instances is, a very crude looking sport. However the thrill of boxing is still there and when the feet are added the thrill and excitement of this fighting sport are intensified.

Fortunately the sport has taken on two forms: Full Contact Professional karate, where the objective is to knock your opponent out, and Semi-Contact where light contact must be made in order to score points.

Most karate schools in Canada still teach the old standard styles of martial arts, while an ever growing number have begun to realize a need for a more effective means of training and self-defence. This move toward full contact training methods does not mean that everyone who wishes to get involved in karate has to fight full contact. Most schools involved in contact training still participate in amateur events.

The full contact professional aspect of karate will be on display at the Belleville Memorial Arena on Saturday, June 19, at 8 p.m. when Canadian Karate Today presents the 1976 Full Contact Review.

Fighters from various parts of Ontario will meet in Belleville to compete for a sport as a top Canadian Pro. Information regarding the up-coming fights can be obtained by contacting Canadian Karate Today in Belleville at 968-8882.

Area MPP's Hugh O'Neil and Earl McEwan were among politicians attending the official opening of the Cembal Building in Belleville last week. Liberal members of the Legislative Assembly, they are seen with Audrey McEwan looking over some of the plants new equipment. (Staff Photo).

Sealing methods

Ever since Louis Appert attempted to help Napoleon Bonaparte to conquer the world by discovering the process of preserving food by boiling it in a sealed container in 1808, people have been experimenting with different methods of sealing.

The Hastings County Museum will open an exhibition on a few of the many different closures of sealing jars, on Sunday June 20, at 3 p.m.

Most of the jars on display have been loaned to the museum from the private collection of David Shoots. Though Napoleon never conquered Russia, sealing jars have become part of our heritage in permitting us to store and preserve food.

Hobson raps handling of forest industry

Dear Editor,

The forest industry in the northern part of Hastings-Peterborough riding is probably the biggest employer of the area. For this reason, logging is of fundamental importance to our economy and our employment opportunities.

In the last few years the number of small local loggers has increased from approximately 60 to 200, all of which has added wages and jobs to our economy. Unfortunately, overcutting has been allowed, therefore to keep this renewable resource operation on a continuing basis the Ministry is reducing the number of cutting licences. There is no quarrel with this reduction although we wonder at the overcutting which has been allowed. Twenty years ago the Old Foresters warned the Ministry of overcutting when they changed from the selective method of cutting. No professional Canadian loggers were allowed a say in the new policy which now favours clear cut methods imported from Europe. The Old Foresters were correct, overcutting did occur.

What seems a contradiction to this entire situation is that the Ontario Government has just recently arranged a $325,000 loan plus a $67,000 outright grant to develop a new modern mill, in an area that is already being overcut. It requires a great deal of lumber to feed a modern mill and since we have declining local timber stocks, either the government will feed this new mill to keep its new investment going, to the detriment of the existing small local loggers and their mills; or else the small local loggers will continue on, and the new government financed mill will run only on a part time basis. If the new mill runs full time it is estimated that three existing mills will go out of business. This amounts to the provincial government financing unemployment in our area. Anyway you look at it, this is a terrible misuse of public money.

The conflict that this brings into question is the entire issue of big scale versus small scale logging. Undoubtedly the big operations are more efficient in some ways but since the price of lumber is established on the open market, and since local loggers must sell their product at the going prices it does not really matter who maximizes their profits. It only matters for our purposes that they are competitive and that they continue to provide a great deal of employment and money to our area but under the new proposed system they will not be able to survive.

When cutting licences are issued, the big and small operators alike, normally cut their area within the year. The economy benefits from the employment and the cash flow generated. We benefit from this activity. Many big operators however control large acreages of timber rights which they have acquired from leases issued years ago. Often these older leased areas are held as private reserves while the agents of the large operators bid and get new land on a year to year basis from the Ministry. These old unused timber rights provide no employment; they actually reduce potential employment in our area, because they are an idle untapped resource. Because these older timber rights cost practically nothing in stumpage fees (as low as $200 per 1,000, plus a bonus scaling charge) this enables these big operators to pay big prices for new timber leases in competition with the small operator.

They can then intersperse their cheap and expensive timber. This merely adds another nail in the coffin of the small operators as the big boys are given yet another advantage in the business.

In yet another fashion the big timber operators save their old rights until the price goes up while at the same time, competing on a year by year basis with the small operators for present available timber. Either way, these old timber rights reduce employment, suppress our economy and give the big operators the advantage.

With the recent shortage of timber, the most important question now is, how are the remaining limited timber rights to be given out? The ministry office in Bancroft and Mr. Rollins have already created these new rules for our area. No other area has these rules.

They are:

(1) All timber is to be sold by sealed tender.

(2) Unsuccessful bidders will no longer be considered operators and will not be invited to tender.

(3) Only local people may bid (probably by invitation).

(4) Timber granted must be harvested within the year or taken away and resold the next year.

There are several drawbacks to this method; the most important one is that the Ministry will be able to feed the operations they choose. Open, free enterprise hustle and open bidding will not be allowed.

As an alternative, what I propose is a method for fair and honest timber rights, distribution is as follows: First, we must partially maintain our old system whereby local loggers who know of local timber cuts in their own area can apply for these lots. After all, who knows the local forest better than the local operators? The Ministry officials would examine these local lots and determine if they would allow a cutting. This should effectively control the harvest for long term use. Second the remaining prime lots should be put up for public auction. Only locals and those who would harvest the lots would be allowed to bid. A maximum number of lots per person must be arrived at. Third, because we now have too many men bidding for too little timber, no new licences should be issued.

The result would be gradual restoration of a balance between timber men and the amount of timber available.

And Rollins replies

Dear Editor:

This letter is written without prejudice in reply to a "Letter To The Editor", written by Mr. Dave Hobson, Liberal Candidate for Hastings-Peterborough Riding, and printed in the Stirling News-Argus on June 2nd, 1976 (printed in this issue - Ed.) Certain aspects of the letter were erroneous, and I am concerned that they might have caused some undue alarm for timber operators in the North Hastings area.

The point that concerns me most, is this statement, quoted from Mr. Hobson's published letter: "Unsuccessful bidders will no longer be considered operators and will not be invited to tender". This is an absolutely untrue statement in every respect. I have checked with the Department of Natural Resources, and the tendering will remain open, with no discrimination whatsoever, against those who are not successful bidders on any one tender. I would like to re-emphasize the fact that, just because you are unsuccessful on one tender bid, does not mean that you are precluded from bidding for other tenders which are advertised. It is unfortunate that Mr. Hobson did not check to get his facts straight before making such statements as this, which only serve to cause undue alarm.

Another statement which I feel is very misleading to the public is this one, which again is quoted from Mr. Hobson's letter in the Stirling News-Argus, June 2nd, 1976: "What seems a contradiction to this entire situation is that the Ontario Government has just recently arranged a $325,000.00 loan plus a $67,000.00 outright grant". To set the record straight, the loan of $325,000.00 is just a loan, and will be repaid by the company in a manner set out by that company's agreement with the Ontario Government. Although Mr. Hobson implies the $67,000.00 grant is also made by the Ontario Government, it in fact was a grant given by the FEDERAL LIBERAL GOVERNMENT IN OTTAWA. To be completely fair, I must point out that in order to receive this grant, the local company in question must fulfill certain conditions of construction. The economy of the North Hastings area would have been very seriously affected if this company had not received its loan or its grant, and many people indeed would join the ranks of the unemployed.

In conclusion, I would like to say that I regret the overall tone of Mr. Hobson's letter, which leaves the impression that the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources is needlessly squandering our timber resources. I can only say that I wish Mr. Hobson had taken the time to check with the proper officials in the Ministry of Natural Resources, or even myself about his concerns, so that they could be discussed fully. When you release a letter such as this to the news media, without checking your facts, you are guilty of greatly misleading the people of an area...and that does no one any good.

I would like to point here, that in order to clarify the government's position on the forestry industry in our area, a public meeting has been arranged by myself, with the appropriate officials in attendance to dispel any wrong impressions which arose as a result of Mr. Hobson's "Letter to the Editor".

The Hon. Hugh Faulkner, secretary of state for Canada, will be the guest speaker as area Liberals gather for the founding meeting of the new Hastings-Frontenac Federal Liberal Association in Madoc, Saturday, June 19.

The newly renovated Madoc Hotel will be the site of the meeting and it's scheduled to get underway at 2 p.m.

Don't waste a drop!

After the furnace, the water heater is the biggest user of energy in your home. Waste hot water, and you're wasting valuable energy.

That's a good reason for getting full value from your water heater in every way you can. By fixing leaky faucets. By insulating long runs of hot water pipe. By waiting until you have a full load before you switch on the clothes or dishwasher. By using cold or cool water when it will do the job. By taking shorter showers or shallower baths. By making sure that all the hot water that eventually goes down the drain works hard for you before it goes.

The Cascade electric water heater gives you a dependable supply of hot water and it makes good use of all the energy it consumes. But it's up to you to use hot water wisely. Don't waste a drop.

some of the equipment from the old arena which is still in good operation.

Ray Robinson, secretary for the drive, said the ice making equipment and the pexi-glass should be able to be saved and used in the new centre.

Tom Deline, Madoc Village councillor, estimated the cost of machinery will be around $30,000. To outfit the centre with new equipment would cost in the range of $50,000, he added.

Buffalo calf gives Kel Kincaid proud new addition

Kincaid has a proud new addition - a little red-coated baby buffalo, the first born in the County of Hastings. Mr. Kincaid has been awaiting the event ever since he was finally able to purchase a pair of mature buffalo - and leave them alone together in an eight-acre corral on his property, the Double K Ranch - near Moira Lake south of here. And that was three years ago.

Since then, he's watched and waited out each mating season without result. Then, little more than a month ago, he began to suspect signs that the long-awaited event might be imminent after all.

His hopes were confirmed when one and a half weeks ago on a visit to the big pen he spotted a new-born calf under a tree. The inevitable had happened at last, much to the relief and pride of Mr. Kincaid.

Mr. Kincaid firmly believes this is only a start. Now that the parents have finally produced, he's certain they'll have a calf each nine-month rutting season, gradually building up his stock.

A well-known community personality - as long-time grocer here, a former deputy-reeve and currently President of the Federal Hastings Progressive Conservative Association - Mr. Kincaid hopefully entered the buffalo breeding business as a hobby. The inspiration came after seeing the big animals while on vacation out west five years ago.

Mul-lan it over...

with Don Mullan

WE ARE NOT going to complain about the high cost of gasoline any more. Oh, my, no!

Not after we saw people paying close to $2. a gallon for it, as we took a long awaited holiday.

Our fuel prices, even if they do hit a dollar a gallon in the not too distant future, are indeed bargains in comparison.

We noticed the high prices on a tour of five European countries.

And the high prices didn't stop at the gas tank.

WE HADN'T REALLY thought we'd ever get to Europe.

But not having had a real holiday for almost five years, the wife and I decided to 'blow the bundle' on the European jaunt - a 16-days affair organized by Ernie and Lucille Dempster of area square dance fame.

Being members of the Frankford Club of the Trent Valley Squares, the idea of a dancing holiday with 59 other couples appealed to us, and two years after we signed up, we were on our way.

The tour hit Switzerland, France, Germany, Austria and Leichenstein, and each proved a highlight in itself.

SOFT DRINKS, we found, were at a comparable price in the supermarkets...at least as far as the so-called cheaper brands go.

But the Coke and Pepsi war we're enjoying here hasn't hit there, and these beverages were selling more in line with the prices we were paying here last winter. Restaurants, however, were another kettle of fish. When buying a Coke in these establishments, we had to pay in the neighborhood of 1.8 German Marks or Swiss Francs, about the equivalent of 77 Canadian cents for a six or 10 oz. bottle.

Beer, usually, cost less - about 1.5 Marks or Francs or 60 cents for the standard-size bottle.

COFFEE RAN AROUND $1. Canadian - and when an area cafe operator heard that, he was ready to hike his price from 25 cents a cup, until he found out just what the dollar included.

Serving coffee, in Europe, is a real art. And when one orders same, one receives a tray complete with a pot of coffee, a pot of hot water and a pitcher of hot milk, along with the customary sugar cubes and cup and saucer.

One may then proceed to mix his or her coffee the way it's enjoyed - strong, weak or inbetween. Altogether it makes about four cups - if you mix it properly. Drink only one cup, and it's darn expensive. Drink it all and the price is comparable.

We came close to drinking it all on all occasions. Their coffee, straight, was far too strong for our tastes. A third of a cup of coffee, and the balance hot milk, came as close to the Canadian coffee style as we could get.

SUPERMARKET GROCERY prices, on the whole, were somewhat higher than ours - some items costing much more (a small bottle of Heinz ketchup, for instance, was selling at $1.50 Canadian) and very few costing less.

The big difference, however, was in the limited selection - they just didn't seem to have the big variety of products, and brands, that we have.

People over there go grocery shopping virtually daily, except Sunday, and appeared to purchase only enough food to last them through the day and the next day's breakfast.

Many were seen purchasing only two or three potatoes, three or four carrots, a canned good or two, and perhaps a little bit of meat.

We found no big push carts like we use to haul a week's supply of food around a store; only small hand carried baskets.

Cashiers rang through goods in the lickity-split way they do here, but there the similarity ends. Customers bag their own groceries, and usually in their own carriers. Very few paper bags, freely given, were in evidence.

The grocery stores opened at 7 a.m., others at 9 a.m., and all closed again at noon for a two-hour lunch break. They reopened from 2 to 6 p.m.

It seems merchants and their staffs like to go home for lunch...and they do!

AT THE BEGINNING we said we wouldn't complain about Canadian fuel prices any more.

It will be a long time before we complain about Canadian postal service as well.

We made it a point to send air mail cards from every country we visited to our families in Canada - and they cost us as much as 44 cents, Canadian, just to buy the necessary stamps. We could well have saved at least half our money.

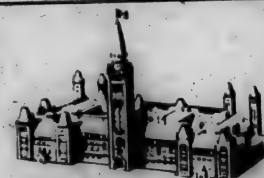

Three days into the trip and we were in France, and pronto, we mailed home the cards. What a waste. Yup, you guessed it - we arrived home before they did.

It took at least a week for each card to hit its destination - one, mailed May 11th, didn't arrive here until May 25. But a few arrived home before we did, so it wasn't a total loss.

Guess our Canadian service is really much better than most people give it credit for...and, for a while at least, at only eight cents a letter.

Long-ve vivre les Canadien bureau de poste!

OTTAWA and Small Business

A pattern for Canada

By KENNETH McDONALD

Instead of trying to copy Central Canada, the poorer regions of the nation should be learning from the Third World. Their problems are the same: surplus of labour and shortage of capital.

In Canada, attempts are made to help weaker provinces by transferring income from the more prosperous regions through equalization payments, unemployment insurance and other forms of social assistance. This policy prolongs the dependence of the poorer regions while discouraging them from trying to overcome it. It also assumes that transfers can be supported indefinitely by continued growth in the other regions. That assumption collapses with the economic slowdown caused by higher energy costs.

The introduction, into a depressed region, of publicly-financed projects and industries unsuited to the area distorts the cost and availability of labour to the detriment of local industry. Large shopping plazas in cities impoverish rural communities by luring business away. Transfer payments to individuals are used to buy goods made outside the region. Yet, instead of correcting this senseless policy, politicians call for more social spending by government to patch up its victims.

The Canadian Federation of Independent Business predicts that by the year 2000 much of the development in North America will be patterned on policies now being pursued by the Third World - rural industry and small-scale technology.

High energy costs will make much of our present long-haul distribution from centralized production uneconomical. Many centralized, automated, manufacturing processes made uneconomical by high energy costs will be replaced by local, labour-intensive industry. This is the direction Atlantic Canada and other depressed regions should be taking today.

Development depends not on goods, but on people developing qualities to sustain themselves. Rural areas of Nova Scotia and Newfoundland need cottage industries where people can make saleable products in their homes from local materials. New Brunswick needs low-cost, power-driven farm implements for small holdings to make the province self-sufficient in food. In the whole Atlantic region, consortia of retailers should be organized to support local suppliers.

Canada cannot support ever-growing transfer payments, nor subsidize the ballooning costs of transportation which are bound up with the present model of big institutions and big cities. Future development must be geared to a more diffused economic model of stable, self-supporting communities.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Donny, just turned two, is a happy, active boy with light-brown hair, blue eyes, fair skin and a beguiling smile.

Born with Downs Syndrome (mongolism), he was slow in developing but now is doing many of the things you'd expect at his age, including walking, running and exploring cupboards. He is not talking yet but he chatters and laughs a lot. Because of a heart defect, Donny had blue spells as a baby and was on medication for about six months. The condition has improved and the medication has been discontinued.

Cuddly, affectionate and unfailingly good-natured, Donny loves attention but doesn't demand it. He is a good eater and sleeps right through the night. He loves other children.

With his sunny disposition Donny will bring joy to parents who can help him develop to the limit of his capacities while recognizing his limitations.

To inquire about adopting Donny, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. In your letter tell something of your present family and your way of life.

For general adoption information, consult your local Children's Aid Society.

A CUDDLY HAPPY BOY

Going to rise

TORONTO - "Farm costs are going to rise because of the oil price increases", Gordon Hill, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, said May 19. "The almost six cents a gallon increase in oil prices will affect costs at every stage in the food chain and will result in higher food costs."

Mr. Hill explained, "The costs of all farm inputs will increase. For example, the chemical fertilizer industry is a large user of fuel. Machinery companies' costs and prices will increase due to higher transportation costs. The wages of those making farm inputs will rise due to their own added living costs."

At the farming stage, Mr. Hill said, "Fieldwork operations will be more costly. Farmers are already using larger equipment to maximize efficient energy use but there are limits even with this highly developed technology."

"Transportation, storage for crops after they leave the farm will also increase in cost and the processing and retailing industries also use a great deal of oil," Mr. Hill continued.

Over the farm fence ...with Bob Trotter

Letters are appreciated by Bob Trotter, 5444 Rd. Elmwa. Ont. N3B 2C7

Two politicians to quote this week, a Liberal and a Conservative.

To be fair, a New Democrat should be quoted, too, but I couldn't find one who had said anything pertinent about farming since last week.

To digress for a moment I have been accused of being a died-in-the-wool Liberal, a red Tory, an out-and-out socialist and even a pinko by some readers. If the truth were known, I probably straddle a number of fences. Traditionally, I vote Conservative but have voted for all three parties. Not during the same election, you understand.

First, Perrin Beatty, a young member of Parliament who now represents a sprawling riding known as Wellington-Dufferin-Waterloo-Grey. When the new distribution districts are set out, he will lose some of his area.

Mr. Beatty is not a farmer. As far as I know, he has never been a farmer. His heritage as a Canadian goes back to the famous Beatty washers so his ancestors were industrialists. But because he represents a rural riding—one of the few left in the province—he has become most articulate in speaking out for farmers.

He has done his homework, so to speak, in representing his riding. He knows something about farmers and farming problems and never hesitates to speak out for agriculturalists.

Not long ago, he spoke in Owen Sound and told a group of farmers that he is worried about the diminishing of the farm voice in politics. I share this concern. He echoed a refrain of mine that has been running through this column for almost a decade.

"It is your responsibility as farmers to make your voice heard to Canadian politicians and the Canadian society as a whole. You must maintain the lines of communications," he said.

"Each farmer must make his own case. Don't leave it for governments. Educate the consumer groups. Do it through the press."

Exactly. Every farmer must be his own public relations counsel. I wonder how many farmers are known to local newspaper editors? Granted, few farmers are going to have much clout with the huge metropolitan papers such as the Toronto Star. But lines of communication are wide open to other news media. Most weekly editors are extremely happy to print farm news if it is written properly.

And most radio stations appreciate some communication with the farming community.

Newspapers have an obligation to explain agriculture and its problems to urban people, most of whom now know next to nothing about farming. Few people today have ever had manure on their boots. A problem arises, too, in the fact that few newspaper people today know much about farming and don't really care. This is all the more reason for farmers to become more vocal.

Now to the Liberal politician.

Dr. Stuart Smith, leader of the provincial party, has been quoted a number of times recently as favoring a comprehensive land use program for Ontario and an end to the gobbling up of some of the finest farm land in the world by urban encroachment. He has also said that farmers definitely need a reasonable — and he stresses the word reasonable — return on their investment and their labor if they are to stay on the land.

Mr. Beatty is a federal member. Dr. Smith is a provincial member. Their farm philosophies do not appear too far apart.

Many other politicians are saying the same thing in both parties at both levels of government. The point here is this: If all these politicians are saying much the same thing, how come a well-delineated farm policy, a long-range farm policy, has not been established in Ontario and in Canada?

How come dairy farmers, for instance, have to wait so long every year to make their plans because the feds drag their feet on policy? And even when that policy is announced, a subsidy is cut back by more than half in the middle of a policy year? How come beef farmers are fighting an import policy that allows millions of tons of American and Australian beef to come to this country? How come Canada's trade negotiations in the past have too often traded away tariffs on agricultural goods for manufacturing goods from other countries at the expense of the farmer?

I could go on but I'm sure you understand.

It has been said before but bears repeating: All farmers are seeking in this country is the opportunity to produce quality products to sell at a reasonable price. It isn't asking too much.

Call tenders for hot mix patching

Tenders have been advertised for the Ministry of Transportation and Communications for hot mix patching of Highways 2, 7, 14, 33, 37, 38, 41, 62 and 401 at various locations. The estimated completion date is August 6, 1976.

Also the Ministry of Natural Resources has approved a provincial grant under the Conservation Authorities Act in the amount of $8,400.00 to the Otonabee Region Conservation Authority to carry out capital development work in the Warsaw Caves Conservation area.

The papers include the Madoc Review, Marmora Herald, Havelock Citizen, Norwood Register, Hastings Star, Picton Gazette and Amherstview Heritage.

Tours of the plant followed the opening and refreshments were served.

CNE STADIUM

Thousands of kilts will swirl at famed Scottish Festival

The swirl of the world's finest bagpipers and the swirl of thousands of kilts will mark the return of the famed Scottish World Festival to Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition, August 19 to 22.

Toasted as the world's greatest spectacle of Scottish glory and pageantry, the Scottish World Festival will be highlighted by four evening Tattoos, August 19 to 22, in the renovated 42,000-seat CNE Stadium.

Produced at a cost of over half-a-million dollars, the Scottish World Festival Tattoo will bring together a thousand of the world's finest pipers and drummers from Scotland, England, Northern Ireland, the United States and Canada.

The '76 Tattoo also will feature the first-ever performance in North America of the Massed Bands of Her Majesty's Royal Marines - 200 of Britain's finest military musicians. Usually the Massed Bands of Her Majesty's Royal Marines perform only for the Royal Family and special military ceremonies in the British Isles. Their appearance in the Scottish World Festival marks the first time the four leading bands of Britain's sea-going soldiers and Commandos have joined together to play in Canada.

The Scottish Tattoo will have an Irish flavor, too, with the renowned Pipes and Drums of the Royal Irish Rangers - a British regiment steeped in Irish tradition and valour.

The Rangers were formed in 1968 from three of Britain's most famous Irish units - the Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, Royal Ulster Rifles and Royal Irish Fusiliers. The new regiment inherited the traditions and renown of the three former regiments which fought for the British crown with bravery and glory throughout the world since 1689.

The Scottish World Festival Tattoo, over two hours of unmatched Scottish music and Highland pageantry, also will feature: The Fraser Highlanders, depicting the first British troops to land in Canada - The world famous Military Band of Jamaica - Over 250 of Canada's finest Scottish Country dancers in a spectacular display of grace and beauty - The Golden Helmets, the 32-man dare devil motorcycle team of the Ontario Provincial Police - The 48th Highlanders of Canada - Plus the unforgettable Massed Pipe Bands, a display of a thousand pipers and drummers.

"WE LOVE IT" - THEME

Canada Week coast to coast

Canada Week is a coast to coast project to engender pride in Canada, promote national unity and encourage dialogue and understanding among Canadians.

The Week is sponsored by the Council for Canadian Unity (formerly the Canada Committee) which is a non-profit organization, without political affiliation.

A variety of social and cultural festivities will take place in cities, towns and villages from Newfoundland to British Columbia. These will include picnics, parades, historical pageants, sports events, concerts, art and essay contests, film presentations, multi-cultural displays and dance festivals, flag-raising events, and exhibitions of all kinds. All Canadians will be encouraged to fly the flag and display the Canada Week emblem.

Companies and industry, youth groups, associations, service clubs and voluntary organizations, native and ethnic groups are assisting the Canada Week Committee to ensure the success of this important event.

As in past years, the Prime Minister of Canada is the Honorary Chairman for Canada Week and the Provincial Premiers and the Commissioners of the Territories are honorary co-chairmen.

Canada Week will be officially opened in Ottawa on Friday, June 25, 1976, in a colorful ceremony at the quai of the National Arts Centre (in case of inclement weather, in the main lobby of the National Arts Centre). Starting time is noon.

Bobby Gimby and a troupe of Ottawa children will set the scene for a delightful salute to Canada Week. Joining Bobby and the children will be a flotilla of canoes reminiscent of early Canadian transport. The flotilla will precede a barge bearing Bobby Gimby and the children down the Rideau Canal from the Lansdowne Park area to the quai of the National Arts Centre. Expected time of arrival is 12.15 p.m.

They will be met there by a group of dignitaries representing the Federal Government, the Council for Canadian Unity, the City of Ottawa, service clubs, school boards, ethnic groups and the Canada Week Committee. The Proclamation of Canada Week will be read, and entertainment will be provided by Bobby Gimby, his band and the children.

The 1976 Canada Week theme - "Canada, We Love It" is intended as a sincere, light-hearted appeal to all Canadians to recognize that sense of pride and purpose which we hope to engender in the hearts of everyone. During Canada Week hundreds of thousands of Canadians will be celebrating the achievements of the past and reaffirming their faith in Canada's future.

Take the sting out of summer by battling mosquito

Taking the sting out of summer...

By now you've probably heard the news that summer is just around the corner and with it our old friend the mosquito.

You've probably battled our miniscule flying foe through many a fitful night often wishing he'd pick on his own size and leave you alone. But like most Ontarians, you've likely come to equate mosquito with nuisance.

Which is not to say you're not on the lookout for ways to avoid them or control their numbers.

For you, Environment Ontario has compiled the following tips:

The mosquito matures from egg to adult in five to 28 days. You can eliminate the ideal breeding ground for mosquitoes by discharging areas of standing water on your property. These include all empty cans and containers, clogged eavestroughs and drainage ditches and wading pools. Properly filtered and chlorinated swimming pools are not suitable for mosquito larvae development.

Since the adult mosquito seeks protection from the sun and wind in weeds, grass and hedges, eliminate all unnecessary growths around your home and cottage.

And as far as your own clothing is concerned, remember that light is right - the darker the color, the more mosquitoes are attracted.

When mosquitoes are active, especially at dusk during the late spring and summer, cover up well in a loose fitting, long-sleeved jacket and slacks, socks and shoes.

Insect repellents can be effective if used frequently and according to the manufacturer's instructions.

Last year a type of encephalitis, a disease spread by certain mosquitoes, was confirmed in some parts of southwestern Ontario. This year the Ontario government has advised communities in those areas to undertake some form of mosquito control program.

The Ontario Ministry of the Environment has made its staff available to help establish acceptable control programs using pesticides that are both safe and efficient.

It should be stressed that by far the majority of mosquito bites this summer will be of the nuisance variety.

But if you observe the symptoms of encephalitis such as drowsiness, loss of appetite, fever, headache, nausea and vomiting, consult your family doctor immediately.

Act requires certified portable gas cans

Changes in Ontario's Gasoline Handling Act require that all portable gasoline cans are certified by either CSA (Canadian Standards Association) or ULA (Underwriters' Laboratories of Canada.)

However, says consumer minister Sidney B. Handleman, "there is one important exception and that is in the area of fuel tanks for marine use."

Marine fuel tanks, whether of metal or plastic, may be filled at service stations, marinas and other gasoline outlets "provided they are in reasonable condition and equipped with the required closures," the minister said.

With the exception of the marine tanks and transportable metal drums in sizes of 10 to 45 gallons bearing the embossed approval mark of the Canadian Transport Commission, all containers must bear the CSA or ULA labels.

Since this change in the Act came into force Jan. 1, 1976, there have been a number of reported cases of misunderstandings between consumers and service station personnel.

"Service stations face stiff fines for contraventions of the Act," Mr. Handleman said, "and an attendant who refuses to fill an uncertified container is only obeying the law of the province."

"There have been cases where gasoline purchasers became very irate when they were refused service, but staff at service stations are aware of the risk to which the purchaser is exposed when transporting or storing gasoline in a container which is uncertified."

"Service stations are in business to sell gasoline and surely it must be obvious that they would not arbitrarily turn down the opportunity to do business," the minister said.

IN MEMORIAMs

PETHERICK - In ever loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, Emma Ora, who left us four years ago today June 19, 1972. God's Golden Gate stood open One year ago today With farewells left unspoken. You quietly slipped away You suffered much in silence Your spirit did not bend You faced your pain with courage Until the very end You fought so hard to stay with us But your fighting was in vain God took you to His Loving home And freed you from all pain If you could have spoken before you died These are the words you would have replied:

"This life for me is truly past, I loved you all to the very last, Weep not for me, but courage take And love one another for my sake."

Always remembered by her loving husband Harry and family.

Loyalist considers association

The May meeting of the Loyalist College Board of Governors took place in the College Board Room.

A report was given on the inaugural meeting of an association formed by Sir
Sandford Fleming College involving past Members of that College's Board as well as others associated with the College. It was confirmed that the ad hoc committee appointed by the Loyalist Board under the chairmanship of the Rev. H.J. Maloney should continue to investigate a similar organization for Loyalist. The ad hoc committee will be submitting proposed guidelines to the Board shortly.

The visit of The Honourable Harry Parrott, DDS, minister of colleges and universities was reviewed. During the "bear pit" session for the students, many interesting and thoughtful questions were raised by the student body, and the minister's answers were well received.

The fourth annual Advisory Council meeting was held on April 29. The reports indicated that an interesting and beneficial exchange of ideas took place. The Board of Governors expressed its pleasure at the work being done by members of the community on the College Advisory Committees. Their assistance enabled the students to benefit from up-to-date knowledge in meaningful College programs.

Ontario deer seasons are announced by Leo Bernier

Ontario's 1976 deer seasons were announced today by Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier.

Following the general format of last year, most deer hunting zone boundaries adhere to boundaries of wildlife management units in northern Ontario while in the south they generally follow county and township boundaries.

Most seasons open at about the same time as in 1975. There will be no hunting season in areas of northern Ontario where deer occur infrequently.

In northwestern and north central Ontario the bows-only extends from September 15 to 30 for residents and non-residents.

In the area west of Fort Frances, the gun season runs from October 30 to December 15 for residents and October 30 to November 15 for non-residents.

In the Dryden-Lac Seul area, the residents-only season runs from October 30 to December 15. "The absence of non-resident hunting will help to moderate the deer harvest in an area experiencing a population decline," Mr. Bernier said.

The residents-only gun season in the area from the eastern boundary of Quetico Park to Wawa is October 4 to December 15, coinciding with the resident moose season.

Resident deer hunting in the Kenora-At-tikokan area extends from October 4 to December 15, while the non-resident season here is October 11 to November 15.

Primitive weapons hunting on the Aulneau Peninsula opens on the same date for all hunters - October 4.

On Manitoulin Island, the bows-only season for residents and non-residents opens on October 9, four days earlier than in 1975, and extends until October 31. The gun season is longer in the western portion of the island because the deer population there is at a high level.

The area north of the French and Mattawa Rivers will be open from November 1 to 6 to residents only. A U-shaped area north of Sault Ste. Marie is open to residents and non-residents from November 1 to 13; as is the Parry Sound area.

In southern Ontario, there are several changes from last year's seasons. Both residents and non-residents may hunt with shotguns and primitive weapons in the counties southeast of Ottawa from November 1 to 4.

In Grey County and the southern part of Bruce County, there are no gun seasons.
The season in the Muskoka area has been increased from three to six days.

Wentworth, Halton, Peel, and York, closed in 1975, are open this year to resident bow-hunters from October 25 to November 30. "The deer population has increased steadily in these areas in recent years.

"Ontario archers will welcome these additional hunting opportunities," Mr.
Bernier said.

Prince Edward County is closed to deer hunting.

Other seasons in southern Ontario are essentially the same as those in 1975, although there are some minor changes in zone boundaries.

Earl Pollock received the B.Sc. Agriculture degree at the recent convocation exercises held at the University of Guelph.

were at the ceremony to observe the

Anne Forde, Fred Hartwick wed in St. Andrew's

In a ceremony recently at St. Andrew's United Church in Westwood, Anne Forde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Forde of RR-3, Hastings, became the bride of Frederick Hartwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hartwick, of RR 1, Indian River. Rev. Vernon Kimball officiated. Organist was Mrs. Hugh Neilson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of nylon organza over taffeta with lace and bead appliques, high neckline and ruffled train; headdress of stephanotis held the lace-trimmed waist-length veil; a bouquet of nosegay of pink roses, white mums and stephanotis.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Dwight Storrington, a friend of the bride, wearing a floor-length gown of figured jersey in shades of blue with long sleeves and a large white mum. The bridesmaid, Mrs. Allan Jenkins, sister of the groom, was dressed similar to the matron of honor. Flower girl was Rachel Whelan, wearing a pale blue crimplene trimmed with lace and short puff sleeves. Ring bearer was Danny Eggleston.

Best man was Gerry Hartwick, brother of the groom. Russel Forde, brother of the bride, was the usher.

A wine and cheese party was held at the home of the bride following the wedding. A dance and reception were held later at the Riverside Pavilion in Hastings.

For the reception, the bride's mother wore a gown of royal blue polyester crepe, floor-length with beaded front. The groom's mother wore a floor-length gown of red nylon jersey with matching jacket.

Guests were present for the ceremony from Cornwall, Montreal, Brockville, Campbellford, Toronto, Oshawa, Harwood, Norwood, Westwood, Indian River, Hastings and Peterborough.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and points west, after which they took up residence at Cornwall.

Minister milkin'

June dairy month

June is dairy month in Ontario. The Honorable William Newman, Minister of Agriculture and Food, has agreed to take part in a cow milking contest with Ontario Dairy Princess, Debbie Rogers and newspaper personalities Paul Rimstead, Dick Beddoes and Jack Miller. The contest will take place in the Parliament Street studio of the CBC and be part of a live broadcast of the Radio Noon show.

The contest will highlight a three week promotion from June 7 to 30 which will mark June as dairy month in the province. Events during this three week promotion are being sponsored by the CBC, the Ontario Dairy Council, the Holstein Friesian Association, the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, and the Ontario Milk Marketing Board.

Radio noon commentators George Atkins, David Schatzky and Barbara Peacock have lined up interviews with notables of the dairy industry during this three week event and the Radio Noon audience will have a chance to win a pure bred Holstein Friesian calf or a year supply of dairy products, equivalent to the value of the calf, by guessing its weight. On June 30 Mr. Newman will announce the winner and members of the studio audience will be treated to a feast of fine Ontario cheddar cheese.

Indicative of the wide and growing interest in the club is the fact that several hundred suggestions for a team name have already been submitted.

"We're wide open to suggestions," said Paul Beeston, vice-president, administration of the club. "We think the name of the baseball team is important and that's why we'd like to have baseball fans, potential baseball fans and the community participating and becoming involved with the team and its development."

A list of the 10 best suggestions from all entries will be compiled by a panel of judges, including representatives of Metro Baseball Ltd., which is owned by Vulcan Assets Dominion Ltd., Labatt Breweries of Canada Limited, and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. The select list then goes to the club's board of directors, which makes the final decision and officially gives the team its name.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hartwick

You can name Toronto's new major league team

TORONTO - Sports fans across Ontario will be given a chance to name Toronto's first major league baseball team in a Name the Team contest announced today by the club owners, Metro Baseball Ltd.

Contest rules and entry forms will be available shortly at any of the 744 branches of Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce across Ontario. The contest closes on July 17, and an announcement of the official name of the team, along with the name of the contest winners will be made public in August.

The grand prize winner will receive two season tickets, good for all of the 1977 home games of Toronto's American League entry, plus a trip for two for a week to the new team's first spring training camp, which will probably be held in Florida.

There will be nine runner-up prizes and each winner will receive two season tickets, covering all home games in 1977.

100,000 to be sold

In 1976 it is expected that upwards of 100,000 motorcycles and mopeds will be sold in Canada. The motorcycle industry recognizes the need for safety and is offering a financial incentive to new owners.

A discount of up to 10 per cent on new motorcycles to 250 c.c. in size is being offered to graduates of the Canada Safety Council's Motorcycle Training Course.

The discounts are just a part of the almost one million dollars that have been committed to motorcycle safety in Canada by the motorcycle industry and the Federal Government through Transport Canada.

The motorcycle industry through its distributors and dealers supplies motorcycles for training purposes on a national scale and assists Provincial Agencies and local course sponsors with advertising.

Transport Canada is directing $234,650 to the Canada Safety Council for the further development and administration of a national Motorcycle Training Program.

In addition, Transport Canada has funded the production of a motorcycle training film entitled "Survival". The Council hopes to have a premiere showing of the film in both official languages in the House of Commons in the near future. Copies of the film will be available for viewing through Provincial Co-operating Agencies and the Canada Safety Council.

Because of their energy conserving characteristics, motorcycles and mopeds are increasing in popularity and this, in part, accounts for the accelerated interest in motorcycle training.

The fact that Canada is coming to grips with motorcycle safety has been noted around the world. The training course developed and offered by the Canada Safety Council has rapidly become the standard by which others are judged.

Individuals wishing details of the next training course are invited to contact their Provincial Safety Agency, the Motor Vehicle Registrar's Departments in the provinces of Nova Scotia and Quebec or your local motorcycle dealer.

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

What's the best retirement savings?

By JOHN KERR

My wife and I are planning to retire in six years. We would like to know what the best Registered Retirement Savings Plan is. I have a good job and claim my wife as a dependent each year. We have looked at Trust Company and Bank Plans but are still undecided.

J.M. Belleville

First of all J.M., what are your investment objectives? There is no one right RRSP. If you are risk oriented and wish to minimize your gains you might try an equity plan in stocks. If you have the time and ability you can also use a self administered plan where you pick and choose your own investments. Besides Trust Company and Bank Plans, you might also compare RRSP's with your local investment dealer, credit union or life insurance agent. All offer a variety of plans. There are many types of plans, but the three basic ones are debt, equity or a combined debt equity plan.

In choosing any plan the following points should be kept in mind:

1. Is the rate of return variable or fixed and how does it compare? Is the return guaranteed and if so, for how long? For example - the rate on some Trust Company Plans is only guaranteed for six months.

2. Is your principal protected or does it fluctuate as in an equity plan?

3. Is there a charge for setting up the RRSP? Stock Plans usually have a sales charge while Life Insurance Plans have a front end load as high as 12 per cent in some cases.

4. Is there a penalty claim for closing the plan prematurely? Many plans such as the trust and insurance plans have a heavy penalty for early withdrawal.

5. Is there a termination fee? Many plans have termination fees which seem small at the start but after you have contributed for twenty years why pay anybody one per cent off the top!

6. If you are buying a fixed or guaranteed plan, check to see how often the interest is compounded, monthly, semi-annually or yearly.

7. Is there an annual administration fee? Most plans have an annual charge which reduces your return.

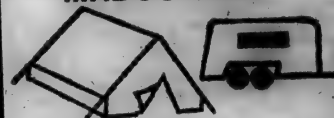

8. Above all, will the rate of return beat inflation over the time period you will be invested in the plan?

These points should provide you with a rough guideline for choosing the right plan. As mentioned in my first article the plan's flexibility and liquidity growth potential, income and safety should all be considered. These four criteria should be used in making any investment decision. Not every question can be answered in this column, but all will receive a reply from the author.

Do you have an investment or money management decision to make? Do you want to increase the returns on your investments? Write "Investment Strategy", c/o Combal Publications, 3 McGill St., Marmora, Ontario. K0K 2M0.

Pendulum swinging toward conservatism

By BILL SMILEY

IT SEEMS, when one looks around, that the Great Revolution of the 1960s has petered out, as most revolutions do. And, as usually happens after a revolution, the pendulum is swinging toward conservatism.

The Savage Sixties, featuring a vicious war in Viet Nam, student uprisings, draft dodgers, the growth of strident feminism, and the blossoming of four-letter words in the mass media, have simmered down into the Scared Seventies, when inflation and unemployment are the bogey-men.

Most obvious evidence of this is the race for president in the States. There's not a liberal in sight. It's like a game of musical chairs in which every participant is striving to be a little farther to the right than the guy who made the last speech.

I'm not entirely unhappy about this swing of the pendulum. While revolutions often produce freedom, they also produce excesses, and that of the Sixties was no exception.

It produced a violence, a callousness and a viciousness that was probably unparalleled in western civilization's history.

Remember? The kids were on drugs. The parents were on the booze. Cops were called pigs. Language that would shock a sailor came out of the mouths of babes. It was fashionable to be filthy if you were young. Hard rock replaced anything resembling music to be listened to. Cults of various degrees of obscenity flourished. Muggings multiplied. Hijacking hit the headlines.

It was a nasty, nervous decade for society to grope through, and as a basically conservative person, I'm glad it's fading, even though it has left a fair bit of detritus as it ebbs.

Not all of it was bad, of course. Many of the old shibboleths were swept away and replaced by something saner. The social, political and economic status of women took a giant step forward. There was a new honesty, as much of the stuff our parents used to sweep under the carpet was pulled out, looked at squarely, and found to be merely funny, not frightening.

There was a new and healthy skepticism toward politicians, culminating in the not so incredible discovery that some were liars, some crooks, some both.

Our institutes of higher learning got a good shake-up, and their traditional stuffiness swung toward something verging on license.

In short, a lot of the phoniness of our society was exposed for what it was. A lot of rocks were turned over, and a lot of things crawled out from under them, and died in the hard, clear light.

That's all to the good. Every revolution must crack some eggs to make an omelet. And every revolution inflicts wounds, some of them savage.

But society is the sum total of individuals. And just as an individual who has been mugged, knifed, raped or otherwise abused, must retire and tend his wounds, so must society. There must be a healing time.

Perhaps the Scared Seventies is such a time. Certainly there is a trend. Hard rock music, hoist on its own petard, is being replaced by country and bluegrass music. Transcendental meditation is replacing the acid trip. Most people are fed up with the pure pornography that has flourished. Even that sacred cow, hockey, has turned people off, including aficionados, with the mindless, but contrived violence of its goon shows. Hijackers are harried and hunted down.

Maybe, just maybe, we're in for a brief Golden Age, in which the arts will flourish, riffs will become a thing of the past, excellence will be restored as an aspiration of the young, and children will honor their parents. But don't hold your breath.

Maybe, just maybe, movies will start having a plot again. And policemen will be pals, not pigs. And music will be enjoyable, not excruciating. And vandalism will vanish. But don't hold your breath.

Maybe, just maybe, town engineers will go around holding hands and singing, "I think that I shall never see, A sewer lovely as a tree." But don't hold your breath.

Maybe, just maybe, politicians will start letting their left hand know what their right hand is doing, and remove both hands from the pockets of the taxpayer. But don't hold your breath.

Samantha READS YOUR STARS

ARIES (3/21-4/19): No masquerades, please, Aries. Concern yourself less with building an image than with being your own lovable self. Get a mixed-up message straight, or you'll go off half-cocked. Later, pay attention to home matters. Finally, do you have love confused with sex appeal?

TAURUS (4/20-5/20): You're bubbling over with good cheer, Taurus; so spread a little sunshine. Catch up with people, including family, whom you haven't seen for a while. If you go antique hunting, or just shopping, don't buy a pig in a poke. Week also holds fun and games and a test.

GEMINI (5-21-6/20): A seemingly casual meeting has more implications than meet the eye. Try not to be an eager beaver. Only make promises you know you can keep. Gem. Then, resources highlighted. Your wallet welcomes an unexpected bonus. Finally, a serious conversation.

MOONCHILD (6/21-7/22): The sun is in your corner, Moonbaby. The time is ripe for making plans for your new solar year. Pressures of the past several years have been overcome, and weight is lifted. Your social scene looks fantastic. Some welcome changes will be coming. So let's see a big smile!

LEO (7/23-8/22): The batteries in your magic wand have run down, Leo; but with effort, you can make your own luck. Then, a friend develops a case of the weirdies. Week trots onward with a get-together, a puzzle, and a challenge.

VIRGO (8/23-9/22): Fortune smiles, Virgo. Just reach right out and grab that brass ring. Friends are particularly helpful, and your social calendar is full. A long trip may be in your near future — plan with zest.

LIBRA (9/23-10/23): The next few weeks hold several changes and matters to be worked out. An older person stands ready to aid you. Avoid conflict with a certain female. Later, keep your special fund intact to reach the goal you seek.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22): You may be prone to delusions of grandeur. Do try to avoid extravagance. Scorp. Then, two commitments keep you busy. Romance has head-over-heels possibilities of instant infatuation. Week slams shut.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21): A breakthrough occurs at work/project, and a past kindness is repaid. Sweep the cobwebs from your head; fuzzy thinking would be unfavorably noted at this time. Later, you're in a have-to-situation; accept it. Week flips for a toss-up.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/19): Cupid comes on like gangbusters. Lover needs to be shown how you feel, so get with it. Cappy dear, and emotal! Week continues with W's, for work, womanly wiles, wonder, and warble.

AQUARIUS (1/20-2/18): Put your eagle eye on home affairs. Aspects indicate a situation may be getting out of hand. Conversation with a young person can be very beneficial. Then, don your lovin' duds and take a fling. Finally, hang onto your live-and-let-live policy. Be stingy with advice.

PISCES (2/19-3/19): Week opens with good news. Then, get home matters cleared up early so you're ready for fun and frolic. Your romantic outlook is enough to put stars in your eyes and wings on your heart. Soar!

Family Physician BY DR. JAMES G. PRICE

Q. I've had a little brown mole on my upper abdomen ever since I was born, and when my doctor saw it the other day, he said it is an "accessory nipple"! He acted serious but I think he was kidding me. Is this possible?

Yes, it certainly is. Most people on whom I've seen these miniature nipples thought just what you did — that it was a mole. We all have the so-called "milk line" which is an imaginary line running from our armpits to our groins, and anywhere on this line, these items may occur. They usually aren't of any real clinical significance, don't cause any problems, and certainly aren't anything to worry about.

Q. We've been reading a lot about the possibility of a severe flu outbreak next fall. Just how dangerous have the annual sieges of ordinary flu been? Is there really cause for all this alarm?

A. According to the Center for Disease Control last winter's outbreak of what you call the "ordinary" flu was responsible for some 11,000 deaths. Some researchers estimate that an epidemic of a virulent swine virus influenza might be responsible for several million deaths. People must be convinced that there's something to worry about, because a lot of time and money is being put into making a new vaccine.

SGT. STRIPES...FOREVER

Camping Family Style BY ANGELA AND FORD BOTHWELL

Take an infant in diapers camping? Why not? While infants pose special problems, they shouldn't keep you at home. Here are tips to ease the trip with a camping infant.

Don't take an infant camping until he's 3-6 months old; after that, take him as soon as feasible. But don't expose him to severe weather conditions.

Best place to start camping with your baby is right in your own backyard. Sleep out with him there in your tent or RV and get him used to the night sounds.

How far to go on that first trip depends on the baby's disposition. Certainly, marathon drives should be avoided, but a lengthy stay at a campsite won't bother a baby that's kept comfortable.

As for foods, take the same precautions you would take at home. If in doubt, boil it. Stock up on baby's normal foods before leaving on a lengthy trip. You may not be able to buy a given item in some locations, so don't risk subjecting him to unfamiliar food at a time like this. Be advised, however, that it's not uncommon for a camping infant to abruptly tire of baby foods and try more solid grub. If it happens, relax. An infant's appetite will increase in the outdoors, just as yours will.

Disposable diapers are a blessing when taking an infant camping. If you prefer permanent diapers, it's no problem, since you're almost never out of reach of a laundromat, either at the campground or in the nearest town.

A lightweight, portable playpen, if you have room to pack it, can be used both inside and outside the tent or RV, and can also serve as a crib. A collapsible stroller might have limited use in a campground, but it's invaluable when sightseeing. And if you plan to do any hiking, a piggyback papoose carrier, adjustable for both husband and wife, is a wise accessory.

Older children can help with infant care around the campsite, pitching in with babysitting and other chores. They must also realize that when baby is sleeping, there's no running in and out of the tent or RV.

Back section area home destroyed

Fire destroyed the back section of the house belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dudgeon of Cooper. The fire broke-out

Wednesday night. Firefighters came from the Township Volunteer Fire Department and the Village of Madoc Volunteer Fire Department. The ashes were still smoldering the time this photograph was taken. (Staff photo)

Firemen from around the area were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dudgeon of RR 3 Madoc Wednesday, June 16 at 7.30 p.m. to extinguish the back section of their home.

Volunteer firemen from Madoc Township arrived on the scene first to battle the blaze. Mrs. Dudgeon said this section of the house was used during the summer as the kitchen.

Firemen from the village were soon at the site.

The back section of the house was entirely destroyed.

All of the items in the house were removed from it by the firemen and neighbors.

The origin of the fire is still unknown and there was no estimate of damage.

There was heavy smoke damage to the rest of the house.

Firemen were at the scene until after midnight to make sure that the blaze would not erupt again.

New water line under consideration

Council discussed at its June 7 meeting about the possible construction of a new water line on Champlain St. This would replace the existing 1.5 inch line presently there.

The village engineer will be contacted to advise council on this proposed change. The capital water and sewer work slated for Seymour St. will proceed immediately. Village councillor Clayton Smith will be making the necessary arrangements.

Public health nurses oppose lockouts

Public Health Nurses from across the province went on a one week strike last week to back their demand for compulsory arbitration to end strikes and lockouts.

A group of Public Health Nurses picketed outside of the Centre Hastings Medical Centre, Thursday, June 17, to demonstrate their position. One of the nurses said, their grievances were not with the doctors and staff in the local medical centre.

Madoc Twp reorganizing fire dept.

Madoc Township is reorganizing their municipal fire department under the guidance of the Fire Chief, Gerald Morrison.

A new 1976 three-ton truck has been purchased which will be converted into a tanker truck holding 1,600 gallons capacity of water.

The system is being built by Ross McNaught Welding of Tweed, who has built several of this type of unit for other municipalities. He is currently the fire chief of the Tweed Fire Department.

The completion of the unit is not expected until September of this year.

The updating of the equipment is essential township officials said. The rising capital investment in the municipality by individuals made the council concerned.

They are planning a reorganization of the volunteer manpower system which will draw people from all areas of the township. This will permit the proper training in fire fighting and prevention.

Along with compulsory arbitration, the Public Health Nurses say communities are entitled to uninterrupted preventive health services by these nurses.

Arbitration was proposed by the nurses to ensure the community is never deprived of service as in the case when a strike or a lockout takes place.

The Public Health Nurses claim the employers refuse arbitration and actually prefer strikes and lockouts.

The Public Health Nurses also said they would like to see an increase in the provincial budget. At present, the Health Care Budget on Preventive Health Care is two per cent.

A nurse from Local 31, which is located in the Hastings and Prince Edward Health Unit, said they would like a pay increase which would be on par with hospital staff nurses.

She claimed the employers are hiding behind the rules of the Anti-Inflation Board. To reach parity, the Public Health

LAWN BOWLING IS NOT JUST FOR THE ELDERLY

For many people the idea of lawn bowling is a game for the elderly. This is not so according to Jack Booth the acting president of the Madoc Lawn Bowling Club.

The Lawn Bowling Club has been under renovations and is now ready for its opening Thursday, June 24.

The program is open for everyone, said Mr. Booth. "It is not just for the elderly," he said.

The club received a grant from the federal government through the new Horizons program. With the $4,830 grant, the club house was expanded and also the Nurses would receive an estimated increase of 15 per cent.

The Public Health Nurse serves a variety of services, she said. She works with referring and counselling. The Nurses have special classes for maternity care, child health, helping senior citizens, for diabetics, mental health, family planning, and services as a hospital and doctor liaison.

In this unit, there are 20 Public Health Nurses who have completed a four year program, six Registered Nurses and five Registered Nurses' Assistants.

A group of Public Health Nurses was on strike last week to back their demands for compulsory arbitration. The nurses returned to their jobs Monday, June 21.

Liberal preparing for early nomination

It looks like Liberals in the new Hastings-Frontenac riding will be going to a nominating convention this fall to select a candidate to contest the 1978 federal election.

Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner urged the association to get a candidate into the field as soon as possible.

"This is a huge riding," he said, "but it can be won."

"You have made a good start in the selection of your new executive, and you have made an excellent choice in David Pattenden as your first president."

"Your job now is to have a nomination meeting in the fall, and get a good candidate out in the field meeting the people, and you have an excellent chance of winning."

He said people are more inclined to vote and work for a candidate, rather than a particular party, and the sooner a candidate can get active the better.

Mr. Pattenden, in accepting the presidency, agreed with Mr. Faulkner's remarks, and said he would go for a fall nomination meeting if other members of his executive were in favor of it.

David Hobson, the Hastings-Peterboro Liberal candidate nominated to contest the next provincial election, said he would help in any way possible, and paid tribute to Mr. Faulkner for the assistance he has been to him regarding federal matters in his area.

Committee wants to keep operating as "watch dog"

While there doesn't appear to be any immediate move towards regional government in Hastings County, the county council's special municipal reform committee wants to keep operating as a "watch dog".

Kenneth Smith, committee chairman, reported to county council Tuesday that the committee's main purpose in existing for the foreseeable future will be to deal with reports and discussion papers referred for study, to make recommendations where appropriate and to defend our previous position of not commenting on adjacent studies unless they interfere with the boundaries of this county.

"The previous position of this committee has been that unless the neighboring studies interfered with the boundaries of Hastings, then no attempt would be made to influence the decision making process in those municipalities," Mr. Smith pointed out. "At the present time it appears that none of the neighboring studies will have any 'major' effect on the county."

Reviewing the surrounding studies, Mr. Smith commented as follows:

1 - In Prince Edward they are talking about a one tiered level of government but it is difficult to perceive that this will be a reality for the foreseeable future.

2 - In Northumberland a study has been underway for some time. The final report was presented in December, 1975. It

Lack of money could delay project year

MADOC - If the Community Centre Drive does not raise enough money through donations and pledges, it may be delayed until next year, said T.C. Barton, Reeve for the village of Madoc.

The "project can't proceed without people giving," he said.

Mr. Barton also said the council would not be going any further on raising any money through taxation.

One option may be to take out bank loans to get the needed funds.

Mr. Barton praised the people who are working on the drive. He said they work hard and long to have this project completed.

They're coming!

They're coming! That's right they're coming!

The Imperial Hell Drivers will be appearing at the Madoc Fair grounds, August 23. The show is sponsored jointly by the Madoc Volunteer Fire Department and the Madoc and District Agricultural Society.

All proceeds of the event will be going towards the new Community Centre.

The price of admission is $3 for adults; $2 for students; and $1 for a child. There will be no advance sale of the tickets.

suggested consideration of inviting Trenton to join Northumberland but recent press reports indicate that Trenton, through a study of its own, can see no benefits in joining with Northumberland.

3 - There is an ongoing study in Renfrew and the final report there is due sometime this year. Preliminary proposals indicate a transfer of that part of Bangor Township to the east of Kaministiquia Lake to Radcliffe Township. Personal conversations with some people in Renfrew County indicate that the proposals for restructuring have little hope of being implemented.

4 - In Lennox and Addington the second report has now been tabled. It is entitled, What's Wrong With Local Government in Lennox and Addington? It makes no specific proposals but merely raised the issues. The report contends that Napanee and the southern end of Lennox and Addington are oriented to the City of Kingston. It also maintains that Deseronto's orientation, while not strong, is more pronounced towards Napanee than it is to Belleville.

Mr. Smith said he can see little enthusiasm for either regional government or restructuring of Hastings County at the present time. The main factors behind the consensus, he feels, are as follows:

1 - The county as a whole is not subject to the pressures of urbanization and therefore does not see the need for reform.

2 - The county has now an official plan approved by the Ministry of Housing and this was one of the main reasons advanced for restructuring local government. The zoning by-laws are now in the process of being presented to each municipality.

3 - There is a good deal of disillusionment with the success of the reorganization of the county educational system. Generally speaking, people tend to associate the increase in educational costs with the formation of county school boards and the larger areas of jurisdiction.

4 - Similarly, reports filtering back from regional governments via the press or through opposition parties of the provincial legislature have not been complimentary and have tended to emphasize the increased cost of regional government without recognizing the increased level of services. Perhaps the appropriate question is whether or not an increased level of services is needed by local government in this county.

5 - A relaxation on the part of the province to introduce regionalization or restructuring in more rural areas of the province.

6 - No further requests from either the City of Belleville or the Town of Trenton for a restructuring study.

While there is no drive for regionalization within the county, nor any pressures, as yet, from surrounding studies, Mr. Smith feels there is little danger of Hastings being drawn into regionalization in the near future.

But, as he says, "until there is a more pronounced indication of the government's intention on regionalization", the committee will be around to "watch dog" the whole thing.

Ron Hiuser

As I sit here trying to start my weekly column, I am not too sure exactly how or, for that matter, what I'm going to say.

There were a variety of events which have occurred here, and around here, in the last little while.

Before I get onto a single tangent, I would like to remind you about the opening of the Madoc Lawn Bowling Club on St. Lawrence St. If you'll read the story elsewhere in this paper about the club you will realize the work that has gone on around the building.

In talking with the acting president of the club, Jack Booth, I learned about some of the history of the club and how the present changes came around. Under a federal grant through the New Horizons program, the local club received over $4,000 to do the renovations.

Just looking at the work that has been done, I say it has been money well spent. The club has been completely redone from the floor to the ceiling.

There are now tables and chairs, a kitchen, new washroom facilities, and a brand new attitude. The latter is probably the most important of the changes.

One thing that was stressed by Mr. Booth was realizing that lawn bowling was not just a game for the elderly. The game can be a real workout, he said.

With the enlarged area, Mr. Booth said the club creates an ideal locale for senior citizens to drop in and bowl a game or play cards, have their lunch or just a cup of tea. Beverages such as tea and coffee will be provided free for the senior citizens for the present. Mr. Booth said there is enough money left from the grant to pay for the senior citizens' refreshments.

The time of the opening will be Thursday, June 24, around 1.30 p.m.

ON A DIFFERENT TOPIC, I'd like to get around to talking about these unidentified flying objects. I haven't said much about them in the last while for the main reason I haven't heard of any more sightings or possible areas where an UFO might have landed.

As yet I am still waiting for Reptune Research, the Toronto-based group which has been investigating the local occurrences, to provide me with a copy of their findings for this area.

For those of you who may be interested, Reptune will be holding a special public presentation concerning work being done on UFO's. The show will be held at Seneca College in Toronto on the Woodbine and Steeles campus. It will start June 23 and continue until June 25.

Elmwood man heads H-F Liberal Association

David Pattenden, of Elmwood, is the first president of the new Hastings-Frontenac Federal Liberal Association.

He was elected to the post unopposed during the inaugural meeting of the association in Madoc, Saturday.

Mr. Pattenden, who also holds the position of president of the Frontenac-Addington Provincial Liberal Association, and is a key party fund raiser in the area, called for everyone to work together to ensure that a Liberal party candidate wins the riding in the next federal election expected sometime in 1978.

Other officers elected were Mike Quinn, of Madoc, executive vice-president; Stephanie Foster, St. Ola, women's vice-president; Rick Ellis, Marmora Township, youth vice-president; Gloria Leveque, Maynooth, secretary; and Hazel Lavender, Marmora, treasurer.

The riding was divided into six regions, each of which will elect a regional vice-president to serve on the riding executive.

Region 1 - Townships of McClure, Wicklow, Bangor, Herschel, Monteagle, Carlow, Faraday, Mayo, Dungannon, Wollaston, Limerick and Cashel, along with the village of Bancroft.

Region 2 - Townships of Lake, Tudor, Grimsthorpe, Marmora, Madoc and Elzevir, along with the villages of Marmora, Madoc and Deloro.

Region 3 - Townships of Ashby, Denbigh, Effingham, Abinger, Anglesca, Barrie and Kaladar.

Region 6 - Townships of Richmond, Ernestown, North and South Fredericksburg and Adolphustown, along with the Town of Napanee and the Villages of Bath and Amherstview.

Frank Chapman, president of the Hastings Federal Liberal Association, conducted the election of officers.

Don Mullan, president of the Hastings-Peterborough Provincial Liberal Association, welcomed those present and chaired the meeting until Mr. Pattenden was declared elected the inaugural president.

Craft & recreation program at CHSS

A craft and recreation program will be operating out of Centre Hastings Secondary School from July 5 to August 13. Allan Cox, principal of Bridgewater School applied for and received funding from the ministry of community and social services. The program is for any student of the Bridgewater School in Actinolite plus any student between six and 12 years of age living in the Marmora, Tweed and Madoc area. Where there are sufficient pupils to make a trip economically feasible, a bus will be provided. Centre Hastings Secondary School was chosen because it is centrally located and has excellent gym facilities.

The program will operate from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday to Friday. A similar program was held at Bridgewater School during the summer of 1973 and 1974.

The aims of the program are to maintain and develop socialization and recreational skills; to maintain and develop fine and gross motor co-ordination; to develop self-help skills; to provide daily parental relief from the constant supervision required by the mentally retarded; to provide training in leisure time activities; to provide opportunities involving integration of the mentally retarded and normal youth. (This will provide an added opportunity to continue our present integration project with a grade seven class); to provide activities involving team work and sharing.

Dorothy Peters who has worked on our program in the past, graduate of Trent University, and presently employed as a Teacher's Aid at Madoc Public School will supervise and co-ordinate the program.

With the assistance of the Guidance Department at Centre Hastings Secondary School, Mr. Cox and Miss Peters have selected the following capable staff.

Before the program begins each of the above staff will have spent a week of orientation in the Bridgewater School plus a week of planning.

Cost for six weeks is $15 per child or a maximum of $25 for a family. There are still some openings for children in the program. If you wish to enroll your child contact your local school or phone Dorothy Peters 473-2487 or Allan Cox at 478-3032.

Better break fringe benefits

Non-union employees of the County of Hastings are getting a better break in their fringe benefits, thanks to recently approved contracts between the county and its employees belonging to unions.

Kenneth Smith, chairman of the personnel committee, told Hastings County Council yesterday that his committee has updated the working conditions and welfare benefits of the non-union employees so they would be consistent with the union groups.

The county has not settled with all its unionized employees, and terms of the new contracts have been filed with the Anti-Inflation Board.

"We don't anticipate any roll back in the provisions of any of them," noted Mr. Smith.

The committee appointed Donald McNevin of Corbyville as its nominee for the proposed local housing authority, and the nomination has been forwarded to the Ontario Ministry of Housing. Mr. McNevin is prepared to accept the appointment, if granted, and will not be remunerated other than for his travelling expenses.

Vets' service Sunday at 2

As in other years the flags will be raised by Boy Scouts and Girl Guides.

Among the honored guests will be Grace O'Rourke, president of the Madoc Senior Citizens and Merritt Metcalfe, president of the Tweed Senior Citizens. Last year a busload of Senior Citizens came from Corbyville. This year busloads are coming from Eganville and Morrisburg and other places.

Harold Varty, president of the East Central Advisory Council will speak on behalf of the Senior Citizens. Other speakers will be announced later.

Celebrate Canada Week

June 25 - July 1

Canada Week is a project of the Council for Canadian Unity.

June 25th to July 1st, officially proclaimed Canada Week by Canada's Prime Minister and provincial Premiers, promises to be a special one for Canadians from coast to coast.

During this Week which leads up to Canada's national holiday, hundreds of thousands of Canadians participate in a multitude of activities - some educational, all entertaining.

Co-ordinated by The Council for Canadian Unity, an active non-profit, non-political organization whose members represent each province and territory, Canada Week '76 festivities are now being planned.

The celebrations take many forms: there are film festivals, historical pageants, art and essay contests, picnics, parades, teach-ins, band concerts, sports events and exhibitions of all types. But they are animated by a common spirit: pride in the past, and faith in the future.

Canada Week '76 is more than just a celebration. Its hope is that it will bring Canadians - some of them separated by more than 3,000 miles - to a better understanding of one another.

It is a time for reflection. A time to think about the struggles, hardships and achievements of the past.

A time to recognize that there are differences between Canadians - regional, political, linguistic and ethnic.

A time to realize that these differences will divide Canada - if Canadians permit them to.

A time to reaffirm that these differences will be used instead, to unite the country and make her stronger.

Canada Week - June 25 to July 1. A time for celebration, reflection, reaffirmation. Think about it.

Old time worship

On Sunday afternoon June 20, there was an air of earlier days at the O'Hara Mill site as people gathered for an old-time service of worship. This was the official opening of the O'Hara Conservation Area.

It was reminiscent of those days of the Old Tyme Religion at O'Hara Mill over the weekend. Speaking at the open-air service was Rev. J.M.D. McLeod of Rednersville.

Comfortably seated on the spacious lawn with a tall stump pulpit before the crowd, the service began with an old time hymn sing led by Bill Aylsworth and choir. The "circuit rider" minister was the Rev.

J.M.D. McLeod from Rednersville. Mr. McLeod said in introduction that very early circuit riders at one time covered the area from York (Toronto) to Napanee. Therefore usually it would be a three-hour service as he could not return for weeks, or months, having to minister to such a large territory.

Mr. McLeod read from John 6:27-35 concerning the bread of life and in his sermon mentioned that at one time in the 1860's there was a bad year for potato crops; people were on the edge of starvation. Not only was the wheat, the millstones and the bread very important to them then but these busy pioneers realized that God provides the "Living Bread".

The offering was taken in the old-time long handled collection boxes by three conservation Authority directors - Bert Frink, Delbert Harvey and Harold Thompson.

The service was convened by Alma Moorcroft, a member of the House Committee.

Descendants of the O'Hara family were present. Also present were the O'Hara House committee, members of the Hastings Historical Society and people from Napanee, Deseronto, Belleville, Stirling as well as the Madoc area.

Gordon and Mary Pigden recorded the ceremony for Cable T.V.

Grise Fiord, located on Ellesmere Island 955 air miles northwest of Frobisher Bay, is Canada's most northerly community.

Announce hay crop judging

The Madoc Agricultural Society in conjunction with the Ontario Department of Agriculture sponsored a field crop competition in hay. This was judged by Jim Thompson of Stirling and resulted as follows:

The winners were:
Don McKinnon, 93 points; Raeburn

Robinson, 92; Sayer Brothers, 91; Allen Grant Ketcheson, 90; Harold Harris 90; James A. Miller, 88; George Robinson, 88; Ross Moorcroft, 87; Allan David Franks, 87; Fred Steen, 87.

These top ten competitors received a cash award. The remaining competitors received a score from 86 points down to 81.

installation of a kitchen and table were included.

There is "no argument" as to who uses the club as long as they respect the property, said Mr. Booth.

"You should've seen this place before the renovations," he said. The club had the installation of a ceiling, rugs and eventually drapes will be placed over the windows, said Mr. Booth.

The club has plans to start a Junior program with students from the local schools in the near future.

"We want the senior citizens to know there is another place for them to go," said Mr. Booth. They can come here and have their lunch, play cards, or "just chew the rag," with their friends, he said.

Mr. Booth said for the senior citizens there will be tree tea or coffee. There is enough money left from the grant to provide refreshment of this type for a while, he said. Eventually, a small form of remuneration will be charged for the tea and coffee.

The club will be open every day, except Saturday and Sunday, from between 1.30 p.m. to 4.30 p.m. for the present.

Mr. Booth singled out Percy Naylor, president of the club, as a major contributor to the club. "Without him, the club would have folded years ago," he said.

Alarms being put on exit doors at Centennial Manor

Alarms are being put on all exit doors at the Hastings Centennial Manor, Bancroft, and may soon be put on the exit doors at Hastings Manor, Belleville.

Kenneth Wilson, chairman of the homes for the aged committee of Hastings County Council, told fellow councillors in his report Tuesday that the cost of installing the Bancroft home, alarms will be approximately $3,200.

The installation was recommended following an unfortunate accident last winter when a resident at Centennial Manor wandered out of the home during the night and died before he could be found.

A coroner's jury recommended that the alarms be put on all exit doors at the home. The administrator at Hastings Manor is currently obtaining prices on such an alarm system for that home and will be considered by the committee at its next meeting.

Mr. Wilson noted that a resolution initiated by the committee, and concurred on by council at its last session, had the desired effect. The resolution called for the province to raise the extended are per diem rate from $6.15 to $7.15 as of April 1 of this year, and the province has adjusted the rate to $7.40.

"This additional source of income, together with the adjusted rate for residential care, and the increase in pensions, will help greatly to alleviate the hard pressed financial situation your committee found themselves in earlier in the year," Mr. Wilson explained. "Hopefully we will now be able to operate the homes within the budget."

Land O' Lakes only losers in grant requests considered by county

Land O'Lakes emerged as the only losers in grant requests presented before the finance, property and promotional committee of the Hastings County Council.

Hold off appointment of bylaw officer

Council at the June 7 meeting deferred any action concerning the appointment of a bylaw enforcement officer.

Discussion was held but a motion was not presented and will be decided at a later date.

Winning night for two reasons

It was a winning night for two purposes Thursday, June 24 at the Ball Park.

The Tweed Purina-ettes defeated the Belleville yardmen 6-4 in the night game.

The second winner of the event was the community centre fund which received the gate tolls from the evening. The drive will receive $20. from admissions.

The Belleville team is presently in second place in the league.

Can use office

A letter from Nicola Thompson and Kevin Bray resulted in a village of Madoc council motion at their regular monthly meeting held June 7.

The letter was in question of the summer use of the tourist booth.

Council agreed to permit Miss Thompson and Mr. Bray the use of the old police office during the summer months. Council declined them to use the cupboards since they are used for storage by the village.

Can block it off

Council gave its approval at the June 7 meeting to the Kiwanis Club to block off a section of Durham St. to hold their annual Street Dance and Bazaar.

The blocked off section will extend from St. Lawrence St. to Elgin St. council decided.

The Street Dance and Bazaar will be held from 6 p.m. Saturday July 17 until 1 a.m. Sunday July 18.

This is still subject for approval from the ministry of transportation and communications.

Proceeds from the dance will go towards the new Community Centre.

Napanee winner

At the Ian Tyson Show, May 29, the winner of the 1/2 beef was drawn.

Carolyn MacKenzie of Napanee was the lucky holder of the winning ticket.

The event was sponsored by the Madoc and District Minor Sports Association.

The next draw for 1/2 beef will be held June 29.

The committee thumbed down a $250 grant request from Land O'Lakes Tourist Association, but recommended giving Bancroft $250 to promote its gemboree and awarded the Highland of Hastings Tourist Council $3,450. in a report presented to the county council Tuesday.

James Pollock, chairman, noted that the county had always donated to three tourist groups in the past - Land O'Lakes, Highlands of Hastings and Madawaska Valley.

Because of changes in provincial funding, however, the Madawaska Valley Tourist Council no longer exists and the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Council now encompasses all of the County of Hastings and the southern portion of the District of Nipissing.

Water line Ok if done to standards

Mrs. O'Hagan was advised by council that she can install a water line on Gladstone Ave. provided the work is done according to subdivision standards and that the plans and construction is approved by the municipality.

This decision was made at the June 7 meeting of the council.

Council also decided that the cost of the work be carried by the applicant.

Tudor and Cashel approve payments

The following accounts are to be paid by Tudor and Cashel Council - C.T. Rollins $32.94, Bancroft Times $52.76; B. Baker mil. $72.; postage $86.; tel. $8.93; mis. $4.90.

Motioned by Robbins and seconded by Phillips that the land severances of Edward Williamson File No. B317-76 and B318-76 being Pt Lot 14 Con. 7 Tudor be approved.

It was approved that the road superintendent be authorized to purchase up to ten ton of patching material from MTC.

The road superintendent will fence the road side of the cemetery on the Ridge.

The Highlands of Hastings in turn participates with the Central Ontario Travel Association and receives assistance through them for advertising, preparation of brochures, and other items.

The committee, Mr. Pollock said, considered the matter on two different occasions, and recommends that the total budget allocation of $3,450 be given to the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Council.

In addition, the committee recommended that a $250 grant be given to the Bancroft Gemboree, despite the fact it is run by a private enterprise. Committee members felt the gemboree was a great tourist attraction, and worthy of assistance, providing the grant be used only in the promotion of it.

Announce winners

The winners of the anniversary draw at the IGA Store in Madoc were chosen recently.

Winners of the $25 worth of groceries were Velma Rollins of Madoc, Alcie Dafeo of Gilmour and Mrs. R. Bradley, of Marmora.

The winner of the IGA Bingo was Shirley Parks of Bannockburn. She took home the prize of a 20 inch color television.

The water works department may be getting a new sludge pump, generator and an air pump.

Royal Ontario Museum contributing toward Festival

Two billion years of southern Ontario history is recorded in the 35 feet Museumobile, being sent by the Royal Ontario Museum to the 10th Annual Peace Park Festival, at the Lester B. Pearson Peace Park on Highway No. 7, near Tweed and Madoc, on Saturday, July 17.

The park opens at 10 a.m. featuring the Art, Crafts and Hobby Show until 5 p.m. Entries are already coming in and this year's show promises to be bigger and better. Persons wishing to enter exhibits should write the Peace Park, RR 3, Tweed. Lunch is available on the grounds for all who attend.

The Museumobile is part of the Museum's Education Department. The fossil exhibit shows a coral reef that was found in southern Ontario when it was found under the sea, 500 million years ago. Short films are shown and the exhibits are of interest to young and old.

Gideons hold district banquet

Recently the Gideons, responsible for Centre and North Hastings held a banquet in Madoc with 150 people attending. After a meal, served by the ladies of the Anglican Church, guests were entertained by music and song from David MacLeod, Ruth Pettit and the Lott Trio, all from the Bancroft area. Those in attendance, particularly Gideon members, were greatly encouraged by words of greeting brought from The Hastings County Board

In need of repairs

The Hastings County Administration Building is in need of repairs.

James Pollock, chairman of the county council's property committee, reported to the council's June meeting Tuesday that "a number of problems associated with the building have arisen."

"They include a leak in the roof, deterioration of the front steps, several leaking radiators and numerous cracks in the parking lot."

"The roof is still under bond and part of the problem will be repaired by the bonding company. The other part of the problem has to do with the flashings, which are not covered under bond, and they'll have to be repaired at the county's expense."

The chairman noted that because of budget restrictions this year, the repairs will have to be minimal, but that the committee should consider carrying out major roof repairs another year.

The same situation, he said, applied to the front steps. While they have been repaired almost annually, and will be patched up again this year, consideration should be given to having them completely replaced next year.

Some of the plumbing has also deteriorated, and connections to a number of radiators have had to be repaired, and replaced, throughout the court house.

Likewise the pavement on the parking lot is cracking, and needs to be resealed, and because of all the problems, the budget may have to be overspent.

of Education by Bob Henderson, principal of the Centre Hastings Secondary School and from the Madoc Village council represented by Tom Deline.

The guests speaker of the evening was Acting Staff Sergeant Stan Ferguson of the Ontario Provincial Police who presented an extremely challenging message entitled "Wanted Alive". In his message Mr. Ferguson drew from his experience in the police force to outline the moral apathy which is becoming far too prevalent in our society and by giving examples of how people have been changed by reading the scriptures and experiencing a personal relationship with Jesus Christ, encouraged Gideons to continue placing Bibles.

It is the objective of each Gideon as an individual member to be an effective Christian witness and as an organization, to place Bibles in hotels, prisons, hospitals and schools. Testaments are also given to grade 5 students, to nurses in training and to members of the Canadian armed forces. The Gideon organization is international in scope with camps in over 100 countries. One of the countries that has a great need for Bibles is India and when this need was presented at the banquet, those in attendance responded by donating enough money to send 3,200 Testaments to that country. This number was more than three times the 1,000 Testaments that had been hoped for and a vote of thanks is extended to all those in attendance who supported the Gideon work in such a generous way.

This banquet was the first to be held by the Gideons in the Madoc area and the response shown would indicate that there are many people in the Madoc-Tweed-Marmora district who realize the positive influence that the reading of God's Holy word can have on individuals and ultimately on society.

It is hoped that further activities can be planned in the future which will make it possible for more people in this area to share in the Gideon work.

Mul-lan it over...

with Don Mullan

There was a lot of behind the scenes wheeling and dealing in an effort to get Sheller-Globe, a multi-national manufacturer of automobile parts and vehicles, interested in locating in Deseronto.

And right in the middle of it was Hastings MP Jack Ellis who figures he has spent pretty close to $2,000 of his own money to attract the industry to this area.

Sheller-Globe, based in Toledo, Ohio, has an option to buy the 156,000 square foot Ideal Vendors plant which phased out last June after 26 years of operation.

If it follows through with the option, and acquires the 31 acre site and plant, the firm would use it to manufacture school buses for the Eastern Ontario market.

It already has a plant in Morris, Man., supplying the western area, and up until a few months ago, was supplying the eastern district with buses manufactured at a small plant at St. Lin, Quebec.

The latter plant was a small family run business that decided to sell out. Sheller-Globe determined the St. Lin operation was not big enough for its needs, and decided to look elsewhere for a more suitable site.

ELLIOTT MOTORS, of Belleville, Sheller-Globe's largest school bus dealer, was consulted about a possible location and Bruce Philp, vice-president of the Elliott firm, got in touch with Mr. Ellis.

The Hastings MP figured the logical place for the firm would be in the former Ideal Vendors plant in Deseronto, where the town was being hard hit by the phasing out of the 225 jobs that had been available at the plant.

Sheller-Globe executives flew into Trenton upon the invitation of Mr. Ellis, and were taken to Deseronto to tour the premises - they were somewhat impressed, and said "thanks", but decided to "keep on looking."

WHILE THEY LOOKED the St. Linn plant sold out to Sheller-Globe's major opposition, Blue Bird. The sale, says Mr. Ellis, was almost blocked by the foreign investment review board. But after initially turning it down, the board reversed its decision some two weeks later, and Blue Bird had the green light to complete the transaction (Cabinet intervention?).

Sheller-Globe, now out in the cold, had to serve its eastern markets from Manitoba, and the added expenses tallied $700 per bus.

Knowing the company was reaching the point where a location had to be selected soon, Mr. Ellis kept up his pressure to have the firm select Deseronto as its site.

AS CHARTER PRESIDENT of the Belleville Industrial Commission, which he helped put together in 1964, Mr. Ellis knew a lot of angles.

He made three or four trips to Toledo and brought some more of the Sheller-Globe people up to look over the Deseronto site and the area in general. He got plans of the building, a proposed equipment layout, legal aid, etc., and quietly introduced the executives to others who had invested in the area to get their impressions of the workout of the people and the many other things that are normally looked into when a firm considers locating in an area.

During the interval, however, Ideal Vendors, owned by the Eddie Match organization, was sold as part of a bigger transaction to Warrington Products of Toronto.

Eddie had a division that produced a line of office equipment in Pembroke, Ont., and Warrington wanted it, and had to take the Deseronto plant as part of the overall deal even though it had no uses for the Deseronto premises.

SHELLER-GLOBE didn't really need the whole of the plant either, and thought it would perhaps lease half of it from Warrington. Later, however, Sheller-Globe brass changed their plans, and arranged an option to buy it.

Once again the foreign investment review board reared its head but because the firm was merely replacing its Quebec outlet, permission to proceed was received.

Then the environment people got involved, because of the possibility of fumes and so on, and again Jack Ellis acted as an intermediary in keeping the lines of communication open.

Financing was also looked into as Mr. Ellis worked through the Ontario Development Corporation for a $500,000 loan towards the estimated startup cost of around $2 million.

If all goes well, up to 75 workers will be employed initially, and the figure will be increased to around 100 within two years. Full production should be reached in five years.

OF COURSE, it still all depends on whether or not Sheller-Globe takes up its option, which runs out June 30.

But whether it does or doesn't, one certainly has to credit Jack Ellis as being the major sparkplug in efforts to attract the firm here.

Any proposals for the soon-to-be-closed Marmoraton Mine, Mr. Ellis?

HOW DO YOU DO... I'M ONE OF THE 'HAVES' FROM A 'HAVE NOT' COUNTRY!

Only 'safe' arenas allowed to open

Dr. Bette Stephenson, minister of labor, said June 17, that only arenas that have been certified as safe by a professional engineer will be allowed to open next fall.

In December 1975 the Minister addressed a letter to the heads of councils of all local municipalities asking them to procure a report from a professional engineer on the arena's safety.

Dr. Stephenson commended those municipal councils who filed reports and complied with the directions issued by the Industrial Safety inspectors. She asked that those who had not complied do so immediately to protect the lives of the children and the adults in the community.

Forty per cent of the province's 869 arenas are suspected of not being capable of safely sustaining local snow and wind loads as required by the 1970 National Building Code of Canada.

Of these 350 "suspect" arenas, 200 have been inspected in the past six months and 57 ordered closed. Some of these (57) arenas have been demolished, replaced or repaired in the meantime. The remaining 150 will be inspected and appropriate action taken by the end of July.

In a few cases where engineer's reports state that the building is capable of withstanding certain wind and dead loads, arenas have been allowed to remain open until October 15 to accommodate summer activities. However the Minister warned, "We are certainly trying to be charitable but it's difficult to be excessively charitable when human safety is involved."

Municipalities have received five letters concerning arenas in the past five years. October 1970 a recommendation to obtain a professional engineer's report on arena safety; November, 1971, a similar letter; August 1972, a letter requesting confirmation of arena information in Ministry's files; November, 1974, copies of previous three letters together with a questionnaire to be completed and returned; December, 1975, letter from Dr. Stephenson.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE Response to pleas

This letter is partially in reply to the letter to the Editor recently by Mr. Rollins.

May I begin by explaining how the issue of timber licenses was brought to my attention. I received a series of phone calls; a dozen or so from various loggers and groups of loggers in the north of our Riding. Each caller emphasized the fear that he had about the changes in the issuing of licences by the Ministry. Each caller had contacted either the Ministry or Mr. Rollins or both in an effort to determine what were the changes to be brought about.

These calls were then followed up by a series of meetings where about 15 different loggers helped me draw up a brief to present to the visiting Liberal Caucus. About the same number of loggers signed this brief of their views. I then, as a response to the local loggers' pleas, published the same brief that the loggers signed, as a letter to the Editor.

My research was very carefully based on the word of the loggers who came to me after they had conversed with the Ministry and Mr. Rollins. No loggers with whom I have talked have disagreed with the editorial.

What is most significant about Mr. Rollins' reply is that all the local loggers' suggestions, which safeguard their business, have so far been ignored. To my knowledge no input was asked from the locals or accepted from the locals. That is why the problem was given to me and the Liberal Caucus. Frankly, I feel that our approach (Provincial Liberals) of receiving local input and relying on local expertise is more democratic, responsive and workable.

The confusion over the new rules, the concerns of the local loggers and the presence of the visiting Liberal Caucus have prompted Mr. Rollins to try to explain the new rules. What will be most interesting is to see if Mr. Rollins is willing to have the courtesy now to modify the rules to better enable the local economy to survive.

As one last suggestion, I would like to see the present crown land that is now about one-half tied up in long-term timber leases to large companies who do not always use this timber, be released to all the loggers. There would no longer be, I suggest, a shortage of timber. This would still have to be controlled for sustained yield, but the timber available for cutting would double. I do hope this helps to clear up the misunderstanding and accusation.

Yours truly,
Dave Hobson,
Hastings-Peterborough Liberal Candidate.

Federal controls to be continued

Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner told the founding meeting of the Hastings-Frontenac Federal Liberal Association in Madoc Saturday that the federal government's wage and price control program will be around for some time yet.

"The Prime Minister has said it, the minister of finance has said it, and cabinet has said it," he emphasized. "Controls are here for three years. They are here until we have reached our aim which is to bring down inflation to around four per cent a year."

"If, by some miracle we together can do it sooner, then we are not going to stay with controls just for the pleasure of spending a large part of our time as ministers and as civil servants making the controls work, and create problems for you."

Preliminary assessments of the eight-months-old program are very encouraging, according to the minister.

He said that between April of 1975, and April of 1976, the total consumer price index increased by just 8.9 per cent - but it is still an unacceptable level of price increase, even though it may signal the turning point from the higher rates of the previous two years.

On the wage front, negotiated settlements for the final quarter of 1975 were the lowest in 18 months. And at the same time, labor is staying ahead of inflation, the average income increase during 1975 being 14 per cent, compared to the rate of inflation at nine per cent.

One foot in the furrow' by Bob Trotter

Letters are appreciated by Bob Trotter, Eldale Rd., Elmira, Ont. N3B 2C7

Carry on Gene/we need you!

Disgraceful, you say?
Stupid and undemocratic?

Many things have been said about the action taken by those Quebec dairymen when they virtually attacked Parliament Hill recently.

Leaders of the Quebec Agricultural Producers Union have promised to try and restrain their members at any future meetings with federal officials. And Pierre, himself, has said that the more you give dairy farmers, the more they want. When the PM makes such a strong statement, the rest of the country sits up and takes notice.

But Pierre has never been a dairy farmer. I wonder, in his wanderings around the globe before and after he became prime minister, if he even had manure on his boots? Perhaps, although it probably happened when he inadvertently stepped in some camel dung in North Africa.

The government, he said, paid the dairy farmers $250 million last year.

"You'd think at least they'd say thanks, but no, they just want more," he said in a radio interview after the milk-throwing incident.

This is not to condone the actions taken by the Quebec dairy farmers. When a group of people spread anarchy they should be dealt with in the same manner and that's just about what the Mounties did. In fact, the redcoats displayed remarkable restraint in cooling out the farmers.

I do not like what they did and maybe many of them are a trifle ashamed of their actions now. Even their president, Pierre St. Martin, indicated the uprising was sparked by the militant, vocal minority.

All it takes is a few hotheads in a situation such as that to ignite a near riot.

Inevitably, of course, the display by the farmers is being compared to the "peaceful" demonstration staged by the labor movement a few weeks ago. They didn't destroy property, the laborites say. They didn't leave a horrid mess behind them. They didn't throw their products at the ministers of the Crown.

No. They didn't. But that is where the comparison ends.

The labor movement is being asked to restrain demands so that increases fall within the anti-inflation board's guidelines: an increase of about 10 per cent. And this increase may come this year after a couple of years of unprecedented high settlements such as 25, 30 and even 40 per cent.

In other words, labor is being asked to settle for around 10 per cent in wage demands. And labor doesn't like the idea.

But I wonder how peaceful the labor demonstrations would be if they were being asked to take a 20 per cent decrease this year, a pay cut of 20 cents on the dollar? Would their squawks be louder, more militant?

You bet your horse's posterior they would.

They would be so angry and so militant that the empty threat posed recently at the labor congress meeting in Quebec of a nation-wide strike could become a reality. Joe Morris's threat, I believe, to call a nation-wide strike is mere bravado. I don't think any one in the labor movement took it seriously.

But labor is a big force in this country whereas farmers are a minority of about six per cent. Farmers, then, are expendable to politicians.

I can sympathize with dairy farmers across this country. Losses in Quebec for the province's 23,000 dairy farmers have been estimated at $40 million. And all this as a result of the federal government's dairy policy and the eternal optimism of farmers who produce like mad when prices are high.

The person I felt extremely sorry for during the demonstration was poor old Eugene Whelan, the farmers' friend. That wirephoto of him trying to talk into a microphone with powdered milk streaming down his face indicates that the life of a politician can be most painful.

A few months ago, he was being touted as Canada's best agricultural minister since confederation. Today, the Cabinet appears to be ignoring him. I'm sure the dairy cuts weren't his idea but he'll get the blame because his colleagues wouldn't listen to him.

Hang in there, Gene. Agriculture in Canada still needs you, baby!

FREE GUIDE AVAILABLE

Various reasons for pruning clipping

Most gardeners prune and clip for a number of reasons, according to John Bradshaw's lawn and Garden Guide.

Mr. Bradshaw is one of Canada's leading horticultural figures and is well-known through his radio programs. He prepared the easy-to-follow guide for Canadian Industries Limited, and it is available free from CIL lawn and garden products dealers.

Gardeners prune and clip to remove dead, damaged, or diseased parts; to cut away weak spindly growth, and to have shapely plants and hedges, according to the guide.

Start with a good set of pruning shears. Mr. Bradshaw advises. Keep them clean, sharp and in alignment. Wipe them clean after use, and put a spot of oil on them occasionally. Blunt shears can produce torn, ragged and bruising cuts which result in diseased plants.

Always make the cut about 1/4" above a bud, slanting the cut at 45 degrees. The cut should face away from the bud, and the bud should be facing out from the centre of the growth. This keeps the plant shape open.

Little Pruning -

According to the guide, the plants listed below require no pruning in the first two years, except to shape and remove deadwood in spring. After two years, cut two or three of the oldest branches down to the ground. Don't leave any stubs. Included are Cotoneaster, Flowering Quince, Dwarf Russian Almond, Silverleaf Dogwood, Mock-Orange, Bridal Wreath, Forsythia, Persian Lilac, Tamarisk, High Bush Cranberry, Shadbush, Serviceberry, Siberian Peartree, Fringetree, Spindletree, Flowering Almond, French Lilac, Dutchman's Pipe, Japanese Bittersweet, and Clematis.

Thin to fan only Virginia Creeper, Boston Ivy and Scarlet Trumpet.

"The Legion talks sense"

And Veterans Affairs Minister is going to listen

WINNIPEG - "The Legion talks sense and I am all ready to listen", Veterans Affairs Minister Daniel MacDonald told some 2,500 accredited delegates assembled here from all over Canada today for the biennial convention of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Commenting on the fact that it was the Legion's 50th anniversary year since its founding in Winnipeg, Mr. MacDonald paid high tribute to its record of service on behalf of veterans and the community and expressed confidence that for its next 50 years it would continue as a vital force in Canada.

"The Legion is too valuable an asset to be allowed to fade away like the 'old soldier' and I know that generations of Canadians to come will be grateful that you have generously taken an ever-widening role in the community."

The convention officially opened yesterday when some 1,800 Legion members, accompanied by five bands, marched through rain and wind-swept streets to the new Convention Centre after wreaths were laid at the war memorial.

The official opening ceremony in the Convention Centre was highlighted by the arrival of student relay teams carrying torches originally lit in St. John's, Newfoundland and Victoria, B.C. The torches stand for the golden anniversary theme "Old Torch - New Flame" and they were used to light a great torch which, erected on a special stand in the convention hall, will burn throughout the five-day meeting.

Distinguished guests from the USSR, South Korea, Australia, Great Britain and the United States, as well as Members of Parliament and the Department of Veterans Affairs were welcomed. In keeping with the theme of the first day's business sessions "veterans' legislation", Mr. MacDonald referred to the Legion's "Operation Service" project as its finest golden anniversary undertaking and predicted it would be a tremendous achievement.

In "Operation Service", the Legion plans to visit every home in every city, town and village in Canada to find out if there are any war veterans or dependents who are entitled to assistance under federal veterans' legislation but have not been getting it from ignorance of the benefits. The convention will prove to be the largest ever held by the Legion with some 5,000 delegates having registered by noon of the first day's business sessions.

Retiring Dominion President Robert McChesney reviewed the Legion's activities in the two years since the last Dominion Convention, asserting that the organization had never been in a better position to serve its membership, other ex-service people, the community and the nation.

There's such a thing as playing dumb, but who can tell who's acting?

"We have every reason to be proud of our accomplishment to date, but there is yet much that can be done", he said. "We are on the threshold of a new and challenging era."

Country & Western

By Bob Wood

Country-western music fans in the Marmora and district area are in for a big treat this coming Sunday, June 27, as the first Annual Outdoor Jamboree will be held just west of Marmora at 1.30 p.m., weather permitting.

Some of the local country entertainers in the district featured will be the Western Hayriders, Roger Schneider, Kathy Whalen, old time fiddler Charlie Campion, Delbert and Daisy, blue grass harmony, with Cross Country Jamboree star Keith Tompkins on blue grass banjo.

This should prove to be a very enjoyable afternoon, so bring your lawn chairs and have a good time.

The fellow with little principle winds up with little interest from others.

The location once more is west of Marmora on Highway 7, the Kent's Drive-In lot. In case of rain the program will be rescheduled.

IN MEMORIAMs

ELLIS, Henry - In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather who passed away June 24, 1973.
God looked around His garden,
And He found an empty space;
He then looked down upon the earth
And saw your weary face.
He put His arms around you
And lifted you to rest;
God's garden must be beautiful,
For He only takes the best.
Lovingly remembered by daughter Eva and grandchildren Gerry, Susan, Kenny and Allan.

CHARD - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather Herbert A. Chard who passed away June 24, 1964.
Twelve years have passed away and gone
Since the one we loved so well,
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon his grave
May wither and decay,
But the love of him who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by wife Lottie and family.

ANDREWS - In loving memory of a dear mother, Mary Andrews, who passed away June 24, 1972.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Lovingly remembered by Jack, Eunice and family.

KENNEDY - In loving memory of Helen Olga Kennedy, June 26, 1973 devoted wife and mother; and Stella May Wood loving sister and aunt - died June 24, 1975.
Upright and just in all their ways,
Loyal and true through all their days,
Silently suffered, patiently bore,
God took them home
To suffer no more.
Tom, Kathy and Guy Kennedy; Minnie and Margerite Wood.

IN MEMORIAMs

IN'T VELD - In memory of a dear Husband, Father and Grandfather, Cornelis in't Veld, who passed away June 22nd, 1972.
We watched you suffer and heard you sigh,
But all we could do was just stand by
For when the time came we suffered too
For you never deserved what you went through.
So if you have a father or grandfather
Cherish him with care
For you never know the heartache
'Til you see his vacant chair.
Sadly missed by wife, children and grandchildren.

ELLIS - In loving memory of my husband who passed away three years ago June 24, 1973.
Sadly missed along life's way,
Quietly remembered every day,
No longer in my life to share
But in my heart he's always there.
Lovingly remembered by his wife Emma.

ELLIS, Henry - Who passed away June 24, 1973.
Though your smile has gone forever,
And your hand we cannot touch,
We have so many memories,
Of the Father we loved so much.
Ever remembered by son Cliff and grandchildren Barbara, Ronnie, Kathy and Cheryl.

CASSALMAN - In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Marjory Cassalman who passed away June 28, 1974.
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
The secret tears still flow,
What it meant to lose you Mom
No one will ever know,
When we are sad and lonely,
And everything goes wrong,
We seem to hear you whisper,
"Cheer up and carry on."
Too dearly loved to be forgotten by son George, daughter-in-law Elsie, grandchildren Joey and Lisa.

IN MEMORIAMs

BRONSON - In loving memory of a dear husband Thomas P. Bronson who passed away June 24, 1975.
What I would do to clasp his hand,
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
That meant so much to me.
Lovingly remembered by his wife Alice and family.

BRONSON - In loving memory of a dear father Thomas P. Bronson who passed away June 24, 1975.
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
Sadly missed by daughter Donna, Glenn,
Scott and Todd.

IN MEMORIAMs

DAFOE - In loving memory of our beloved son, Dick, who left us so suddenly 13 years ago, June 22nd.
Our sudden separation brings poignant grief and pain,
But Oh, I know hereafter that we shall meet again.
Still missed and still loved by mom and dad, brothers and sisters.

BRONSON - In loving memory of my father, Tom, who passed away June 24, 1975.
He is missed very much by all.
Always remembered by his daughter Barb. and family.

Mopeds are great fun.

This is what Ontario is doing to make sure they're safe fun.

Regulations governing the use of mopeds are fairly new to Ontario. But they are necessary because, with 30,000 mopeds on the road this year and a tragic record of 9 moped-riders killed in Ontario traffic last year, mopeds definitely must be -- and are -- considered as vehicles under The Highway Traffic Act.

The rules and regulations are simple:

- Mopeds must not weigh over 120 pounds
- They must have operable pedals at all times
- Their speed must not exceed 30 miles per hour in one mile from a standing start
- They are prohibited from travelling on expressways
- Drivers must be 16 or older and have a valid Ontario driver's license or temporary instruction permit
- License plates are required, and cost $5.00
- Mopeds must be insured for public liability and property damage
- Helmets -- while not yet required -- are recommended

Old age pensions jump

OTTAWA - Increases in the Old Age Security pension, Guaranteed Income Supplement and Spouse's Allowance, effective in July, 1976, were announced today by Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde.

Increases in Old Age Security pension and Guaranteed Income Supplement payments represent the eleventh quarterly escalation based on the cost of living, as provided for in the Old Age Security Act.

The new monthly total at the single rate for persons receiving both the basic Old Age Security pension and maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement will be $233.19.

For a married couple who are both pensioners, the combination of the basic pension and maximum supplement will provide a payment of $444.84 for the couple monthly.

The basic Old Age Security pension will rise in July to $137.06 from the present $135.43.

The maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement for a single person, or a married person whose spouse is not a pensioner and is not receiving a Spouse's Allowance, will go up in July to $96.13 from its current $94.99. The maximum supplement for a married couple, both pensioners, will increase to $85.36 each from $84.35. Added to the basic pension, this will give each married pensioner, $222.42 monthly, or a total of $444.84 for the couple.

The maximum Spouse's Allowance will increase to $222.42 from $219.78. The maximum Spouse's Allowance is made up of an amount equivalent to the basic Old Age Security pension and an amount equivalent to the maximum Guaranteed Income Supplement at the married rate.

It's all right to blow your own horn if You're sure you're bigger than the truck driver ahead of you.

Bill Smiley You can help make my holidays successful

By BILL SMILEY

I'M TRYING to figure out some way to go and see my son in Paraguay this summer. Maybe my faithful readers can help.

There's nothing whatever to stop me from just buying a plane ticket and going. Nothing whatever except that I can't afford it. There's a pile of miles between here and there. And the way my wife's been throwing money around lately — new carpeting, new wallpaper, new sewing machine — we'll be lucky if we get through the summer with enough left over to pay admission to the Fall Fair. So, I'll just have to use my native ingenuity, which is also present in very tiny amounts.

Why bother, you say. Why not let the kid come home for a visit? Well, his monthly income is probably around forty bucks, so he has the same problem I have.

He's been there over a year now, and for some reason, he doesn't get our letters, though we receive his. And he is my only son. And he must be lonely. He managed a long-distance call to his mother in February, on her birthday, from Argentina. But he just has no contact with home, and we can't phone him. Just as well. If we could, the old lady would probably be calling him every Sunday night, at about $30 a rattle.

Besides, I love to travel, and I've never been to South America. His mother flatly won't go. She's afraid of being trampled by an elephant or squeezed by a boa constrictor or pinched on the bum by a South American sheik or something.

Slowly, a plan is emerging. There are a few blank spots, but my itinerary is taking shape.

I think I could rake up the price of a bus ticket to New York. From there it's a short hop to Bermuda. On that beautiful island lives a Faithful Reader, a subscriber to the Kincardine News, who has sent back work with a mutual acquaintance that she'd be delighted to show me the island. She'd probably put us up and feed us for a day or two.

Next stop, Jamaica. My nephew has a house and servant there. I have fed that boy (of 26) his bottle and changed his diaper in years gone by. He owes me.

Then a zig across the Caribbean to Mexico City, where a friend of a friend lives. A bed and board and a couple of days among the Aztec ruins would be a nice change.

After that, we hop to Guyana, first stop in South America. (It used to be Dutch Guiana). My brother worked there for a couple of years and has influential friends in the capital, Paramaribo. I should be able to doss down with one of them for a couple of nights while I get acclimatized.

It's the next stop that worries me. Once I get to Rio de Janeiro, I'm home free. I have an old girl friend there, Sylvia. She was a knockout when I knew her in college, and we used to neck under the trees in Queen's Park until I was so weak I couldn't have gone one round with Carmen Miranda. She might not recognize the wreck confronting her, but all I'd have to do is say: "It's Beel. Yo chamo," and she'd throw open the door. She'd recognize immediately that Canadian pronunciation of "Eut'amo" (I love you) which she taught me from the Portuguese.

One big problem. Between Paramaribo, on the north coast of S.A., and Rio, down around the middle of the continent, lie about 1,500 miles of jungle, mountains, jaguars (not the car) and cannibals. Enough stuff to give any man the twitch.

So here's your chance to help, gentle reader. If you happen to have an uncle or brother working in the tin mines of La Paz, high in the Andes, we could zig over there and let him put us up for the night.

This would mean a jungle jump of only about 500 miles, a mere bagatelle, though the Andes are a bit dicey. From La Paz, in Bolivia, to Asuncion, Paraguay, is a mere half day's hop.

Then it's just a day's ride by bus up into the Chaco (or Green Hell, as it is known) and it's a casual, "Hi, Hugh. Thought I'd drop down and say hello." I can just see his face. And hear his first remark, "Where's Mom?"

As you can see, the trip would be a piece of cake, once we sorted out a few rough spots, like that jungle bit. On the way home, we could go around by Sao Paulo, where I know a couple of nurses. Or did 30 years ago. No problem.

All it needs is a little co-operation from my readers. If you know anyone who could put us up for the night in Peru or Chile or Buenos Aires, feel free to drop a line. We'll shack up with anyone, even missionaries.

OTTAWA — (SF) — At the end of this week yet another increase in the price of crude oil goes into effect at the wellhead. The government has decreed that the $1.05 per barrel price hike won't be passed on to the consumer until 60 days later, so we'll have most of the summer driving on the old gasoline price, which is some small consolation.

When the new price hits the gas pumps regular grade gasoline will cost us between 82 and 95 cents a gallon, depending on which provincial gasoline tax is charged. Heating oil prices will be up to roughly 50 cents a gallon, and that is going to smart next winter.

Another price boost is due January 1, but it is not scheduled to hit consumers until March 1. It will slap yet another four cents a gallon onto the price of both gasoline and heating oil.

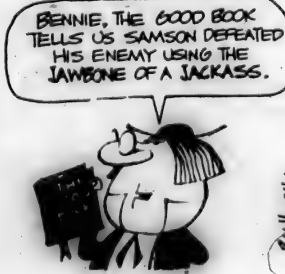

This catalogue of doom probably isn't improving the quality of what, I hope, is otherwise a lovely early summer day, but there is a point to be made.

When the last price increases for crude oil went through, several gasoline stations in our neighborhood started sneaking up the price in advance. Oil companies have pretty large storage facilities. The reason the federal government has decreed there will be no consumer jump in the price of petroleum products for 60 days after the wellhead price goes up is to allow enough time for stored oil produced at the old price to work its way through the refinery and storage system.

Watch for early price hikes at your local service station, and complain like blazes if they take place.

The Information Network

The first fully integrated print communications organization in Eastern Ontario, the Cembal group of companies, offers advertisers and public alike efficient, multi-faceted services of high quality.

Applying the "bigger and better" principle of the '70's, the Cembal organization has grown, under the watchful eye of its founder and owner Joseph Cembal, from its one-newspaper Picton Gazette days of 1972 to conglomerate status today.

Its success to date recently culminated in the grand opening on June 11 of its new Belleville headquarters and offset print facility, Cembal Printing Limited. The same building also accommodates an in-house advertising agency. Then, at their own locations, there are seven Cembal-owned community newspapers, a printing service in Napanee with its affiliated sales office in Amherstview, as well as a recently established advertising and printing sales arm, Cembal Communications, which works out of the attractive surroundings of an executive suite at Inn on the Park, Toronto.

Utilizing all these assets from the spanking new, 12,000-square-foot, Cembal building at 330 Bell Boulevard in Belleville's Northwest Industrial Park, the companies offer advertisers all the material, manpower and facilities necessary to nurture projects from conception to print form. Assignments handled include the production of flyers, brochures, pamphlets, newspaper supplements and advertising. Physical production is expedited by the sophisticated printing plant which is capable of handling high-volume work, including four-color process reproduction, all types of printing including books, assembly, stitching and bindery services.

The Cembal newspapers themselves are read in a total of 21,000 households in the historic, picturesque and growing areas of Prince Edward County in the south, Amherstview in the east and the Highlands of Hastings and Peterborough County in the north.

Quality is high on the Cembal list of priorities.

"We'd rather lose a job on the basis of being unable to deliver quality for the fee offered, than do a sloppy job on the cheap," is a Cembal rule-of-thumb.

High standards are obtainable at reasonable cost however, thanks to the unified project management made possible by this versatile organization.

A high calibre of workmanship is second nature to the key men in the Cembal group.

Owner Joe Cembal is himself a proven pro in the big-league field of publishing. A former Toronto-based publisher of two Maclean-Hunter Limited magazines, he had a total of 18 years' experience in everything from publishing to advertising sales when he bought The Picton Gazette.

His executives are equally well-versed in the intricacies of communications.

Founded by Mr. Cembal, Quinte Advertising Agency has as its Vice President and General Manager Jim Gubb, formerly of Toronto and also a graduate of Maclean-Hunter, Ltd., where he was a promotion manager with 15 years of advertising management experience. Mr. Gubb has headed the agency for four years now.

Alan Roy Capon, Publisher of the Cembal "flagship" newspaper The Picton Gazette and editor-in-chief of all seven Cembal newspapers, supervises journalistic and print standards here with the ease of a man with 20 years combined experience as a reporter, editor and publisher, mostly on Ontario newspapers. An author of four non-fiction books, Mr. Capon originally served his journalistic apprenticeship in Britain, following service in the Royal Air Force.

Ted Watson is General Manager of The Heritage, Amherstview, a community newspaper initiated by Mr. Cembal in answer to the area's need for local news "which I felt wasn't being provided as it should have been," says Mr. Cembal. Mr. Watson has had a total of 22 years of business experience, of which 19 of these were in sales and sales management with The Hamilton Spectator, The Globe and Mail, Maclean-Hunter and with a senior direct mail firm and a Toronto printing company.

General Manager of the five northern community newspapers - The Marmora Herald, The Madoc Review, The Havelock Citizen, The Norwood Register and The Hastings Star, is Keith Anderson. Initially employed by The Picton Gazette, he has spent a total of two years with Cembal newspapers. Previously employed for six years in the Canadian banking industry, he brings a valuable knowledge of higher finances to the organization.

Cembal Printing Limited is headed by Jack Millard, company General Manager. A veteran of 20 years' experience in the Toronto printing field, he has served as a lithographic technician, technical adviser and technical engineer during the course of his career.

Dave Thompson, Sales Manager for the Napanee Printing Service, maintains offices in both Napanee and Amherstview. He has five years of sales experience with most of these acquired at Kraft Foods Ltd., Toronto.

The nature of the market to which these men have access is diverse.

Belleville, the base for the Cembal headquarters, is a thriving centre for this area of Eastern Ontario. This city of 35,000 attracts mostly secondary and tertiary industry. Situated on the shores of the scenic Bay of Quinte, Belleville has easy access to the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway, the east-west link of southern Ontario. Total population in Belleville and its adjacent townships now stands near the 60,000 mark.

The town of Picton is located in Prince Edward County which juts out into Lake Ontario south of Belleville. Treasured by many for its scenic beauty and fine, sandy beaches, the "Quinte's Isle" attracts a lucrative tourist trade and also yields an abundance of fruit, corn and dairy products.

Northern Cembal publications country is composed of that area of the Highlands of Hastings and Peterborough County which cradles the Trans-Canada Highway. It is notable for its tradition-loving towns, year-round tourist business, light industry and mining. With the nearest city scores of miles away, the area relies heavily on its community newspapers.

Amherstview, on the eastern fringe of Cembal land, is a fast-growing, upper-income community in an area steeped in history. An estimated population of 75,000 is predicted by 1980. A Hydro generating plant, fibre company, cement company and local farms provide much of the local employment.

Intrinsic to the popularity of the Cembal enterprises is their careful regard for the nature of the communities they are serving. "The business profile, particularly for the advertising agency, is low-key. But that's what sells here," explains Mr. Cembal.

We're developing our business over a period of time. If we were in Toronto, we'd be pounding on every door in the city... But here, it's much more important to prove through our actions that we can perform.

The entrepreneur is conscious of his obligations to his public. "People today are becoming very conscious of their communities... more conscious than they ever were before." At the same time, the local grapevine, he says, has broken down as people drift to different workday locations and grow apart. Nor does the larger media provide the everyday details of community life.

Cembal newspapers, says their owner, mirror their communities. Who got married, died, had an accident, a party or a fire, who is selling what - all the practical information that can knit people together and help them locally, is reported.

"Our purpose is to mirror the community in a fair and interesting way," concludes Mr. Cembal.

The track record of Cembal enterprises has been impressive. With a total of nine holdings now, and constant recycling of profits back into the business, Mr. Cembal has plans for still further expansion. In fact, a five-year plan has already been formulated and the international scene is in the picture.

Never far from Mr. Cembal's mind are what he considers to be the ultimate goals of his labors.

"There's the satisfaction of doing a job well and one of the ways of measuring that achievement is in making a profit.

"Then there's a certain pleasure in seeing that I am creating a lot of jobs and giving people a good income and livelihood to go with them."

Cembal Printing Ltd.

Even the layman can appreciate the quality reproduction evidenced by the newspapers now rolling off the press at the new Cembal Printing Limited plant in Belleville.

The company, went into production for the first time on June 1, 1976 when 21,000 copies of the seven Cembal community newspapers made their first run on the new press.

Sharing Cembal headquarter's space with the Quinte Advertising Agency in the Northwest Industrial Park in Belleville, the printing plant boasts $300,000 worth of some of the latest offset printing equipment to be found in eastern Ontario. Versatile, the plant can handle four-color process reproduction, the result yielding many different hues, and practically any print assignment. Possibilities range from a 20-page broadsheet newspaper to flyers, brochures, pamphlets, magazine covers and business cards.

Fine half tone photographs and distinct, easily readable print are the result produced by owner Joe Cembal's decision to buy into contemporary offset printing.

With his seven newspapers to get onto the streets every week, (one of them issued twice-weekly) "I felt the need for quality printing which we could do ourselves," he says. "And, since we were already in the commercial printing business elsewhere, I felt it was easier to move into commercial printing with our new company."

Today, at an initial rate of over 12,000 newspapers per hour, the main Cembal press can meet in-house commitments in a working day-and-a-half. This leaves company General Manager Jack Millard ample time for the trade printing he is already busily building as the second stage of the business. After that, there is a third area to move into—printing of flyers, brochures and pamphlets.

During all these phases, the plant's easy access to the adjacent creative staff of the Quinte Advertising Agency is expected to prove valuable.

The key piece of equipment is the Harris V-15A web offset press which is renowned for its speed of production, reliability and capacity for increased volume capabilities by the addition of more units.

At present, the press can print 20 broadsheet or 40 tabloid pages at any one time and assembles, folds and counts these as well. Optional electronic equipment will permit the addition of three more units, increasing production by 60 per cent from its current maximum of 18,000 newspapers per hour. Full color reproduction is possible, when required.

For added versatility, there is a two-color, sheet-fed, offset press which can handle such assignments as magazine covers, books and two-color printing. The unit can double for "perfected" printing—that is, it can print both sides of a sheet at once in one color or one side in two colors.

In addition, for smaller jobs, there is a third offset press designed to provide general printing such as letterheads.

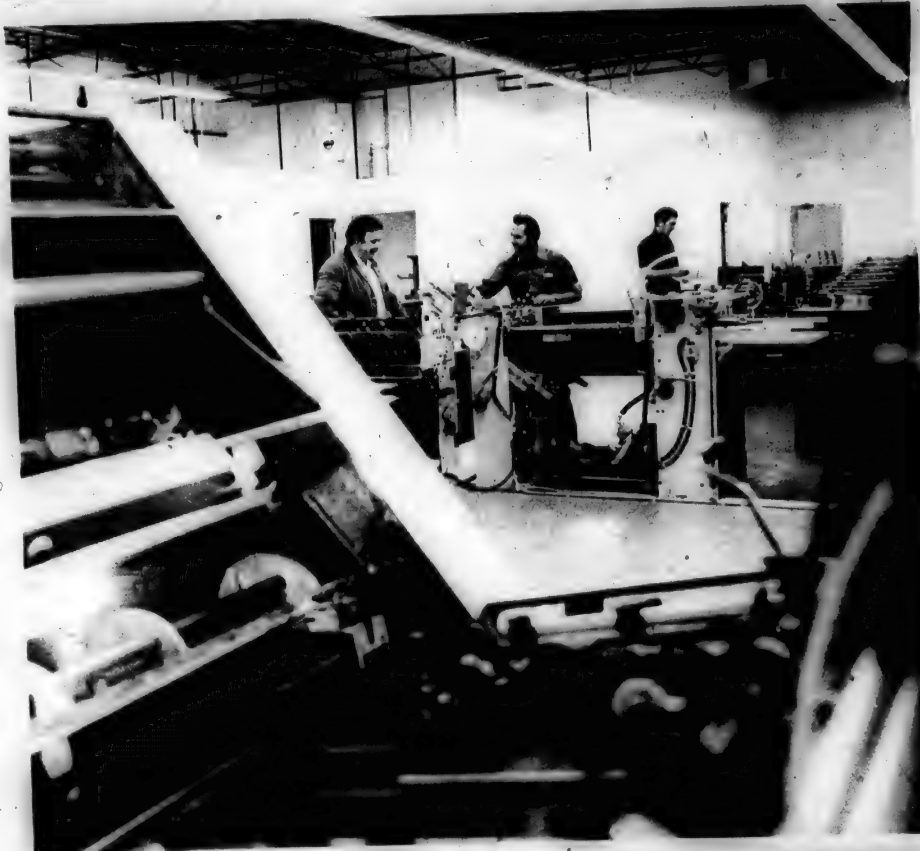

Some letterpress (hot metal) work is also handled on a Heidelberg cylinder press.

To reduce sub-contracting work and production time, the plant is also equipped with a collator, stitcher trimmer which can handle 96 pages at once. It can assemble, stitch and trim about 4,500 magazines per hour.

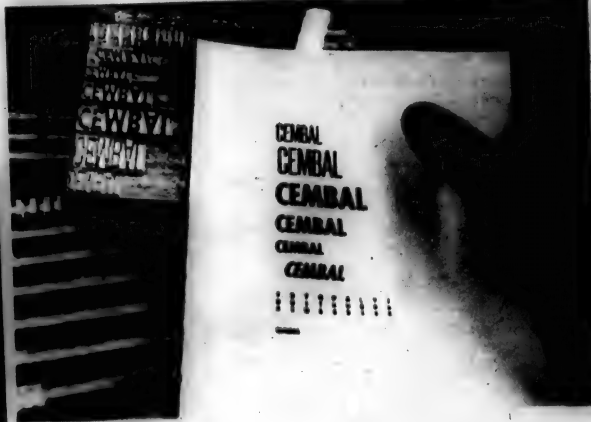

A fully electronic paper cutter capable of storing 64 different cutting programs, provides another needed service. Its "bed of air" principle of operation ensures that even the heaviest of paper is handled with ease and accuracy.

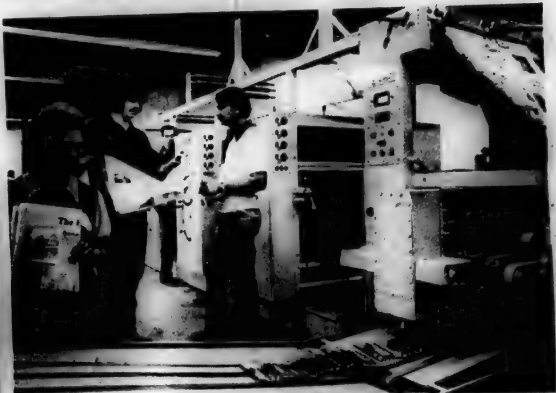

On the photographic end of production, the plant lithographic camera can shoot up to a 20 by 24 inch film for production plates and is capable of enlarging items to three times their size and reducing them to one quarter their original dimensions.

Diversified and foresighted in its planning, the Cembal printing plant is expected to be able to meet current and future workloads with professional ease.

Quinte Advertising Agency

What do a boat builder, a clothing manufacturer, a dairy company and a model agency have in common?

The common denominator is that these four companies approached Quinte Advertising Agency to solve their marketing problems.

The boat builder wanted to introduce a new sail boat to potential buyers, the clothing manufacturer wanted to reach international markets, the dairy company needed a motion picture to use in schools to show children how milk was produced, and the model agency wanted to attract persons interested in becoming fashion models.

These companies are just four of the many and varied clients that Quinte Advertising Agency has worked with over the past three years.

The concept of a full-service advertising agency in eastern Ontario started many years ago when Joseph Cembal was servicing industrial accounts for Maclean-Hunter Publishing Company and detected the need for such a service.

The opportunity of realizing this dream did not occur until after Mr. Cembal had acquired The Picton Gazette Publishing Company, a newspaper and job printing plant in Picton, Ontario.

It became evident to him that several clients of the printing division of the company were interested in specially designed advertising material and as no existing service existed in the area Quinte Advertising Agency was created, offering a full range of creative commercial art and photographic services.

Registered in 1972, the company did not begin full-time operations until the spring of 1973. James Gubb, formerly a promotion manager at Maclean-Hunter, who had worked for Mr. Cembal, was invited to come to Belleville as agency general manager and vice-president. His first challenge was the production of a full-color brochure for a manufacturer of industrial generators and boilers. The same client branched out into a line of swimming pools and Quinte Advertising Agency designed and produced all of the sales literature initially required.

As demand for the various services of the agency grew, it established permanent offices on Front Street in Belleville, and a staff that included an artist, production assistant and sales representative were added to the thriving business. Then, on January 1, 1976, a disastrous fire destroyed the building in which the agency was located, leaving Quinte Advertising temporarily homeless.

Fortunately, negotiations had been completed on the new Cembal building in the Northwest Industrial Park in Belleville, and in March and ad agency was able to relocate there within only a few days' time of the fire.

Although many of the art and photography files were destroyed or damaged, the staff members were able to complete much of the work in progress with only minor delays.

Located in a separate part of the building, the agency now houses the finest creative and production facilities of its kind in Eastern Ontario. Complete with a conference/projection room, the agency also boasts a complete art department, as well as media, production and sale offices.

Through its Toronto-based sales arm, Cembal Communications, Quinte Advertising now offers its services in media creative and placement to national advertisers. The Toronto operation is headed up by C.S. "Sandy" McKague, who was previously a vice president with a major international advertising agency.

Although Quinte Advertising has specialized in the area of print, it has produced advertising programs for local, regional and national clients in the area of radio, television, trade shows, and direct mail.

The policy of Quinte Advertising Agency has, and will continue to be, professionalism. The agency employs specialists on a full-time and free-lance basis, who work together as a team to meet specific marketing objectives.

Although primarily concerned with industrial and commercial clients, the agency has a proud record of achievement with numerous retail operations. It offers the unique advantage to a retailer of having the in-house facilities to plan, create and place an advertising program all types of media.

A further service, unavailable elsewhere in Eastern Ontario, is public relations—a task the agency performs with appropriate sophistication.

For example, in order to introduce a new line of sail boats being made in the area, Quinte Advertising chartered a yacht for an afternoon and invited more than 50 newspaper, radio and television reporters for a cruise.

Then there was the time a Picton manufacturer wanted the public to know about his new plant, and Quinte Advertising hosted an "open house" that attracted over 1,000 visitors.

More recently the agency hosted a press conference to announce a local teenager musical group that had recorded a stereo LP-record.

Quinte Advertising Agency is the type of company that few people ever hear about, or have contact with but much of what people here or see in the media originates here. We are the people who present the products and services that are a part of our everyday life.

The Picton Gazette, flagship of the newspapers owned by Joseph Cembal, is the oldest community newspaper published in Canada. The newspaper was founded in 1830 as the Hallowell Free Press.

Over the years the newspaper has grown with the town of Picton and the county of Prince Edward; it has shared in the county's development and has mirrored its progress.

The Picton Gazette, now the only newspaper published in Prince Edward County, has a circulation approaching 6,000 copies and is published twice a week.

A few years ago the dramatic change from the traditional letterpress (hot metal) process to offset lithography (cold type process) was made. A large financial investment was made in new high-speed. Photo-typesetting machines and the additional new equipment needed to keep The Picton Gazette in the vanguard of progress.

The story of the Gazette is one of progress. When the Hallowell Free Press was first published on Dec. 20, 1830, it was the first newspaper printed between Kingston and Toronto, the seventh in Ontario and the fifteenth in Canada. Joseph Wilson was the founder and publisher.

In 1836, the newspaper became known as The Prince Edward Gazette and in 1848 the name was changed to The Picton Gazette. Picton had been incorporated as a town on March 4, 1837 and the new town included the then twin villages of Hallowell and Picton. Early editors and owners included Cecil Mortimer, J. O. Doran, Thos. Donnelly and Maurice Moore.

In 1856 Stephen Conger afterwards his brother J. W. Conger joined him and they published the Gazette for over 50 years. After their deaths the firm was managed for some time by E. W. Sheriff and J. Herbert Hodgins.

In April, 1912, The Picton Gazette Publishing Co., Ltd., was formed and on Jan. 1, 1913, A. E. Calnan became editor and manager. He and his son, the late Lindley Calnan were associated with the newspaper for many, many years.

The newspaper was sold by Lindley Calnan in 1971 to Joseph Cembal. Mr. Calnan retained the duties of managing editor until his death.

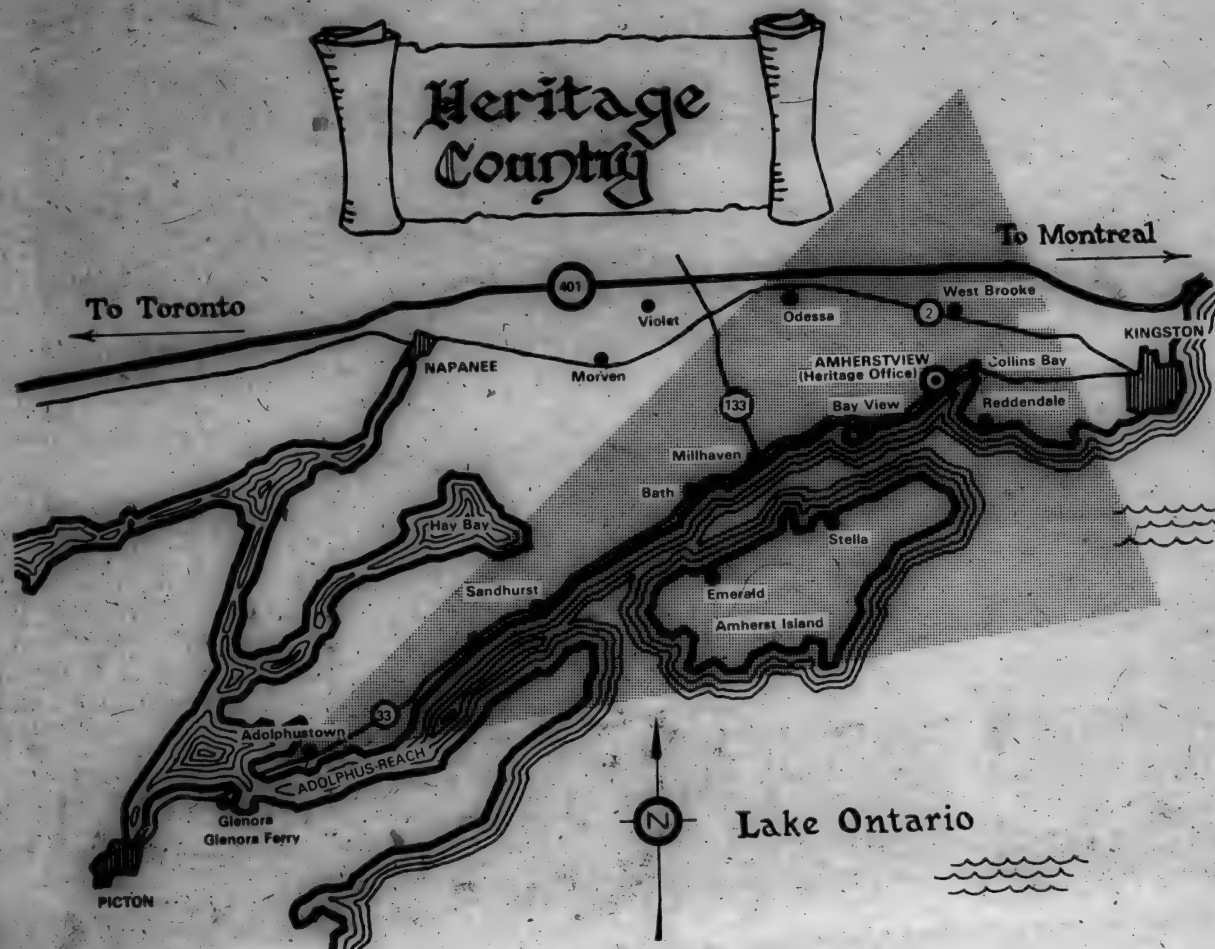

The management of the newspaper has always ensured that the company has been equipped with the latest in equipment. In 1865 the Gazette proudly announced its new "mammoth power press" and in 1928 a new high speed Model A Duplex press, a marvel of its time, was installed, and this, in turn, was replaced with another new press which survived until the recent change to offset printing.

The Gazette was among the first newspapers in Canada to make their own engravings for illustrations in their own plant.

President of The Picton Gazette is Joseph Cembal, editor and publisher is Alan R. Capon, a veteran journalist, and the news staff includes news editor Debra Hook and two reporter-photographers as well as numerous columnists and other writers who contribute on a part-time basis. Many other people from typesetters to printers, advertising salesmen to office staff also work at the newspaper's Picton office. Gordon Meder, a former employee of Maclean-Hunter is advertising sales manager.

In the present, as in the past, The Picton Gazette continues to keep up-to-date in the production of the county newspaper.

The Heritage

The Heritage was first launched on Sept. 10, 1975 to provide a community newspaper for a well-populated area that lacked a local newspaper.

From a central office in the Loyalist Plaza, Amherstview, The Heritage serves a fast growing area of the province in a 50-mile radius including Ernestown Township, Kingston Township and the northern areas of Harrowsmith, Hartington, Verona and Sydenham. Other coverage areas west include Bath, Odessa, Millhaven, and Amherst Island.

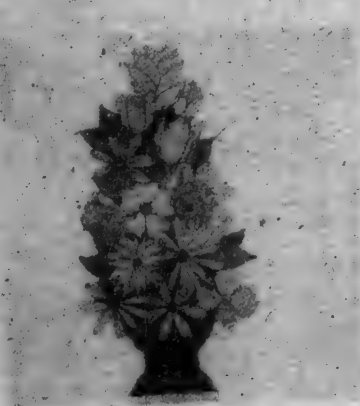

From the beginning the newspaper has endeavoured to become involved in the community and become a "people oriented paper".

By mirroring and recording the life of the area, the staff has counted on readers and advertisers for help, not only for news items, classified and display advertising, but for general support.

Approaching the start of its second year of operation, the staff looks forward to future years of continued success in serving their community.

The staff of the Heritage is a close knit group who handle the operation from their offices in the Loyalist Plaza.

Premier Opens Cembal Building

With more than 700 guests, and dignitaries such as Premier William Davis, Mayor Ben Corke of Belleville, James Taylor, minister of community and social services, and the Venerable Peter M. Tett, Archdeacon of Ontario, attending, the Cembal Building in Belleville was officially opened, Friday, June 11.

The Cembal Building, located in Belleville's North West Industrial Park, houses the Quinte Advertising Agency, Cembal Printing Limited and a web-offset press which now prints The Picton Gazette, The Amherstview Heritage, The Madoc Review, The Hastings Star, The Norwood Register, The Marmora Herald and The Havelock Citizen, all owned by Joseph Cembal.

About 80 staff members from the various companies owned by Mr. Cembal were on hand to guide visitors through the expansive plant as well as demonstrate how the machinery worked.

Premier William Davis, after cutting the ribbon to the plant, was given the opportunity to "push the button" on the five-unit press to start the printing of a special full-color cover designed specially for the opening.

In his initial speech, Premier Davis emphasized the importance of a local weekly newspaper saying community spirit is much more noticeable in an area well served by a community paper.

"The community newspaper goes a long way toward fulfilling the function of keeping our values and common aims in clear focus," he stated. "It tells us about our neighbors and our neighbors about us. We are able to share in each others triumphs and problems in a way that forges community spirit. I have found that such a spirit is invariably more noticeable in those areas that are well served by community newspapers."

"Joseph Cembal has put together an impressive array of community newspapers. I am told that together they have a combined circulation of more than 21,000 households in the areas between Peterborough and Kingston, and that all of them are printed here in this new plant," the premier continued.

"I get the sense that we are gathered here today at what might be termed the communications hub of Eastern Ontario," stated Premier Davis. "I am sure that the newspapers printed here are a vibrant force in their respective coverage areas, just as this enterprise makes a significant contribution to the health of the business community in Belleville."

Following the official party consisting of Premier Davis, Mayor Ben Corke, Warden of Prince Edward County, Jack Sprague, the Venerable Peter M. Tett, Mr. Cembal, his wife Gail and sons, Joseph Junior, Tony, Darryl and Edward, the guests were led through the plant and viewed the many offices.

The administrative and work offices are separated from the newspaper press room by a large area filled with sophisticated printing equipment. As the guests were guided through the plant employees demonstrated how the machines worked and explained the process a paper must go through before it arrives at the news stands.

While many guests milled through the plant, Premier Davis held a short press conference in the preview room where he was questioned on local issues. Mr. Davis was scheduled to appear at a festival in Western Ontario so left shortly after the plant tour.

After viewing the facilities the guests were invited to partake of a buffet style luncheon. While there, Mr. Cembal and his staff answered many questions that arose about the printing and newspaper industry.

Mr. Cembal made a special announcement at the opening of his plant of yet another affiliate, Cembal Communications Limited located at Inn on the Park in Toronto. He explained to the guests that this company would be the Toronto contact for the Cembal Printing company and would bring metropolitan business to the Quinte area.

Cembal Publications

Keith Anderson is the general manager of Cembal Publications, the company that publishes the Marmora, Madoc, Norwood, Hastings and Havelock newspapers.

Marmora Herald

The Marmora Herald was founded in 1894 to serve the village of Marmora and the adjacent township. Up to about the year 1850, Marmora township was on the fringe of settlement.

Located at the junction of highways 7 and 14, Marmora is a quiet village in the heart of holiday country on the Crowe River.

The major employer of this area is Bethlehem Steel Corporation through its Marmoraton Mines operation, located just outside the village limits.

The Herald has grown with Marmora since its founding by a Mr. Snell in 1887. The Sabine family ran the Herald for about 60 years before Jack Golden took it over. Don Mullan then purchased the newspaper followed by the present proprietor Joseph Cembal who took over publication in October, 1975.

In the early years of the Herald, the method of printing was by letterpress with type being first set by hand and later by linotype.

At present the newspaper is printed by the offset process.

In the 1960's the newspaper received an Ontario Weekly Newspapers' Association award as the "most improved" in its class and in 1974 and 1975 the Herald received an award as Best Tabloid Community Newspaper in Canada for its circulation class. Also in 1974, the Herald won an award for the Champion Correspondent for the Province of Ontario. In 1975, the Herald won a Certificate of Merit for the Best Editorial Page, and a second class award for Best Composition and Layout; Best Advertising and Best Front Page.

Madoc Review

The bustling community of Madoc is located in the quiet county of Hastings and serving this picturesque village is The Madoc Review.

The Madoc Review will be 100-years-old in the spring of 1977. In April 1877, the predecessor of The Review, The North Hastings Review published its first edition. This was printed by the letterpress process.

Even earlier the village had been served by the Madoc Mercury, founded in 1862, and this newspaper had been renamed the Madoc Mercury and North Hastings Mining News in 1867 following the Madoc Gold Rush of 1866-67.

The original owner of the Review was Col. John R. Orr, who sold the newspaper to A. H. Watson in 1912. Though still in the family, the Review changed hands again in 1924 going to J. A. Watson. It was in his control for 47 years.

According to "The Weeklies" by J. George Johnston, published by the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association in 1972, "a staff member of the North Hastings Review in Madoc, Ont., for more than sixty years, the late Ethel R. Richmond, was capable of doing 'all kinds' of typesetting and printing."

The late Hon. Sidney Smith was the Member of Parliament from the Hastings-Frontenac Riding, wherein lies Madoc. That town's paper, the North Hastings Review, once got its lines mixed. The proofreader must have dozed that day, for it was announced that it was expected that "the Hon. Sidney Smith, Minister of External Affairs" would again be "appointed Station Agent at Bannockburn."

It was in 1971 when the Review again changed hands when Maurice Goulah became the proprietor. The name was changed at this time to The Madoc Review and the method of printing the newspaper changed from letterpress to the off-set method of printing.

The newspaper was purchased by Don Mullan in 1974 and was changed from the broad sheet size to a tabloid size.

In 1975 the newspaper was purchased by Joseph Cembal and became part of Cembal Publications, publishers of four other area newspapers in Marmora, Havelock, Norwood and Hastings.

Norwood Register

The Norwood Register has been serving east Peterborough county for well over a century.

The newspaper first made its appearance on Dec. 22, 1870 and first publisher of the newspaper was Thomas Burke "an Irishman with the well-known Celtic humor judging from a few items gleaned from that first issue," according to R.A. Dean, author of "The Friendly Town."

The paper was printed on a Washington hand press and Mr. Dean records that the first copy was given to the late I.N. Ackerman who treasured it as long as he lived.

Mr. Burke was a militia captain and it is recorded that he disposed of his newspaper in 1884 to lead a company of local militia to the second Riel Rebellion in the far northwest in 1885. On his return he settled in London, Ontario.

John Harper purchased the newspaper and was just past 19 years old at the time. He commented that publishing the paper "was some hard row brother." He reportedly tried to avoid any type of political controversy although a strong tory "and he was therefore in a constant state of fear that he might step on the toes of some of his more sensitive readers, for he states 'I have known a plank culvert on the side of the street to become the cause of verbal battle between grits and tories!'"

E.T. Adair, an employee of the New York Herald purchased the newspaper in 1892 but sold it again in 1893 to a Mr. McCalley of Norwich, Ontario. McCalley reportedly got into "dutch" with local factions and sold the newspaper on July 20, 1893 to J. George Keefer, a former partner in the ownership of the Stouffville Tribune. He remained as editor and publisher the rest of his life. In 1924 a fire destroyed the building and plant and the newspaper was published in the new public library building and printed in Hastings until a new press and type could be obtained.

Mr. Keefer sold to Mark W. Bailey, a native of western Canada who operated the newspaper for 14 years selling it to J.F.S. Chevers in 1946.

The newspaper was purchased from Mr. Chever's estate by Donald Mullan in January, 1973.

The historic old newspaper was purchased by Joseph Cembal in 1975 and now has a new lease on life as one of the five offset-printed tabloid community papers published by Cembal Publications.

The Hastings Star

The Hastings Star, community newspaper for the village of Hastings was founded by Don Mullan in 1972 to fill a need for a local voice.

The village had been served earlier by other newspapers, notably The Hastings Press published by the late Jack Chever, but the newspaper was discontinued.

Hastings is a "story book" village of stately homes, beautiful churches, large old trees and is an excellent tourist area noted for fishing, boating and camping.

The village was once known as Crook's Rapids but was changed to Hastings in 1851.

The Hastings Star keeps the village and area informed on "what's happening" on the local scene.

The offset-printed tabloid newspaper is one of the five local community newspapers published by Cembal Publications.

Havelock Citizen

The Havelock Citizen newspaper was founded by Don Mullan in July, 1975 following the demise of The Havelock Standard newspaper.

Mr. Mullan felt that the village needed its local community newspaper and the reception of the residents to the new paper has been most gratifying.

In 1975 the newspaper was purchased by Joseph Cembal and the offset-printed tabloid size newspaper is now one of five published in the area by Cembal Publications.

Tourism is a prime revenue source, with excellent boating, fishing and other recreational facilities.

The village also accommodates several industries and various mines are located nearby.

Napanee Printing Service

Dave Thompson Sales Manager

Beaver, were founded by William Templeton. In 1953, Earl Morrison bought both newspaper and printing facility from the original Templeton's daughters, who were operating the properties through a hired manager. In 1972, service and newspaper parted company when the service itself was acquired by Mr. Cembal. The newspaper remained under its former ownership.

While the nature of assignments will include much of the old—printing of invoices, letterheads, brochures—the new presses and bindery facilities will mean the service soon will be taking in larger brochures and books, as well as color jobs. "We've become very competitive in the graphic arts fields," says Mr. Thompson.

Working out of two offices, one in The Napanee Beaver quarters and another in those of The Heritage, Amherstview, Mr. Thompson also offers clients "package deals".

"Due to the nature of our organization, I can offer a price for the total concept—for all the advertising and printing work.

"I find clients appreciate the total service and it certainly makes my job much easier," he says, noting clients themselves prefer the resulting simplification of arrangements.

Napanee Printing Service has always been versatile, willing to undertake projects with an unusual flavor. A reminder of this trait is the first street map of the town of Napanee—completely designed and produced by Napanee Printing.

"You name it, we'll try to do it," says Mr. Thompson.

Double the business—that's the goal the Napanee Printing Service has set for itself this year.

With the establishment of Cembal Printing Limited this year, the service, a member of the Cembal group for four years now, is expecting to add significantly to its already respectable business volume.

Until 1975, the service did all its own printing for its clients in the Kingston to Deseronto area. But the move to more modern presses prompted management to combine with the printing plants at The Picton Gazette and Cembal Printing in order to benefit from their modern equipment. "We needed to take advantage of the new offset printing methods," said owner Joseph Cembal.

The Napanee service traces its history to 1870, when both it and local newspaper, The Napanee

Joseph Cembal

As soon as he had acquired the newspaper changes started; changes intended to maintain the newspaper as the premier community voice of the county and also changes to bring the production of the newspaper completely up-to-date.

For over 140 years the newspaper had been produced by the hot-metal letterpress process. Mr. Cembal invested a great deal of money into converting the newspaper to modern offset-printing with photo-typesetting. The printing division of the company was also modernized.

As his business grew so did his ambitions and he started to expand almost immediately. For some years he had dreamed of owning an advertising agency centred in eastern Ontario and this he achieved by the creation of Quinte Advertising Agency in Belleville.

Mr. Cembal next acquired the printing department of the Napanee Beaver, renaming it Napanee Printing Services. Growth of the company then accelerated with the founding of The Heritage community newspaper in the Amherstview, Ernestown and Bath area followed by the acquisition of the five community newspapers published in Marmora, Madoc, Hastings, Norwood and Havelock.

Characteristically Joe Cembal's plans include more acquisitions because he is never satisfied with the status quo. He is a whole-hearted devotee of the free-enterprise system and he shows, that here in Canada, the free enterprise system works.

A day, regrettably, has only 24 hours in it. Hardly enough time to do the things that need to be done.

Sufficient time for most people, admittedly, but not for an ambitious, driving personality such as Joseph Cembal.

Born in Oshawa, Joe Cembal received his education in Oshawa and Toronto. He started his working career with Maclean-Hunter Company and was engaged there in many capacities, working across Ontario and for 30-months in British Columbia.

Mr. Cembal is married to the former Patricia Gail Terry of Oshawa, whose ancestors formed part of the original survey team sent to Prince Edward County. They have four sons, Joseph, Anthony, Darryl and Edward.

It was in 1972 when Mr. Cembal's ambitions crystallized in the purchase of The Picton Gazette, Canada's oldest community newspaper, from the late Lindley Calnan. The twice-a-week newspaper and printing plant formed the nucleus of his rapidly-expanding communications network of today.

You're taking your newspaper for granted.

This paper reached your hands only because a lot of people worked hard to put it there—not just the newsboys.

There were newsmen all over the world. Reporters at home. Feature writers and editors. Cartoonists. Pressmen. Even telephone operators and truck drivers.

We were in on it too. Abitibi supplied the newsprint this paper was printed on.

We all helped make the newspaper available to you. Exactly when and where you were expecting to find it.

And while the news you read today will be old news tomorrow, there will always be a newspaper to record those changes.

Always timely. Always inexpensive. Always just what you're looking for.

This newspaper has been part of the community for many years.

And on this, the opening of their new plant facilities, we wish to join in wishing Cembal Communications and their papers many years of success.

This just isn't an ordinary store

The Mustard Seed has just opened its doors last week. Welcoming people to the new store is Nicola Thompson, co-organizer with student Kevin Bray.

The MustardSeed. What is it? It's a store, but not just an ordinary store.

Located in the old police office, on St. Lawrence St., The Mustard Seed has just completed its first week of operations.

It's a specialty store, described Nicola Thompson, who is one of the two operators of the store. The Mustard Seed sells or loans Christian books, pamphlets and other material, said Miss Thompson.

Miss Thompson, along with another Centre Hastings Secondary School student, Kevin Bray, started The Mustard Seed because "there was a need for this type of store."

The two students initially wanted to open a coffee house style of store, but the premises were not available. "We have no financial backing," she said, so renting space was impossible.

The students received permission to use the old police office at the last monthly meeting of village council, said Miss Thompson.

Miss Thompson said it is hard to find a summer job in Madoc, but "One could say, I created my own."

Along with selling Christian books, The Mustard Seed also specializes in the selling of records, posters, bumper-stickers, all on a Christian theme. Most of the items, said Miss Thompson, came from the Fish and Dove store in Belleville.

Miss Thompson explained another feature of The Mustard Seed. The store is trying to set up a loan system for books much like a library but not "as strict of a system, though."

If anyone wishes to donate books to be loaned, Miss Thompson said she would like to have them. "We need more books to loan."

This is the first year a store of this nature has been started, she said. Presently it is just for the summer, but it may continue through the fall on weekends.

Miss Thompson and Mr. Bray plan to return to high school into Grade 13 this fall.

The Mustard Seed may open full time next summer with help from a Christian group at CHSS known as Lighthouse, Miss Thompson said.

The store is "something to contribute to the community," she said.

Store hours may be irregular for the next week or so, because both Miss Thompson and Mr. Bray will be instructing at a Vacation Bible School from June 28 through until July 9, but it will have regular hours throughout the duration of the summer.

Request pole removal

Ken Tompkins, Township Road Superintendent, reported to Huntingdon Township Council, June 10:

It was moved by Pollock, and seconded by Miller, that the Township of Huntingdon request the moving of poles by Bell Canada in Lot 12, Concession 6, at an estimated cost of $150 to the Township. It was passed.

A letter was received by Huntingdon Township council from the ministry of transportation and communications, enclosed with a plan showing the proposed improvements to the intersection of the Township Road north of Roslin and Highway 37.

It was moved by Miller and seconded by Pollock that the Township approve the proposed reconstruction by MTC of the northern entrance to Roslin as shown on a submitted plan and requests that the Township Road Superintendent be notified prior to the start of construction." The motion passed.

The cost to property owners for entrances to private properties be estimated by the Township Road Superintendent on a basis of time and material", council decided.

Over 90 graduate Madoc Public School

It was graduation day for over 90 students at Madoc Public School, Friday, June 25.

Parents, teachers and students gathered in the school's gymnasium for the evening event.

The exercises started with remarks from the school's principal, John Murphy. He then introduced Loreen Connor, Florence McCoy, Aleatha Woods, Marg Derry and Margaret Wright.

There were three valedictorian addresses, one from a student in each graduating class.

Special assignment completes school year

Students at Madoc Public School from the Grade Seven class of Mr. Dilabough had a special type of assignment to complete their school year.

About 25 assignments were given to conduct interviews with local merchants, write a report, and then tell the class.

About 70 students were involved comprising two classes, said Mr. Dilabough.

The students made visits to several establishments such as the talc mine, a funeral home, dry good store, and others, he said.

This is one way of introducing the students to the town, he said.

Another aspect of the assignment was to show that the school is active in the community, said Mr. Dilabough.

This is "rewarding to the students," he said. They learn how to deal with people outside the school environment.

This is not the first time such an assignment was given. About three years ago, another group of students did a similar task also for Mr. Dilabough.

Out of the total number of assignments, Mr. Dilabough has chosen eight assignments done by the students for publication in The Review. These, said Mr. Dilabough, are excellent.

The first story was written by Lonny Smith and John Curtis who interviewed Larry Stickwood, the owner of Stick-

Stickwood's Dry Goods store

Editor's Note: The following was an assignment done by Len Smith and John Curtis, two grade seven students of Mr. Dillabough of Madoc Public School.

The students had an assignment to interview local merchants about the history of their stores.

This is the first in a series of eight which will be published each week.

By LONNY SMITH and JOHN CURTIS

The Stickwood's Dry Goods store was started in 1935 and was bought by Larry Stickwood in 1970 from his father. The business has been in progress for 41 years. Eight years ago Mr. Stickwood felt that Madoc needed a fabric shop, so he remodelled the second floor of his store and opened it for business in May.

When he was young, he started to participate in the business helping his father and liked it enough to choose it for his career. He enjoys his work and has many other hobbies such as director on the board of COPE. He tries to be friendly and courteous with his customers.

Mr. Stickwood does not have trouble finding people to work in his store but he sometimes has to wait awhile to find the one that he feels is best. Manufacturing representatives come to the store and show him their samples. Sometimes they set up sample rooms in hotels or motels and then sometimes he goes to Toronto and purchases merchandise from wholesalers.

Mr. Stickwood tries to keep his goods at a sensible price for his customers. When the sales tax first appeared on the scene, he found it quite confusing but once he got used to it it became easier. The only problem is that the clerical work is quite time consuming.

Manufacturers such as Sisman, Ritchie, Savage and Bata footwear supply Mr. Stickwood with his stock. H. Brown Silk and Co. supply him with fabrics; they are the largest suppliers in Canada.

Mr. Stickwood has much competition with the stores in Madoc but it is all friendly and without them business would not be as good.

Mr. Stickwood says that the store has been located at three different locations but with each move it has become larger.

Mr. Stickwood says that probably every businessman hopes secretly that their children will carry on the business in the family name, but in the same token, it is the children's decision.

The Mustard Seed is a new store which just opened its doors this past week. There is a story on the front page concerning the store. It is an interesting place which offers select items for sale. The store itself may be small but size isn't everything. The Mustard Seed specializes in Christian books, and other information. This includes posters, records and bumper stickers.

Some of these posters or bumper stickers might disgust some people, but this is just part of the changing aspect of religion in this society.

Thinking back to my involvement with the church, there has been, what some would term, radical changes. Some of the changes have dealt with the ceremony to a drastic change in policy in allowing women to preach from the pulpit.

Not all these changes get the entire approval of everyone but nothing ever gets 100 percent approval.

With the society changing, the church as part of this society has to change along with it or face possible closure.

The Mustard Seed is just one example of how religion is changing its shape to meet the needs of the community and society.

Though not backed by any one church, The Mustard Seed provides information for anyone. Nicola Thompson, along with Kevin Bray, started the Mustard Seed for the summer. Miss Thompson said, she hopes to continue the store during the fall on the weekends as long as there is time for her high school studies.

Both Miss Thompson and Mr. Bray are students at Centre Hastings Secondary School and belong to the Christian group there called 'Lighthouse'.

Another group of people without whose help The Mustard Seed would not have gotten off of the ground, is the village council who allowed the use of the old police office for the store.

The Mustard Seed - it may be small, but with the cooperation of many, it should grow.

The Blind Persons' Rights Act becomes law on July 1, 1976.

Here's what the new law says and how Ontario residents can help.

This new Act provides that a blind person accompanied by a dog guide has the same rights, privileges and obligations—with respect to public places—as anyone else. He or she cannot be discriminated against or denied any accommodation, services or facilities available in any place to which the public is customarily admitted.

It is important that dog guide owners know their rights under the Act and that the public, especially employers and their employees, be made aware of the provisions of the Act and their responsibilities under it.

The Attorney General of Ontario will issue identification cards to dog guide owners. The card will carry a photograph of the owner and dog, as well as their names, and will also carry a summary of the main features of the Act.

This event was held in the Deloro Community Centre which was decorated with flowers of blue and gold, the colours of Loyalist College.

Graduation ceremonies followed the dinner. June Rickard, co-ordinator of Health Services Extension Division, Loyalist College, and her husband Philip were honoured guests. There were thirteen in the graduating class.

Mrs. Rickard brought greetings and congratulatory messages from Loyalist College and presented each girl with her diploma. Pins and flowers were presented to each graduate by Elizabeth Horvath, director of Nurses, C.H.N.H. assisted by the instructor, Eleanor Bicknell, RN, C.P.H.N.

Mrs. Horvath then congratulated the girls on the successful completion of this course. Eleanor Bicknell proposed a toast and Lu-Anne King, on behalf of the class, replied to the toast.

Following the ceremonies, the "Westernaires" Band provided music for dancing during the remainder of the evening.

On June 23, a capping ceremony and presentation took place at C.H.N.H. Mrs. Eleanor Bicknell presented each girl with her cap. At this time the graduating class presented a statue to C.H.N.H. in appreciation for the use of the facilities of the Home during the last 22 weeks. Father T.G. They're pushing milk!

In recognition of Dairy Month, Hastings County Milk Committee has been telling the public about their product.

The Milk Producers participated in the Hospital Trade Fair at Zwick's Island on June 13.

Highlight of the day was a milking contest between three local dignitaries - the Chairman of the Hospital Board, the Mayor of Belleville and the Hastings County Warden. It is believed the hospital chairman was the winner, milking an Ayrshire cow owned by Gerald Tummon of RR 2, Roslin. The other cows displayed were contributed by Lorne Jarrell, RR 6, Belleville; two calves from the Tummon herd drew a lot of attention from the children.

Visitors were treated with samples of cheddar cheese from Maple Dale Cheese Factory of Plainfield.

As another event in Dairy Month, a display will be set up in the Quinte Mall from June 24 to 26. The Hastings County Dairy Princess, Diane Jarrell is hostess at these events.

Church filled for anniversary

When the Reverend William Patterson celebrated the 35th Anniversary of his ordination recently the Cataraqui United Church was filled to capacity.

The Westbrook congregation united with the Cataraqui United Church congregation for the day and representatives of most of Mr. Patterson's former charges took part.

His congregation planned the event as a surprise celebration and he, the choir and the session were piped into the service by Earl Smith.

Members of his former congregations travelled from as far away as North Bay, Noranda, Ottawa, Chatham, Lindsay and Madoc, to take part.

A number of congregational leaders also sent their greetings. Mr. Patterson was presented by his congregation with a cheque to cover the cost of two tickets by air to India for himself and his wife, Thea.

MADOC LAWN BOWLING CLUB

Percy Naylor, 89, president of the Madoc Lawn Bowling Club shows acting president Jack Booth his lawn bowling technique.

Hagerman spoke; Maureen Cassidy addressed the crowd of about 150 people from Mrs. Armstrong's class; and Ross Spatola from Mr. Browning's class also spoke to the crowd gathered.

There were two awards presented: one for music, and another for the greatest improved student.

Brent McCoy received the award for the greatest improved student. The award is in memory of Catherine Lahey.

The Fay Aylsworth Trophy, for the student showing outstanding ability in music was given to Lorie Reid.

The presentation of certificates followed with 91 students receiving this award.

The ceremony concluded with the entire graduating class singing two songs, Am I True To Myself? and Come Sing a Song of Joy.

A dance for the students ended the evening.

program for a grant. The application was passed and the grant received.

The reason for the application was to obtain funds to renovate the grounds and clubhouse so that senior citizens of the area could use the building as a drop-in centre to meet other people. They could also have light refreshments, play cards or just chew the rag and relax in a nice atmosphere at no charge to themselves, said acting president, Jack Booth. Instruction will be given for those that are able and would like to try a little bowling. Group bowling will be set up if enough interest is shown, he said.

With the work nearly complete with the exception of some exterior painting, the building opened Thursday, June 24, on week days from 1.30 p.m. to 4.30 p.m. carrying into October as weather permits.

Mr. Booth said, proper attire, cleanliness and careful use of the facilities will be the only restrictions and will be rigidly enforced for the benefit of everyone.

Along with the renovations much needed equipment was purchased for the upkeep of the green so that more use could be made of it. Along with the blessings of the New Horizon directors, Mr. Booth said, a youth program will be set up as time and conditions permit.

The Golden Age group expressed thanks to Jim Daniels, Archie Pitts and Jim Byers of Tweed for the work they did on this project.

The group also hope the senior citizens of the area use the facilities to their fullest.

Black liquor on road could pollute water

Correspondence was received by Huntingdon Township Council, June 10, from the Ministry of environment drawing attention to the fact that waste black liquor used as a dust suppressant on Township roads can pollute drinking water supplies, streams and rivers. The letter advised that by improper use of the material the Township could be liable for civil damages as well as possible prosecution under the Ontario Water Resources Act.

County museum hunting photo equipment

A search for old cameras, photographs, and photographic equipment is being conducted by the Historic Hastings Program of the Hastings County Museum.

An exhibition concerning early local photography in Hastings County is being prepared by Jane Sledge, a member of the Historic Hastings team.

The purpose of the exhibit is to present a view of Hastings County as seen through the eyes of early photographers, to understand the methods and equipment they used. Parts of the exhibition will travel around the exhibition circuit which encompasses nine towns within the County, being shown in cases which are situated in various city halls, libraries and banks. Photographs of past scenes, people and events show us how little or how much has changed.

The museum would like to supplement their own collection and that of Howard Aselstine, to whom this show is a memorial tribute with other pertinent photography equipment.

The exhibition will open July 11. The museum will be interested in receiving enquiries by writing Jane Sledge at the Hastings County Museum, 257 Bridge St. E., Belleville, Ont. or by telephoning, 962-2329.

Visit to nursing home is included learned when she was going to school and then Leo Doyle sang a song. Following this the members visited with the residents. Thanks were extended to Charlie Cronk-wright for the lawn chairs.

Mul-lan it over...

with Don Mullan

EVER PLAY the one-armed bandits? Las Vegas, Nev., is famous for them. They're the slot machines in which you place some money, pull a handle, and hope the right combination of pictures come up to give you a payoff.

We haven't had the opportunity to play such a machine, but the coin grabbers around the area remind us of them because every so often they also give little or nothing in return.

FOR INSTANCE, did you ever put a nickel into a parking meter and get no time?

Or a quarter into a coffee machine and get only hot water?

Or 85 cents into a cigarette machine and get no smokes?

TIME AND TIME again over the years we've had it happen to us but, fortunately, not lately.

Not so one family we know, however. The lady of the house informs me her family got stuck twice during the past week.

First, her 11-year-old daughter put a quarter into a slot machine at a recreational centre, but got no action. Someone told her, after, that the machine didn't work.

"Shouldn't there be a refund or an out-of-order sign?" she asks.

LATER THE WOMAN'S husband went to a car wash and put his coins into a machine to vacuum his car. It didn't work either. And guess who got stuck vacuuming the car when hubby returned home?

"These machines are collecting people's money, and offering nothing in return," notes the woman. "They are cheating the public!"

AH, YES... well it might be. But machines, like humans, can make mistakes. And they do break down.

Most machine owners or operators we've come across are happy to make refunds when told of the incidents. If any don't, they should!

IT WAS JUST over the weekend we popped a couple of quarters into a machine in order to wash our car - yup, you've guessed it, we didn't get our water.

Moments later, however, our car was clean again - the manager had given us an additional quarter, which he called "magic", and it activated the machine that turned on the water that enabled us to get on with the job.

ANOTHER TIME we were at a service centre on Highway 401 awaiting a turn to buy a pop, when suddenly, the machine went crazy.

Instead of giving somebody a nickel, it gave nickel after nickel after nickel, just as fast as it could spit it out.

IT LOOKED very much like a Vegas payoff...or at least as close as one could come to it in this province.

Financial aid plan

Communities faced with the problem of how to repair or replace unsafe arenas have been offered a high level of support by the Ontario government.

Robert Welch, Minister of Culture and Recreation announced yesterday the Ontario government's financial aid plan. The government will pay 25 per cent of repairs up to $75,000. Further aid up to 25 per cent more in a matching grant to be given any community which raises up to 25 percent of the cost will come from Wintario funds.

Cooking...

...with Betty Thain

Several years ago, I clipped this clam chowder recipe from a newspaper and am very thankful I did, for I use it often. It is extremely filling, and served with hot biscuits and a salad makes a lovely luncheon.

CLAM CHOWDER (serves 6 generously)

4 strips of bacon chopped
1 small onion chopped
2 stalks celery chopped
1/2 green pepper chopped
1 clove garlic minced
1/2 bay leaf
two 10-ounce tins whole baby clams plus liquid
1/2 cup water
2 cups diced potatoes, raw

1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup oil
1/4 cup flour
1/2 cup 18 per cent cream
2 cups milk

To a large pot add bacon, onion, celery, green pepper and garlic and saute gently for five minutes stirring often. Add the bay leaf, the liquid from the canned clams, the water, diced potatoes, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper and simmer until potatoes are barely tender. Combine oil and flour and stir into chowder until thick. Add clams, cream and milk, bring to boil. If you can find the bay leaf, fish it out.

Serve hot in preheated soup cups. Garnish with fresh parsley, chives or red pimento.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Robby is seven, a handsome boy with brown hair, dark eyes, medium complexion and a winning smile. He looks like a lovable, impish, happy boy which he is most of the time, though he has occasional stubborn, unco-operative moods.

In good health, Robby is hyperactive for which he is on medication. That is considered necessary only on school days. At weekends and holidays he can tire himself out running and climbing.

Because of a perceptual handicap which causes him to see things backwards, Robby has some difficulties in grade one. But he likes school and looks forward to going. He will probably do better in a special class where the teacher has time to give each student individual attention. He may continue to need special education.

To inquire about adopting Robby, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. In your letter tell something of your present family and your way of life.

For general adoption information, contact your local Children's Aid Society.

AN ACTIVE YOUNGSTER

Macdonald to replace Trudeau?

OTTAWA—(SF)—By the time Parliament finishes this current session Canadians will have seen the longest session since Confederation. It's been two years since the last election, and yet we've had but one Throne Speech, one bout of government legislation.

For Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, it's been a politically disastrous two years. He began in triumph, having converted a shaky minority government into majority in the 1974 election, but his popularity has gone steadily down hill ever since.

The Prime Minister won that 1974 majority for the Liberals virtually single handedly. It was a case of the PM's image being far better than the party image. He was the best thing the Liberals had going for them, and his caucus members freely acknowledged the fact.

Then came price and wage controls, the anti-inflation board, a series of scandals, and escalating inflation, with unemployment riding higher than ever.

The opposition Progressive Conservatives enjoyed the national exposure of convention hoopla, as they named Joe Clark to be their new leader, and suddenly, Pierre Trudeau, the old man of Canadian national political leaders, got hammered in the public opinion polls. Less than half the people in the country now feel he is doing a good job as prime minister.

Liberals are famous for the political pragmatism. Policy doesn't seem to matter half as much as winning, and neither do leaders, if it comes right down to it. That's why there have been growing rumbles from Liberals about a switch in leadership.

Six months ago there would not have been any doubt who the Liberal party would have named to succeed Pierre Trudeau—John Turner, the crown prince, would have walked away with the top slot.

Now things aren't so definite. In fact, after the May budget, and the new professional coolness displayed by Finance Minister Donald Macdonald, the big grit from Rosedale looks like a remarkably attractive package.

There are those who are betting Pierre Trudeau will leave the Liberal leadership before the next election. I'd say there's about a fifty-fifty chance of that happening, and if it does, I'd pick Don Macdonald to replace him.

One foot in the furrow' by Bob Trotter

Letters are appreciated by Bob Trotter, Eldale Rd. Elmira, Ont. N3B 2C7

The CBC got skunked. So did the writer of One Foot in the Furrow, mind you, as did Jim Romahn of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record, probably the most knowledgeable — and prolific — farm writer in Canada.

Jack Burghardt, a television personality from London, Ont., was the winner with some fancy pork tenderloin.

It just shows to go you that television people, because they are in front of the camera all the time, are usurping the places usually taken by the print medium.

I'm talking about the King of Hams competition held in mid-June at the annual Ontario Pork Congress in Stratford. Burghardt cooked a delicious meal and had a fancy salad to go with it. The three judges in the contest felt the tenderloin was better than the ribs cooked by three of the contestants, two of them from the CBC.

I thought I had it made, mind you. I had three courses prepared: bacon soup, a beautiful salad and then, the piece de resistance, ham on yam. But the yam wasn't cooked. It was still hard in the middle.

The judges also knocked me down a few points because I used canned ham instead of the real thing.

But all three courses had pork in them. The soup is made with milk, creamed corn and small pieces of pre-cooked bacon and it is delicious. I even threw a few pieces of bacon into the cabbage salad.

And I parboiled that damned yam for 30 minutes the night before. At the King of Hams cookout, I placed succulent slices of pineapple on the yam and then placed the ham steaks on top, sprinkled it all with pineapple juice and a touch of wine, wrapped it all tightly in tinfoil and barbecued it.

Stupid sweet potatoes!

I know that's what caused my downfall even though a writer from the Last Post, a radical political magazine, said he thought the whole thing was rigged in favor of the TV stars. Personally, I don't think the organizers of the Ontario Pork Congress would bribe the judges. Those radical political writers accused them unjustly.

What upset the Ontario pork producers a great deal more, I'll wager, were the accusations made by one of the

Of a second-place animal, he said: "I don't know why I came 400 miles to look at that. Take her out of the ring."

He was critical of the quality in Canadian hogs — and most of them in the U.S., too — because they are too fat although he added that it is ridiculous for consumers to worry about cholesterol when research indicates that 95 to 97 per cent of all cholesterol in the human body is manufactured by the body, not eaten.

It is, of course, easy for a Yankee to come up here and tell Canadians they can't grow good pork. A number of breeders attending the congress agreed with Funderberg although they were slightly miffed because the hogs he so caustically condemned were later sold by auction. Owners feared his comments would ruin the auction prices paid.

Canadian meat packers, apparently, just won't accept a move to heavier market weights now common in the United States. The trend in the Excited States is to shipping weights of about 240 pounds, a good 40 pounds heavier than the average 200 here in Ontario. Ontario hogs, said Funderberg, lack size and scale and tend to become too fat at the 200-pound mark.

Something to think about for Canadian breeders.

A decade ago Canadian breeders were saying Canada had the best hog grading system in the world. They stuck with it, too, but perhaps a reevaluation is necessary now. Canada must compete agriculturally in a North American market, particularly in hogs and beef. If breeders do not heed the warnings coming from outspoken men such as William Funderberg, they may be left with nothing but the squeal in international markets.

I guess I tried too hard in the King of Hams barbecue, though. I even tried to get the sympathy vote. I had been thrown from my horse a week before the cookout and had a cracked rib and a sprained wrist. I prominently displayed the taped ribs and the wrapped wrist but the judges of the barbecue were interested only in good cooking.

The pork tenderloin came off better than the ham on yam.

New regulations restrict boats canoes entering Algonquin's interior

New regulations restricting daily quotas on canoes and boats entering the interior of Algonquin Park, as well as limiting the length of stay will be in effect from June 25 to September 5, Natural Resources Minister Leo Bernier announced today.

"The regulations will place a maximum daily quota ranging from five to 180 on the number of canoes and boats entering the interior through 31 access points," Mr. Bernier said.

"The length of stay will be limited to 28 consecutive days in the park, 16 consecutive days on any interior campsite and to one night only in a campsite on certain heavily used lakes."

At the same time, the Ministry is limiting to nine the number of people camping overnight on an interior campsite. It is also restricting the caching of motor boats and canoes throughout the park except at four locations on Opeongo Lake. These regulations are effective immediately and will be enforced year round.

"During the past two years, we have made every effort to inform the public about these regulations," Mr. Bernier said. "In 1975, every interior park user was given a brochure outlining the regulations to be effective this year."

"I would also advise people to check with the Park Information Centre on quotas regarding access points to avoid disappointment," Mr. Bernier added.

These regulations are the outcome of recommendations from an advisory committee representing all major public interest groups which were part of the Algonquin Master Plan, tabled in the Ontario Legislature in 1974.

"The number of people using the interior of Algonquin Park has doubled in the last five years to more than 65,000 in 1975," the Minister said. "Controls, such as these, are essential to help preserve Algonquin's reputation as a world famous recreation area."

SOPHA - In loving memory of my dear mother, Helga, who passed away April 1, 1955, and my dear father Ivan, who passed away June 27, 1964.
We mention your names
And speak of you often,
God bless you dear Mom and Dad,
You are not forgotten.
Sadly missed and always remembered by son Stephen, daughter-in-law Sheila, and grandsons Rodney and Ivan.

CASSALMAN - In loving memory of a loving mother and grandmother, Marjorie Ellen Cassalman, who passed away June 28, 1974.

Calm and peaceful she is sleeping,
Sweetest rest that follows pain,
We who loved her, sadly miss her;
But trust in God
To meet again.

Sadly missed by Rosetta, son-in-law David and grandchildren, Stephen, Sherri, Kim, Lori, Jimmy and Michael.

PHILLIPS - In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Larry, who was killed in a car accident one year ago, July 4th, 1975.
The gates of Heaven opened

You gently slipped away,
You couldn't say good-bye to us,
Perhaps it's just as well,
We never could have said good-bye
To the one we loved so well,
I guess God needed an angel
To set upon his throne.

He looked and saw one special person
So he called him to come home
We know the day will come,
We'll join you in that land,
And walk the peaceful valleys
Holding our dear son's hand.
Always lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Mom and Dad, brother Brian, sister Sharon and nephew Cory.

HAROLD A. FRANK, who passed away July 5th, 1969.
Always remembered and sadly missed by wife Helen.

CASSALMAN - In loving memory of my dear wife, Marjorie Cassalman, who passed away June 28, 1974.
Your life was taken from me, one bright and sunny day
And had cast a shadow in a most frightening way.
Still today, a shadow reappears,
A shadow of love, and memories held so dear.

A life of misery and pain you were in,
God saw you suffering and so took you in.
My love for you is still strong in my heart,
And will never fade, even though, death,
we did part.

Sadly missed by your loving husband
John F. Cassalman.

CASSALMAN - In loving memory of mother & grandmother, Marjorie Ellen Cassalman, who passed away June 28, 1974.

We seem to see in the soft dim light
A face we love the best;

Recalling her as the sun's last rays
Go down in the far off west.
We miss her, more as time goes on,
We can never close our hearts;
And the lamp of our love still burns.
Her heart the truest in all the world,
Her love the best to recall;
None on earth could take her place.
She is still the dearest of all.

Deeply missed by Charlotte & son-in-law Jim & daughter-in-law Susan & Becky & son-in-law Clarence and grandchildren.

ROSE - In loving memory of our dear loved one, Nelson Earl, who left us June 28, 1968.

Eight years ago to-day since you were called away.
Our lips cannot tell how we miss him,
Our hearts cannot tell what to say
God alone knows how we miss him,
In our homes that are lonely to-day.
Loved and ever remembered by his family.

THOMAS - In loving memory of a dear husband, Jack, who passed away July 6, 1968.
And while he lies in peaceful sleep,
His memory I shall always keep.
Sadly missed by Dorna.

Bill Smiley

The thin line between being a hero and a bum!

By BILL SMILEY

AS WE all know, especially those who have ever engaged in sports, there's a very thin line between being a hero and being a bum.

One day you're at bat, three runs behind, three runners on base, the count three and two, and you smash a home run. Two days later, in exactly the same situation, you strike out. Same man, exactly. First time, you are cheered to the echo. Second time, you are booed out of the park.

I'd like to report that most of the time, my wife thinks I'm a hero. But this column has always been noted for a dedication to veracity. Most of the time she thinks I'm a bum.

Not just an ordinary bum. I quote: "Bill Smiley, you are a lazy, procrastinating bum!"

Don't think I just sit there and take it. Oh, no. I point out with some gusto that she's never held a steady job in her life, except as a mother and housewife, that no guy who teaches all day and runs an English department with 10 teachers in it, and writes a weekly column, can be called lazy.

But it seems we're not talking about the same lazy. She's talking about evading, short of anything worse than a threat of death, cleaning up the basement rather than playing golf. I'm talking about the higher things in life.

As far as the "procrastinating" goes, I'll admit, honestly and openly, that I procrastinate.

But only in a limited way. I am not an across-the-board procrastinator.

I'll confess that, from time to time, on certain occasions, I have been known, all things considered, by some suspicious people, who are themselves too aggressive, to procrastinate.

But the third term in that pejorative remark, "bum," I will not accept, not even from the Old Battleaxe.

A bum is one of two things: a rear end; a person who refuses to work. I am not the former, though I have a few enemies who would question it. I am not the latter. I have worked since I was a strip-ling. But I started work cleaning out lavatories, and I don't intend to finish work cleaning up the basement.

All this is merely preamble to the happy note of this column. Last weekend, for almost 72 hours, with only a couple of relapses, my wife thought I was a hero, not a bum.

It was time for one of our semi-annual safaris to the city. These are usually pretty ghastly. I talk vaguely about going to a good hotel, seeing a couple of top shows, and eating a gourmet dinner or two in posh restaurants. She thinks it's all set.

Comes the weekend. I've forgotten all about it. The trunk of the car has sprung from backing into a telephone pole. No hotel reservation. You couldn't get a ticket to that special show if your initials were P.E.T. And we have to stand in line for an hour for that gourmet grub, which is one step better than the local greasy spoon, and eight times as costly.

Relations are strained. We go back to our second-rate hotel, burping garlic which has covered a multitude of culinary sins, and sulkily watch a TV show that we saw, as a re-run, last November.

But this time. Ah, this time. It was like a honeymoon. A week before, driven by who knows what buried guilt, I sneaked to the telephone one evening, and laid everything on. Best hotel in the city. Room overlooking the lake. Tickets for two shows. Dinner reservations. Next day I got the car washed and gassed. Sneaked away early from work.

The Old Girl couldn't believe it. Everything worked. They hadn't screwed up our reservations for once. Traffic was murderous, but only one bus driver really went out of his way to get us. The shows were terrific. Dinners were excellent, no waiting.

And the weather was splendid. I think His Awesomeness had finally decided to let poor old Bill Smiley be something other than a bum, at least for 72 hours.

As I sat on the 26th floor, looking over the lake, while my wife was shopping next morning, and wondered what the poor people were doing today, I couldn't help thinking that God was in His heaven, for once, and all was right with the world.

Samantha READS YOUR STARS

If you were born this week: You are quite perceptive and have more than a smidgen of E.S.P. Your approach to life is intense and you live every experience to the hilt. You make the best of friends and the worst of enemies. You enjoy digging for answers. 'Why' is one of your favorite questions.

ARIES (3/21-4/19): Avoid excesses this week. Aries. Take up a domestic slack in an imaginative way. Expect a flurry of change at work/project. If it doesn't occur fast enough for you, Sam's sure you'll prod the situation. Week collapses with laughter.

TAURUS (4/20-5/20): Rash behavior is too itchy to put up with, dear one, so don't. Look for several notes to arrive. One from an old friend, and one asking for a hand-out. Later, a day of reckoning draws closer.

GEMINI (5/21-6/20): For once in your self-confident life, you may find yourself needing reassurance. The key, Gem, is to stop hiding your light under that bushel basket. Watch for news about an older man and for an unusual answer to a problem. Latter days chime in with hugs and kisses.

MOONCHILD (6/21-7/22): Take right bait and tackle along on fishing trip. Moon-baby. Caution: don't throw a catch back just 'cause it's not what you expected. To paraphrase a cliché, you can't necessarily tell a fish by its scales. Later, compliments rush to your (all)ure.

LEO (7/23-8/22): Tug of war develops between duty and desire. You may want to chuck the whole thing and move on, but remember, Leo, there are hidden bonuses to staying. Romance surprises you and you end week juggling appointments.

VIRGO (8/23-9/22): Stick around home to receive Cupid's call. Be forthright and firm about your position on certain important matters. Don't pussyfoot around. (Suburban Features)

Virgo. Later, a lovers' quandary and a secret promise to consider.

LIBRA (9/23-10/23): Swingin' summer puts you in mood to prowl. Libby. Spicy suggestions may come from a swashbuckling Sagittarius. Then, stop by home base to check the score. Week flips out with topsy-turvy love.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22): Week has whirling dervish aspects. Scorp. A close friend can be your stabilizer. Make call before you get too dizzy to dial. Later, mail from far away brings a smile. Week teeters off.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21): The password of the week should be cooperation. Mutual benefits are tops. Sag. Do let it be known that your plans are not pie in the sky dreams. Partner will take it from there. Later, Ma Belle tangles with an electrifying conversation.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/19): Aphrodite serves a romantic smorgasbord. Don't stuff yourself on the hors d'oeuvres when the entrees are even more scrumptious! Then, toot your own horn a bit, other person needs to be impressed. Cap.

AQUARIUS (1/20-2/19): Obligations to meet this week. Aquarius. They may not be your idea of fun and games, but they should be seen to anyway. Social scene is set for both romantic and business contacts. Make it.

PISCES (2/10-3/20): Love splashes in. Waterbaby, join the fun. Heed words of wisdom from someone you respect but don't really like. Look for a head-heart conflict and be very honest with yourself as you weigh it.

Camping Family Style BY ANGELA AND FORD BOTHWELL

Recreational vehicle campers can generally survive any kind of adverse weather conditions, but what do you do if you're tent camping and it rains? If your tent is in good shape and you have a dining fly and the right rain gear, there's no reason you can't ride out even a lengthy rain.

It doesn't have to spoil your fun either. The kids can play games under the fly, you can break out a good book, you can sit and chat with camping neighbors or you can even go for a walk in the rain. You'll see the woods in a different light and probably spot more animals, since the rain will muffle the sound of your footsteps.

There's nothing wrong, either, with sightseeing in the nearest town, visiting some local tourist attractions, going to a movie or eating dinner at a restaurant.

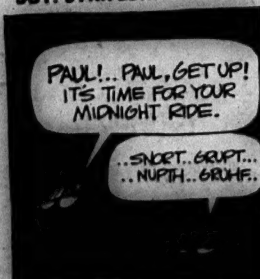

Get a weather report to determine when the rain is due to end. Should you get a total rainout, fold or roll the tent loosely and dry it out thoroughly as soon as you're able. Mildew destroys the fabric, and a tent stored wet for any lengthy period of time won't have a long life expectancy.

In such a rainout, it's not cheating to pull into a motel for a night, shower, dry out and make use of a nearby laundromat with dryers. We've all had nights like that.

Should you stay, slacken the tent lines a little to ease the strain on the tent fabric should it shrink slightly. If it does, don't be alarmed. It simply means the porous fibers are expanding to seal out the rain; the fabric will return to its original shape when it dries.

Behind the Seams BY PEGGY BENDEL

I weighed our grandmother's purse once. I don't remember the exact tonnage, but it was impressive. Inside, she carried everything from a can opener to a dry sponge (pressed flat—it could be re-hydrated to meet an emergency). She and I are of opposite camps, for I depend upon pockets to carry the necessities and niceties required for the day. I find I'm always adding pockets to patterns now, and the apparent reason is that a great many patterns omit pockets to simplify the sewing. If you're of like mind concerning the basic worth of pockets, here are some ways to work them into your sewing.

In essence, there are three types of pockets: patch, in-seam, and slash. The last type, which includes the familiar welt pocket, is similar to a giant buttonhole, with a pouch behind it. It's admittedly an advanced bit of sewing, best left to the tailoring buffs.

Adding patch pockets is easy. As the name suggests, this is a separate piece of fabric, usually a rectangle or rounded-off square, stitched onto the garment around three sides, like a mending patch. To make your own patch pockets, make your own pattern (add a hem allowance at the top and seam allowances around the other sides), or use one from another pattern style. Place them anywhere you like on your garments, but keep in mind patch pockets, by nature, are a casual sort of thing and might look out of place on some clothing.

Of course, you can dress up patch pockets identical twins, cut a cardboard template the size of the pocket minus seam and hem allowances.
